SURRENDERS ON SCHEDULE

Ellsberg Admits Giving Secrets

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Daniel Ellsberg surrendered to federal authorities today and told about 150 persons that he provided the New York Times with secret Pentagon papers on the Vietnam war and said "I am prepared for all consequences."

Ellsberg is charged in federal warrants with unauthorized possession of top-secret United States government documents and failure to return them.

Ellsberg told a group of cheering well wishers outside federal court building here that in the fall of 1969 he presented the Senate foreign relations committee "information contained in the so-called Pentagon papers."

Arm-in-arm with his attractive wife and carrying a briefcase, Ellsberg said:

"After 9,000 more Americans had died, I could only regret that I had not at that same time released that information to the American public.

"I have done so now.

"I took the action on my own initiative. I felt as an American citizen—as a responsible citizen—I could no longer co-operate with concealing this information from the American people. I am prepared for all consequences."

Ellsberg, 40, a former Pentagon researcher and currently a research associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, had been sought unsuccessfully by the FBI during the weekend.

At an hour-long hearing before U.S. Magistrate Peter Prinei, Ellsberg was ordered released on $50,000 non-surety bond.

Prinei set July 15 for a probable cause hearing.

The government, represented by Assistant U.S. Attorney Lawrence P. Cohen, had asked that Ellsberg be held on $100,000 bond because of the "severity of the crime charged."

The warrant for Ellsberg was issued late Friday night in Los Angeles where a grand jury investigated the leak of the documents.

Ellsberg was not charged with giving the papers to The Times, and the newspaper has not disclosed the source.

The Times, the Washington Post, the Boston Globe and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch have been barred temporarily by the courts from publishing any further articles based on the Pentagon study.

Ellsberg's lawyers said Saturday they asked the FBI to "refrain from their efforts to apprehend him" in light of his decision to surrender today, but the FBI refused.

His lawyers offered to have Ellsberg surrender immediately if the government would release him on personal recognizance, but the government refused.

. . MEANWHILE, COURT DELAYS PAPERS RULING

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court did not rule on the Pentagon Vietnam papers case today but extended its term in order to decide it.

The court was to have adjourned today until the fall term. But Chief Justice Warren Burger announced from the bench that it would continue sitting to hand down further orders.

In a highly-unusual Saturday session, the court heard arguments on U.S. government suits seeking to stop the New York Times and the Washington Post from publishing parts of the secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war.

The fact that the case was heard Saturday was seen as an indication that the court considers the case of urgent importance. However, Burger made no comment whatsoever about the case today.

Until the court reaches a decision the newspapers will continue to be banned from printing material in the history which the government says is too sensitive.

Chicken-Egg War 'Illegal'

OTTAWA (CP) — Manitoba cannot set up an egg-marketing board as it proposed to do because it would restrict or limit the free flow of trade between provinces, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled today.

The Manitoba plan was almost a carbon copy of an egg-marketing board already established in Quebec. The high court's ruling therefore casts doubt on the validity of the Quebec board.

All nine Supreme Court judges agree that proposed legislation—drafted by Manitoba as a thinly-disguised test of the Quebec plan—was beyond the powers of the province.

Justice Minister John Turner told the Commons shortly after the decision was announced that he will study the ruling and decide what action should be taken.

Manitoba brought its proposed legislation to the Supreme Court in hopes it would end the so-called chicken and egg war which has broken out among the provinces.

STARTED BY QUEBEC

The war started when Quebec set up its egg-marketing board to give more of the market to Quebec producers. The limit on the number of eggs entering the province from out-of-province was severely restricted and is said to have cost Manitoba producers millions of dollars.

Other provinces retaliated by closing their markets to other agricultural products, bringing a demand from Manitoba that the question be referred to the Supreme Court.

When the federal government refused to do so, Manitoba drafted its legislation for an egg board and asked its own court of appeal to say whether it was constitutional.

Bill Will Allow Courts To Approve Wire-Tapping

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill banning wiretapping and other electronic eavesdropping by all but the police was introduced in the Commons today by Justice Minister John Turner.

The bill—an amendment to the Criminal Code entitled Invasion of Privacy—would make illegal wiretapping or eavesdropping on any private conversation without the consent of at least one of the parties to the conversation.

The exceptions would be government investigations of espionage, sabotage or other subversive activity, or when a superior court judge grants authorization to police for a criminal investigation.

Before granting authorization, the judge would have to be satisfied that:

—Other investigation methods have been tried and failed;

—Other methods are unlikely to succeed, or;

—Urgency makes other methods impractical.

The bill received first reading in the Commons.

The judge's authorization could only be granted for indictable offences, and would only last for 30 days. It could be renewed.

BANS BUGGING DEVICES

The bill also outlaws the selling of devices used for eavesdropping or wiretapping, and the disclosure of information gained from illegal methods.

A conversation unlawfully intercepted by the police would be inadmissible as evidence in court, but information gained as a direct or indirect result of the interception could be used.

That means, for example, that an overheard admission of a crime could not be used. But if the suspect says where stolen goods are hidden, the police can make use of that information.

Before an intercepted conversation could be used in court, the accused person must be told of police plans to use the evidence, and get a police copy of the transcript.

The federal solicitor-general and provincial attorneys-general would be required to publish a report each year on authorizations for wiretapping and eavesdropping.

By an amendment to the Crown Liability Act, the bill would provide punitive

SPECK ESCAPES DEATH SENTENCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court reversed today the death sentences of 35 persons, including the electric-chair sentence of Richard F. Speck, who was convicted of murdering eight nurses in Chicago in 1966.

Speck was sentenced to death after a jury in Peoria, Ill., convicted him of killing the nurses, one by one, in their Chicago apartment.

In the plea to save Speck, 27, from the electric chair, his lawyers raised several claims, among them that the exclusion of 50 prospective jurors because they opposed capital punishment denied Speck a fair trial.

The court said then that no death sentence could stand if it was handed down by a jury automatically cleared of persons expressing general conscientious scruples against the death penalty.

CIA 'Sending Spies Into China'

By The Canadian Press

Two newspapers report that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is sending Laotian hill tribesmen on spying missions from Laos into Communist China to obtain information on troop movements and political developments.

The Philadelphia Bulletin and the Seattle Times publish the report of the alleged CIA activities in a copyrighted story from Vientiane by Arnold Abrams.

The dispatch, as published in The Bulletin, says qualified sources reported that U.S. officials in Laos discounted any potential threat the operations pose to slowly-improving relations between Washington and Peking.

"They believe this threat is small, according to reliable sources, because the operations are not commando raids or sabotage efforts and Americans do not participate in them," The Bulletin says.

Native hill tribesmen are of the same ethnic stock found in southern China. "They have been recruited, equipped and trained by the CIA to infiltrate Chinese territory and obtain information on troop movements, political developments and other data," The Bulletin says.

The newspaper says its sources claim such intelligence missions have long been known to Chinese authorities and that several teams have been captured in recent years.

"Consequently," The Bulletin concludes, "American officials reason that Peking will continue to tolerate these territorial incursions as long as they are conducted solely to gather intelligence."

Power Blackouts Nearer—Union

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers warned today that the striking union cannot forever maintain electrical power.

Doug Cronk of Vancouver, business agent for the IBEW's Local 258, was commenting in an interview on the planned escalation of the strike which began on a full-scale one week ago.

Only a handful of the 2,000 electrical workers at B.C. Hydro have remained at work, without pay, to man the generating stations.

Pickets were at B.C. Hydro construction sites throughout the province today, except Mica and Peace Dams, but not at regional offices or the Victoria and Vancouver transit systems.

Cronk said there is a policy of escalation, of adding new sites for picketing as each day passes, eventually leading to the entire utility being picketed.

In the meantime, there was a policy of de-escalation if B.C. Hydro agrees to submitting the contract dispute to a third party outside the B.C. Mediation Commission.

'NOT PAID'

Asked if the escalation includes the generating stations, Cronk said: "Yes, everything. All of B.C. Hydro."

Asked if this means no more power, he said it means no more union men in the power stations.

"Our people are maintaining power for the public. We are not being paid. We are in a unique position — of striking and applying pressure and maintaining the employer's product. That's the responsible position but we can't do it forever nor will we do it forever.

"This gives time for people to see our request for a third party is reasonable. But we will not continue to man these places forever for nothing," he said.

At another point in the

Muhammad Ali a Free Man

Times News Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Supreme Court reversed today the conviction of former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, who was sentenced to five years imprisonment for evading the United States military draft.

In an 8-to-1 decision, the court said the record shows that Ali's "beliefs are founded on tenets of the Muslim religion as he understands them."

The 29-year-old black boxer, also known as Cassius Clay, was reigning heavyweight champion when he refused to take the traditional step foward at draft induction ceremonies April 28, 1967, in Houston.

The following month he was convicted by an all-white jury of six men and six women.

Ali had contended throughout his long legal battle that he should be draft-exempt on grounds that he is a Black Muslim minister.

ALI

In Chicago, just after the decision, Ali told reporters: "I've done my celebrating already. I said a prayer to Allah."

The supreme court cited the government's own concession that "there is no dispute that petitioner's professed beliefs were founded on basic tenets of the Muslim religion, as he understood them, and derived in substantial part from his devotion to Allah as the supreme being."

"This concession is clearly correct," the supreme court said.

Ali said: "I thank the Supreme Court for recognizing the sincerity of my belief in myself and my convictions."

NIXON PLANS LONG VIET WAR—BAYH

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "real reason" President Nixon refuses to set a date for ending the Vietnam war is not to secure release of U.S. war prisoners but to keep the present Saigon regime in power, Sen. Birch Bayh (D—Ind.), charged today.

Furthermore, Nixon's "Vietnamization" approach to American disengagement from Indochina may have as its underlying intention "the indefinite continuation of the war," said Bayh, a potential presidential candidate.

No Break Seen in Strike By Salmon Fishermen

VANCOUVER — A strike by 4,500 salmon net fishermen which began Saturday remained in effect today from Victoria to Prince Rupert with no end in sight.

Talks between the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union and the Fisheries Association of B.C. broke off an hour after the strike began.

Also involved in the strike is the Native Brotherhood of B.C., which represents Indian fishermen on the northern coast and is bargaining jointly with the fishermen's union.

The dispute revolves around the minimum salmon prices for the 1971-72 fishing season. Fishing was to have begun in most areas Sunday night.

The association, representing four companies, has offered an average price increase of about 4.5 per cent. A union spokesman said the bargaining committee will recommend that fishermen reject the offer.

SMALL OFFER

"The offer is so small it is hardly worthy of a ballet, but in a democratic union, the membership calls the shots," the union said in a statement Sunday.

"We regret that talks broke down, but know any possible settlement must be well above what was offered officially or even suggested off the record."

The union spokesman said both sides adjusted their positions during talks Friday and Saturday, but were still unable to reach an agreement.

He said no arrangements have been made for further talks.

Association manager Ken Campbell said the two sides were "pretty close, but not close enough to bridge the gap."

"The union wouldn't come down to prices we could pay them, so it was a choice of that or going ahead with the strike and we chose the strike," said Mr. Campbell.

The association has said the prices asked for by the union would put canned salmon out of reach of most consumers.

. . . HYDRO

interview, Cronk said the union "cannot be irresponsible to the point of where you shut off the power."

Asked how this stands with his earlier comments, he said:

"I am saying we recognize that the government, whichever political party, cannot stand by and see no electricity flowing. We recognize that. We are saying there need not be a strike or inconvenience."

'ANOTHER LOOK'

Cronk said B.C. Hydro has told the union that it cannot and will not remove itself "from access to legislation that is available to other employers in British Columbia."

He replied that the union is not denying the use of the B.C. Mediation Commission, if the dispute cannot be resolved through independent means.

"We are objecting to automatic compulsion," he said.

THIRD PARTY

Earlier, Labor Minister James Chabot said the appointment of a third party would require agreement of all parties "and we don't have that." He promised to take another look at the situation.

Wages, job security, job classifications, sick benefit and isolation pay are among the main issues in dispute.

On wages, the union is seeking an increase of 18½ per cent over two years while B.C. Hydro has offered 14 per cent over this period. Hourly rate for linemen, a major job classification, now is $5.39. The union also wants protection for employees when work is contracted out to other employers.

Gala Sail-Past Scheduled For Centennial

One of the most impressive naval assemblies and sail-pasts in Victoria history will be seen off Beacon Hill Park on Centennial Day — July 20.

Details of the centennial event were outlined today at a press conference in the dockyard of CFB, Esquimalt.

Joining Canadian ships for the occasion will be the Australian sister ship to HMCS Bonaventure, HMAS Sydney; the Colombian training barque, Gloria; the Japanese ships Katori and Yamagumo, and the American attack transports USS Tulare and USS San Jose.

The day's program starts at 10 a.m. when the CNAV Endeavor, which will be the reviewing ship, leaves the dockyard to anchor off the Victoria shoreline.

MANOEUVRES

Aboard her will be the reviewing officer, Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson; Rear-Admiral Richard Leir, commander maritime command Pacific, and other dignitaries.

Also anchored off the shoreline will be the model of the old paddle-steamer Beaver.

Thirty minutes later the Esquimalt-based destroyer escorts will execute high-speed manoeuvres.

At 11 a.m., after gathering in four separate assembly areas, the ships will form up and sail past the Endeavor while at 11:30 a.m. there will be a fly-past of Argos, Trekker and T33 jet training aircraft.

It will be a double celebration for the men aboard the Gloria. The day will also mark their country's independence, gained in 1810.

On the completion of the ceremoney the Provider, Tulare, San Jose and Sydney will steam for Vancouver while some of our ships prepare for the evening's program.

Anchored offshore, HMCS Qu'Appelle, HMCS St. Croix, HMCS Gatineau, HMCS Mackenzie and HMCS Columbia will be illuminated from 9 p.m. until midnight and will give fireworks displays, beginning at 10:30 p.m.

LINE-UP

In four lines, the ships will assemble the day before — July 19 — near Royal Roads, with vantage points being in the area of Albert Head and the Esquimalt Lagoon.

Closest to shore will be the department of fisheries vessel Howay, HMCS Chignecto and HMCS Porte de la Reine. In the next line will be the Gloria, Miramichi, Fundy and Cowichan. Next to them will be the Katori, Yamagumo and Canadian destroyer-escorts while on the last line of assembly will be the two U.S. ships, due to arrive that day.

The ships will be open to visitors from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. July 21, 22 and 23.

First of the visiting ships to arrive will be the Gloria, being due to dock at the CPR wharf in the Inner Harbor July 14, leaving there for a visit to Vancouver July 16. The two Japanese ships will arrive July 15, anchoring at Royal Roads and the Sydney will tie up in the dockyard 11:30 a.m. July 16.

The visiting ships will all visit Vancouver during their period on the coast, adding an international flavor to Vancouver Sea Festival activities.

. . . CHICKEN, EGG WAR

When the Manitoba court ruled the proposed legislation beyond Manitoba's powers to enact, the province appealed the ruling to the Supreme court.

LIMITS TRADE

Mr. Justice Roland Martland, writing the majority reasons, said the Manitoba plan in his opinion "not only affects interprovincial trade in eggs, but that it aims at the regulation of such trade."

"It is an essential part of this scheme, the purpose of which is to obtain for Manitoba producers the most advantageous marketing conditions for eggs, specifically to control and regulate the sale in Manitoba of imported eggs.

"It is designed to restrict or limit the free flow of trade between provinces as such.

"Because of that, it constitutes an invasion of the exclusive legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada over the matter of the regulation of trade and commerce."

A few minutes after the court's decision was announced, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield asked in the House whether the decision would change the government's approach to its legislation to establish a series of farm products marketing boards.

The bill to establish the boards, which ran into stiff opposition, will not come before the House again until fall.

Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson replied that he had just received the court's decision and had not had an opportunity to study it. But "I think there is some relation that ought to be looked at between this and the government's bill.

Mark Rose (NDP—Fraser Valley West) said there are obvious legislative impediments in the way of the federal bill to establish marketing boards. He asked whether the government would consider the establishment of boards only for eggs and poultry.

Mr. Olson said the main impediment was the opposition.

First Aid Team Wins Division

Team members are captain Kathy Mayzes, Christine Thomas, Leslie Preston, Sheila Wilson and Marian Paalvast.

The first-aid championships were held at Capilano Stadium under the joint sponsorship of the Workmen's Compensation Board and St. John Ambulance. Thirty-five teams from across Canada and western U.S. competed.

damages up to $5,000 plus damages caused by a federal government employee who breaks the bill's rules.

HOPE PROVINCES FOLLOW

The justice department says it hopes provincial legislatures will introduce similar provision for damages from illegal surveillance.

A provision in the bill would allow a special permit to intercept a conversation within 36 hours of an attorney-general or the federal solicitor-general, or an officer designated by them in writing, suspects that conspiratorial activities are being pursued by persons involved in organized crime.

The provision would be used when officials believe there is no time to apply to a judge for authorization.

They would have to apply for a judge's authorization as quickly as possible.

The bill bans disclosure by anyone of the existence of a private conversation or its contents except:

—When the disclosure is made in court under oath;

—In connection with duties related to a criminal investigation;

—Where the disclosure to a peace officer is intended to be in the interest of the administration of justice.

Pakistanis Attack Five Hindu Villages

DACCA (AP) — The Pakistani army has attacked at least five villages within 30 miles of this East Pakistan capital in the last four days, killing Hindu men and burning homes and markets in raids before dawn, reliable sources said today.

Arriving at one village, Boliadi, this correspondent passsed an army column leaving the place and saw dead Hindu men and the bazaar and houses burning.

From nearby villages, rifle fire could be heard and columns of smoke were rising.

Residents of Boliadi said the raids started Friday, the day after the arrival in Dacca of four members of the British Parliament investigating conditions in East Pakistan and refugee camps in India.

The people of Boliadi said the soldiers attacked the Hindu section of their village at 4 p.m. Sunday.

A Hindu woman held her husband in her arms. He had been shot in the neck. Another woman moaned over the body of her husband.

Across a small creek in a tiny corrugated iron house lay the body of a white-haired man with a bullet wound in his back.

Residents said at least five or six other corpses were in the village.

One villager said the troops looted houses and market stalls before setting them ablaze.

As they spoke, flames shot up from tin shacks.

Increased Trade Main Goal As Group Leaves for Canton

HONG KONG (CP) — A 24-member Canadian trade mission, headed by Trade and Commerce Minister Jean-Luc Pepin, left here by train today for Communist China on a week-long visit which could include discussions on an air link between China and Canada.

The mission is the first to go to China since the two countries established diplomatic relations last year.

Keith Gardiner, a spokesman for Pepin, told reporters here before the train left for Canton that the mission "is not a selling mission but an exploratory one to see how trade can be increased."

Pepin hopes to talk with Chinese Foreign Trade Minister Pai Hsiang-kuo and other government leaders in Peking during the six-day visit. The mission also hopes to meet Premier Chou En-lai.

Pepin said the visit "will emphasize Canada's interest in the commercial aspects of Sino-Canadian relations and explore opportunities for advancing all phases of Canadian economic activities in China."

Asked if the mission would discuss air links between the two countries, Gardiner said: "It might be discussed. We shall discuss many subjects."

But he said there are no civil aviation officials in the mission, which includes government officials, businessmen and industrialists.

Included in the mission is Senator William C. McNamara, former chief commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board and a member of the Canadian mission. He said Sunday:

"We hope China will continue to look at Canada as a nautral supplier. We know she has some good crops but even though they are buying 2.5 million tons from us, this represents only two to three per cent of their production. It is marginal as far as they are concerned."

The two countries agreed in October on diplomatic relations and Canadian Ambassador Ralph Collins recently arrived in Peking.

Chinese Ambassador Huang Hua is believed to be en route to Ottawa.

The mission plans to return to Hong Kong Sunday and fly home immediately via Tokyo.

Another group of Canadians in Hong Kong expects to enter China in the next couple of days. They are from the University of British Columbia and include students and faculty members.

SHARE TREASURE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada, in a unanimous judgment today, upheld an appeal by five Cape Bretoners and gave them a 25-per-cent share in treasure taken from the 1725 French ship Le Chameau.

An unofficial estimate places the worth of gold and silver coins taken in 1965 from the wreck off Louisbourg, N.S., at up to $400,000. The Supreme Court judgment also orders Alex Storm of Louisbourg, who gets 75 per cent of the treasure, to give the five others an accounting of it.

The successful appelants are Ronald Blundon of Dutch Brook, Willard Dillon of Black Point, Joseph Nearing and Robert D. MacDonald of Glace Bay, and Hyman Goldberg of Sydney, all Cape Bretoners.

The five Cape Bretoners began the search for Le Chameau, which sank while carrying pay to French soldiers in Quebec, in 1960. They found an anchor, cannon balls and shot in 1961, then got a licence under the Treasure Trove Act. They also were assured they had exclusive rights to search the area of Le Chameau Rock for the French wreck.

Mr. Storm applied several weeks later but was advised he couldn't search in the same area. When he did so, there were disputes with the others.

Quebec 'Primacy' Claim Needs an Explanation

By BILL COULTHARD

QUEBEC (CP) — Any suggestions Premier Robert Bourassa makes this week in search of agreement on the Victoria constitutional charter will involve an attempt to spell out the provincial "primacy" the province has asked for in social policy.

The Quebec premier last week rejected the Victoria charter because of imprecision on points of social policy. But he said Friday he will telephone Prime Minister Trudeau this week to talk over ways of renewing discussions on the charter.

The charter proposed to extend to family allowances and man-power allowances terminology now applied in the British North America Act to old-age pensions and other allowances.

The terminology involved says federal legislation in such fields must not interfere with the application of similar provincial laws.

The charter introduced a new requirement that the federal government consult the provinces 90 days before legislating in these fields, a requirement that met a Quebec request.

GONE FURTHER

Quebec, however, had gone much farther in a position paper drawn up before the federal-provincial constitutional conference at Victoria two weeks ago.

The paper would have applied the BNA Act terminology on old-age pensions to some social legislation, including unemployment insurance.

But in family allowances, manpower-training allowances and guaranteed income supplements based on age, it held out specific constitutional provisions for guaranteeing "provincial primacy."

Under the Quebec proposal, the federal government could continue to legislate in these fields.

But its legislation would "have effect in the territory of a province only to the extent that the law of the provinces' legislature provides."

And if provincial legislation made a federal law "in whole or in part inapplicable," the province would receive "compensation determined according to the amount which would have been spent" by the federal government had the federal law applied.

This would elevate the "opting out" formula used in establishing the Canada and Quebec pension plans to the level of a constitutional right applying to family allowances, manpower-training allowances and guaranteed income supplements based on age.

MAY MAKE CHANGES'

Any agreement which would revive the Victoria charter with revisions to satisfy Quebec will have to move to some degree toward this system.

Prime Minister Trudeau has objected that the system would have the federal government tax other provinces to pay for programs administered by a government or governments these taxpayers have no control over.

But Quebec says it must have these powers, both to eliminate wasteful duplication of services by the two levels of government and because soscial policy and income security policy "touch the very fibre of a culture and can constitute its expressions."

"The forms it takes flow from the culture of a people and this culture in turn determines its evolution and direction."

Prime Minister Trudeau said last week Ottawa will listen with an open mind if Quebec wants to clarify an unclear point—a reference to the imprecision cited by Mr. Bourassa in rejecting the charter.

But he said the federal government will not convene another conference. Quebec must convince the other provinces if it wants to revise the Victoria charter to meet what it considers its seeds.

Cabinet Shaping

REGINA (CP) — The Leader-Post says premier-elect Allan Blakeney expects to announce at least the nucleus of a New Democratic Party cabinet this week but there are a number of portfolios which can be fairly accurately predicted.

The newspaper says deputy party leader Roy Romanow (Saskatoon Riversdale), a lawyer, is a prime candidate for either attorney-general or provincial treasurer. It says Blakeney may decide to take on the dual role of treasurer, the postion he held in the former CCF administration which was defeated after 20 years in office by the Liberals in 1964.

Agriculture critic for the NDP, Jack Messer (Kelsey) was expected to get the job of agriculture minister and Walter Smishek (Regina North East) was mentioned as a possible minister of labor. However, Smishek could take over the health portfolio due to his frequent role of health critic in opposition.

Another possibility mentioned for either health or labor minister was Gordon Snyder (Moose Jaw South) who is a union man and a sometime health critic in the past.

IF WE DON'T HAVE WHAT YOU'RE LOOKING FOR IN A LITTLE CAR, YOU'RE NOT LOOKING FOR A LITTLE CAR.

Whatever you want in a little car, Vega's the little car you want. Because with four models to choose from—a Hatchback coupe, a two-door sedan, a Kammback wagon and a panel express—one will be just what you want. So don't be fooled by imitations. Vega gives you standard front disc brakes for sure, straight stops. Because we think it's important that the little car that goes so well, stops well, too. And to make it go, there's a standard 2300 cc. engine made from an aluminum/silicon alloy that's light, but strong. So you can scoot right up big hills or around other cars when you have to pass.
And there's Full Coil suspension, because you don't like to bounce around when you're driving, even in a little car. Go right ahead and relax, too, because the front bucket seats (standard) and rear seats are very comfortable. We build them with deep, full foam.
So, if you're looking for a little car—find out all about Vega. You'll see what a little car should be.

Vega. The little car that loves to be driven.

You cut down on air pollution, too.

About a decade ago, we made a promise to remove our cars from the air pollution problem.
Today we're making good.

We're almost there.
And about 2/3 less carbon monoxide.
Best of all, we're testing devices that can reach control levels as high as 95%.
But it hasn't been easy. We've had to develop devices that muzzle and reburn exhaust fumes.
Devices that prevent the escape of raw gasoline vapors.
We've even had to invent instruments sophisticated enough to measure the effectiveness of these devices.
The goal and reward have been one and the same: cleaner air.
Estimates are that if all North American industry could make similar strides, and all cars on the road today were emission controlled like '71 Chevrolets, we'd be breathing 1940 air.
You might call that a great step backward.

Waiting for What?

THE ADDITION OF THREATS and force to the union picket line at Sandringham Hospital has done the strikers' cause little good in public eyes. But this reminder that the walkout has been going on for nine months does nothing to commend either the management of the institution or the provincial government. The public is getting tired of it.

The strike of 28 women aides is said to be primarily for an hourly wage rate of $2.00 after two years employment (the existing rate is the minimum of $1.50), and an agreement on job security. The company which operates the hospital for its Vancouver owners says that acquiescence in the wage demand would result in a deficit operation and force a closure. The union reply is that three other local private hospitals have signed identical agreements and are still operating.

Earlier preliminary negotiations were halted and have not been resumed. It is here that the government appears to be laggard in bringing the dispute to a settlement. The Mediation Commission Act of 1968 provides that collective bargaining is required when a certified trade union or an employer calls for it, and that when notice has been given the parties shall "commence to bargain collectively, and shall make every reasonable effort to conclude a collective agreement. . . ."

In the present instance, although the union has expressed willingness to resume negotiations, the management apparently refuses on the grounds that the wage demand is impossible to fulfil. The Act further provides that if the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, which means the government, finds that to "protect the public interest and welfare" there should not be a strike or lockout, he may refer the case to the Mediation Commission and call for a binding decision.

And Section 49 of the Act is even more specific: "Every employer . . . or trade union who refuses or fails to bargain collectively as required by this Act . . . is guilty of an offence. . . ."

Now there may be enough loopholes in the Act to permit various interpretations of "public interest and welfare," and there seems to be a vagueness regarding negotiations which have been begun and discontinued, and the Act no doubt was framed primarily to protect the public against the effects of widespread strikes or lockouts in the province's large industries. But the government appears to be using these considerations as reasons for avoiding action in the Sandringham strike instead of recognizing the increasingly unacceptable situation and using the Act to end it.

Some 90 elderly and infirm patients are being used as pawns in a bitter union-management controversy. Collective bargaining is common today; no new ground is being broken in this regard. And the public interest and welfare could well be interpreted to cover the serious situation that is evolving at the Fort Street institution.

The events that have occurred there in the past — the attempt to halt fuel oil deliveries, the verbal onslaughts that have been made, and now the second incident in which a physical clash has been precipitated — these developments surely merit intervention. Imported pickets are using tough methods. That is reason enough for official action. Must we wait until violence produces a serious result?

There is reason to believe that a negotiation that resulted in a wage increase could precipitate a hospital demand for a larger provincial grant for welfare cases. Is this what deters the government from acting? If so, it would be a shoddy avoidance of administrative responsibility.

The Mediation Commission under the Act could bring out the true facts of hospital costs, of the ability or otherwise of the management to pay more, of the value of the work for which more money is asked, and other pertinent information. Let the Lieutenant-Governor in Council act, and end the quite unnecessary continuation of this squabble.

A New Lock-Step for Japan?

CHANGE IN EDUCATION — A process widely varied but almost universal — takes a risky turn in Japan where a rising demand for reform would replace the current American-patterned system with something considered more distinctively Japanese.

Basically, it would begin compulsory education for the child at four years, rather than the present six; it would improve teacher training and raise salaries 30 to 40 per cent above those of the general civil servants, diversify higher education, grant more state aid to private institutions and make it possible for university students to qualify for degrees in three years rather than four.

A pilot project would begin in 1974, under the plan, and kindergarten would become compulsory for five-year-olds, embracing four-year-olds within a specified time. The intent, say its proponents, would be to retain some aspects of the American system, introduced after the war, but to bring in changes to adapt education more closely to Japan's needs.

On the face of it, the broad outline of the program suggests nothing startlingly new. It is viewed by domestic opponents, however, as a dangerous proposal, reviving pressure for the type of national unity which marked the militarist prewar government, and calculated to inculcate into students an unswerving allegiance to authority.

That criticism will not be ignored by other nations. Unswerving obedience was a created characteristic which lent particular power to the militarists of a belligerently expansive Japan in the days leading up to Pearl Harbor and lasting until defeat. If the critics are correct, it is a type of mind processing that can find little support in the community of liberal nations.

To Market, to Market . . .

THE HISTORIC, SUCCESSFUL outcome of negotiations on British membership in the European Common Market could be negated in the British parliament. The possibility of failure because of the demands of British politics has preoccupied the negotiators in the Luxembourg talks. A number of provisions in the agreement have been deliberately shaped to suit British tastes, or else rejected because of possible British displeasure.

Two apparent provisions which were a product of the concern to satisfy both the present ECM members and the prospective British applicant were the agreements on exported New Zealand dairy products and the British contribution to the Common Market budget.

There are hurdles ahead before Britain can take its place in a renewed European group and help make Europe "a great modern democracy," in the words of Italian Premier Colombo. The British Press is appealing to the Briton's historic sense, his sense of destiny, to bring him to accept the Market.

The Eurocrats have probably done their best to ensure acceptance by the average Briton — their intuition that the problem is basically emotional and political rather than economic is the key to the raucous summer politicking that has already begun in the tight little island.

". . . how are you with a needle and thread . . . Marg . . .?"

Correction

Your issue of June 23 carried an account of a talk I had given on June 22 to the Downtown Kiwanis Club on the subject of Vietnam. The report credits me with statements almost the precise reverse of what I did say or tried to say. I should be grateful for space to correct the major misstatements. My stay in Vietnam was considerably shorter than was reported and I worked entirely with and for Vietnamese on a surgical training program. I had nothing to do with U.S. military casualties.

(1) Far from "backing the U.S. war effort," I suggested the Vietnam involvement to be "possibly the greatest disaster ever to befall a mighty nation; a catatastrophe that has torn her asunder, that may have done her much greater damage than her own civil war a century ago."

(2) My remarks on pointless — though widespread — anti-Americanism dealt only obliquely with her Vietnam entanglement. I suggested that Canada and Canadians might do well to wish our neighbour well; to wish her an early exit from Vietnam and fervently to wish her well in the battles she must fight against her fearsome internal problems. If she loses her fight against these — her black problem, the decay of her cities and violence in their streets, a spreading pollution, a drastic change may turn up in the political climate of the Republic, a change that inevitably must loom far larger over the Canadian scene than any regional differences we have contrived for ourselves.

(3) Your reporter credited me with the statement that Russian policy is "to keep Americans out." On the contrary, Russian policy is to keep the United States entangled in Vietnam as long and painfully as possible, while she goes about turning the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean into Russian lakes and securing a hammerlock on oil sources in the Middle East — all the while laying a smokescreen of "disarmament" talks over these various enterprises. — Gordon H. Grant, M.D., 1105 Pandora.

Refundable Cans

With reference to the current "refund on soft drink cans" issue, may I enlarge slightly on the SPEC position as referred to in your newspaper on June 22. Whilst at the present time SPEC is not "pressing action against stores" which refuse to give refunds on cans, this does not rule out future action.

I would suggest that forcing all outlets to refund on soft drink cans of brands they sell may not be as desirable in the long run as pressuring the soft drink industry to adopt a standard "pop" bottle, like the beer bottle only colourless, that can be refunded and re-used. This idea has been pressed for some time now by the Federation of B.C. Naturalists. — J. White, Pres. Victoria Branch SPEC, P.O. Box 51578.

Change Coming to Portugal, But When?

"THAT is the country residence of our president," said Anna as we sped by the high, brown fort-like walls dominating a corner of the coast road to Estoril. She turned abruptly to demand, "What do you think of our president?"

Humphreys

Well, "I answered honestly, I hardly knew the new president, preferring to make a few points instead about his predecessor, the late Dr. Antonio de Oliveira Salazar. "Now I will tell you what we think," she said emphatically. What Anna, an 18-year-old student and her fellow-students thought was that the new president, Dr. Marcello Caetano, was a new face representing the same old policies. And the students were getting rather tired and impatient of the same old policies. Even in Portugal.

Anna is the daughter of a Portuguese military officer in Africa. "I have only lived with him for about five years," she said. "I don't know him very well." Rather sad, but a fact of life in Portugal is that families are not always able to join soldiers active in guerrilla warfare zones in Mozambique, Angola, or Portuguese Guinea, the African territories.

General Picture

Anna's comments I considered of interest because they did fit into the picture pieced together by several experienced observers here. There is a feeling that change will and must come. But when, how and how much? Dr. Caetano is 64 and capable of many more years of benevolent dictatorship. The wars in Africa could drag on for another decade, even with sensible programs leading to self-government.

"You may have noticed that there are not many boys around," Anna said. "That is because we have four years of military service and they are in the army."

I hadn't noticed, maybe because if I'm admiring the scenery it doesn't include boys. And Anna was oversimplifying. There are exemptions for education. But this small country has a standard military service of four years, two in metropolitan Portugal, two abroad. No one denies military service is ill-afforded. The younger generation may not carry it so stoically as the present rulers. They may not have to.

Some Hope

The present regime is considered to be technocratic, realistic and therefore offering some hope. Some, like Anna, are disappointed with Dr. Caetano. Perhaps they expected too much from the man who took over in 1968 from Mr. Portugal himself, Dr. Salazar. The late dictator alone had dominated Portugal since he pulled it back from the brink of anarchy in 1928.

Dr. Caetano has restricted the activities of Salazar's special police force. A major reform broadening the scope of education is before the legislature, a rubber-stamp chamber but gaining prestige under Dr. Caetano. A proposal to relax divorce laws and make religious education optional rather than compulsory has been wiped out by an influential advisory chamber. A revised bill, officially broadening religious liberty, and one giving more press freedom, will be debated soon.

The freedoms of speech and religion are already respected. The party system is not allowed. At the last election, opposition was repressed or harassed. The socialist opponent, Mario Soares, lives in exile in Paris. The constitution guarantees only a freedom to petition the government. Foreign newspapers and books sell freely.

Government and police tend to overreact to student demonstrations. A University of Lisbon faculty was closed down for demonstrating during the recent NATO meeting.

Canada's interests are mainly commercial. CP Air has a regular route from Montreal through Lisbon to Madrid and Rome. Tourist traffic is increasing steadily.

Portugal has been enjoying a trade surplus with Canada of between $4 million and $7 million annually for the last five years, although Canadian exports have been rising steadily lately.

Canadian Imports

Portuguese tomato paste has displaced Italian and is the country's largest single export to Canada, with a value of $4 million last year. Chances are that if you eat pizza or buy any product with tomato paste, it will be Portuguese. Canada's exports here are almost evenly divided among raw materials, agricultural products and manufactures. A new market in dairy cattle is opening up, running at sales of $500,000 a year.

The country is heavily dependent on European trading patterns and will become more so if Britain joins the Common Market. Britain is her biggest trading partner, followed by West Germany, a member of the present Market. The general policy now is to seek an association, short of membership in the Common Market, without losing advantages the country has built up as a member of the European Free Trade Association.

Foreign investment is encouraged. Scandinavians are the largest foreign shareholders, their governments' criticism of Lisbon's colonial policies notwithstanding. There is a little Canadian money in real estate.

It is easy to be cautiously optimistic about Portugal, if only because there is nowhere to go but up when you are at the bottom of the league. Portugal's per capita income is the lowest in Europe, excepting Albania. The government is putting a high priority on raising the standard of living. It is preparing a new development plan for the economy. Observers here agree unanimously that economic progress is the greatest single achievement of the Caetano government.

Through the Dust of the Fallen Charter

IF it is possible—and I readily admit that it really isn't—to divest Quebec's rejection of the Victoria Charter of its political significance, then Premier Robert Bourassa has done the rest of the country a service. Constitutionally, the Charter was a poor thing and we are better off without it. It has no preamble. If the Victoria "package" had been accepted, the preamble of the British North America Act would have been repealed, but nothing would stand in its place: the first ministers at Victoria were unable to agree on a new preamble.

Greer

As a result, we were to have a constitution without principle. The BNA Act at least declares Canada has a constitution "similar in principle to that of the United Kindgom," a phrase which informs many of the provisions that follow and indeed, holds the whole act together. Without something to put in its place, much of what follows becomes virtually indecipherable.

The charter's provisions respecting the Supreme Court of Canada were particularly appalling. Article 22 said there was to be a "general court of appeal" but the article conferring jurisdiction, Article 35, mentioned only appeals "on any constitutional question." Article 36 then said the Court was to have "such further appellate jurisdiction as the Parliament of Canada may prescribe," which is no constitutional guarantee of a general court of appeal at all.

One had to go to Article 61, which was a kind of house-keeping, transitional powers section, to find some assurance that the present appellate powers of the Supreme Court would continue, and then only "until otherwise provided" by the charter.

These provisions, and the sections concerning the appointment of Supreme Court judges in the event of federal-provincial disagreement, were the best the Victoria Conference could do in the face of intransigence, not from Quebec, but from British Columbia. Premier Bennett insisted on having a judge on the Supreme Court from his province and on denying the court jurisdiction to hear appeals on purely provincial law, and when he could get neither he forced the conference into woolly language and ambiguous provisions.

But a nation where the judicial law does not run throughout the land is not a nation. Any proposed constitution which does not assert in the clearest terms that the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court is that of a general court of appeal for all of Canada is vulnerable to rejection for that inadequacy alone.

Equally inadequate was the charter's failure to deal with the distribution of legislative powers between the national and provincial levels of government. There was to be only one revision in this core of the Constitution — the controversial addition to section 94A which confirmed provincial paramountcy in the fields of family, youth and occupatonal training allowances. Sections 91 and 92, the key sections, were to continue unabated, the dead hand of 1867 looking in the Canada of 1971.

Federal Veto

The unlimited power of the federal government to raise any amount of money by any method it pleases, and its virtually unlimited power to spend it in any way it pleases, were to continue unchanged, assailable only through the new amending formula which would have given the federal government the right to veto — a formula, not so incidentally, which applied different criteria to different amendments without clearly defining what the difference was.

The decision at Victoria to put all this into a take-it-or-leave-it, all-or-nothing package was motivated, of course, by political reasons with respect to Quebec. But now that this gamble has lost, we are bound to ask if there are not better ways, and better men, to re-write the constitution and establish it as a modern Canadian document.

The ideal way would be for the voters to elect a Constitutional Assembly which would draft a constitution for public approval by way of weighted referendum — perhaps according to the representation of the provinces in the Senate. The difficulty with this is that there is no constitutional provisions for such an assembly and it is unlikely that sufficient public pressure could be brought to bear on Parliament, or the governments, to create one.

Failed As Reformers

A more limited approach would be for the governments to admit the obvious, which is that they have failed as constitutional reformers, and to refer the whole question to a national committee of detached experts, reasonably representative of the country, who would draft a document for submission to Parliament and the provincial legislatures, on condition that governments would not commit themselves and that parliamentary debate and approval would be by free vote.

Perhaps it too would end in a nullity. But at least the people, instead of being told to take it or leave it, would be able to tell he governments to take it or get out.

Looking Back

From the Times of June 28, 1911:

Omaha — In other years the cry, "send us men," has been heard far and wide from the farmers, but this year the appeal has been changed. The farmers are exclaiming, "send us women."

Until last year the men had the absolute right-of-way, but now they are being crowded out, and to quite an extent are being replaced by young women. It is estimated that this year not less than 1,500 young women of Nebraska will earn from $50 to $150 each in the harvest fields.

ECM ENTRY UNCERTAINTY

'Who Are We?' Britons Ask

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

LONDON — Like the sound of gunfire on the other side of the hills, the crisis facing Britain is a threat that has not yet been realized. You cannot sleep quite easy through the rumble nor ignore the flashes in the night sky. And we cannot ignore the threat with the aid of the old sleeping pills.

The prospect of the Common Market compels us to a decision that, in many ways, is more important than deciding to go to war. War, when it comes, is at least made easy by tradition and inflamed emotion. But this is a cold and calculated decision that could change the nature of our being.

A Grand Jury

And what that being is is an essential part of the controversy. We have become a Grand Jury on the very nature of Britain, and few juries have ever had so confused a parcel of facts to work on.

For so great a contest the manner of disputation is odd, and almost irresponsible. It is said that most of the British are against joining, and yet believe we shall join in the end. The economics are too contradictory, and each citizen can find an expert to back his prejudice.

The real dispute goes deeper; it touches our separateness, our sovereignty, our suspicion of foreigners and the fact that one day we may have to defer to them as we do to each other in our polity.

There is a suggestion that the Common Market represents a humiliation and a spoiling of the noblest and most gentle political tradition that has existed in Christendom. The Common Market is in name and nature un-English. But what is this Englishry that extends its wings over at least three other equally nervous nations?

In appraising ourselves all praise is suspect. We could say that our recent history, say since the Catholic James II threw the Great Seal into the Thames and fled the country, has been of a unique serenity. The Gordon riots against the Paris Commune. The horrors of the industrial revolution against the natural poverty of India and the horror of Bangla Desh. The tragedy of Ulster against that of Algeria.

What Happened?

We are not the most beautiful, nor the richest, nor the most polite, nor even the funniest society in the world. It is true that we seldom kill one another except in the desperation of family or sexual extremes. We reasonably suspect patriotism and regard nationalism as a disease of State puberty through which less fortunate peoples have to go to reach that maturity where there is no longer excitement at the waving of a flag.

We allow ourselves to love this country only secretly, sometimes almost with that melting love that an individual can give to another. The love that the four nations which make up Britain can feel for both their separateness and the whole is a powerful and inexpressible thing, and yet, according to the polls, a majority of this people would like to quit these islands and start again almost anywhere else. What has happened?

Teased, Not Torn

It is more than the fact that we have lost an empire and not yet found a role. We are teased rather than torn by uncertainties. With all its many imperfections, life in Britain is not too bad. But, for the first time in centuries, we do not know quite who we are. We do not know our place in the hierarchy of the world. We do not know if we are rich or poor. We do not even know if we are happy. It is not surprising that such protest as exists in Britain is incoherent, inconstant and usually peripheral.

Part of the trouble, I think, is that Britain has been the happy slave of one of the most potent myths in history. The truth or falsity of the myth is immaterial. Myths are as potent as armies, and indeed most armies enlist a few of them behind their colors. They are as real as a fleet-in-being.

This particular British myth is based on the fact that our recent hisotry has been singularly serene, that a national consensus has made a series of ancient and illogical institutions work brilliantly, and that the outstanding characteristic of British life compared with that of other nations has been its success.

This has been reinforced by the island syndrome. We are separate and therefore different. The mainland is all right for pleasure, but virtue and practicality are on this side of the water. Military glory plays only a small part in it. We have no Valmy, Waterloo is suspect. Our forces have been ordered by gentlemen on a part-time basis and have not been all that successful in continental adventures. They have served best to keep the others out. Our history has been seen as one, almost, of effortless success.

Sense of Duty

This myth was finally enthroned in the 19th century through our possession of an empire which, we believed, was acquired almost accidentally. It was one in which the sense of duty took precedence over greed. It was policed with a handful of troops and kept with a minimum of atrocities and war. And it was run brilliantly with a unique brand of selfless integrity. And indeed there was some truth in all this. The myth was powerful enough to comfort the poor with a sense of innate superiority, and to give certainty to the largest middle-class in the world.

The British myth is still not quite dead: It made the Commonwealth Division in the Korean War utterly different from any other unit there. It produced a possibly unique success in the counter-insurgent operation in Malaya. It is behind the feeling that Britain owes a special responsibility to help in East Pakistan, not because we have sinned there in the past, but because we have an inherited duty in that part of the world. At its strongest, this myth left the British with the feeling that they were set apart to rule.

It was a feeling that was implied rather than set out explicitly. It was often cloaked in modesty, and was seldom openly boastful. But the whole world understood its implications.

Time and experience have sadly eroded the myth. Success now appears to elude us. There is little that is sacred to us left. We are in the middle of reconstructing ourselves, not out of choice but out of necessity. And it is a painful process. Britain, like the Roman Church, is living out a quiet agony and seldom admits as much.

But new conceptions of ourselves are being formed. Of late we have been flattered by the number of foreigners who choose to live in this country. We begin to preen ourselves on our quality of life. It is certainly less heady than what went before. It is almost as if, like St. Francis, we had chosen to avoid economic success and to concentrate on what really matters.

Of course no such conscious choice has been made, but it looks as if we are back to Shakespeare's demi-paradise idea. If that is how we are going to view ourselves it will at least be more fruitful than the lacerating self-contempt of the last few years — which, anyway, was part of the process of change. It may even be possible publicly to love ourselves again.

Part of the proud old British view of ourselves was that we were insensitive and inartistic. That has certainly gone. And as we live, as it were, between myths, there is a unique opportunity to appraise ourselves, to discard and to adopt and to understand.

If we are undergoing a crisis of identity unique in our long history the decision of the Common Market will compel another deeper decision. And just now the decision could be made with a minimum of interference from old or new myths.

We are a complicated people, both in origin and behavior. We are more pompous but less boastful than most. We pride ourselves on our pragmatism and are probably the most frivolously-minded in the world. We are startlingly self-critical and yet, at bottom, approve of ourselves.

We appear to have behaved in the past with instinctive wisdom and yet we are as short-sighted as gamblers in knowing our long-term interests. We have a great load of history, and we wear it lightly. To reach a new consensus on who we are and what we want to be is perhaps now our most urgent need.

Commercial TV Rapped by Child Study Group

By GEORGE GENT

The final report of the White House Conference on Children, which was presented to President Nixon recently, contains in its 24 parts a scathing indictment of commercial television that has already drawn the fire of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Among its recommendations are the establishment of a National Children's Media Foundation by July 1 to implement the report's proposals, permanent funding of public television, the reservation of at least 20 per cent of cable television channels for education, municipal and other non-commercial uses and the possible elimination of all advertising on children's programs.

"Child Development and the Media," a copy of which was received by the New York Times, was submitted by the more than 3,000 participants at the week-long White House conference in December.

The mass media forum included some 180 educators, physicians, child psychologists, psychiatrists, public and non-commercial broadcasters, entertainers, artists and representatives of parents' groups. Its chairman was Fred Rogers, star and producer of non-commercial TV's highly acclaimed children's series, "Mister Rogers Neighborhood."

Although the report contains recommendations for the media of television, film, sound and print, the section on televison is by far the longest and most detailed in its criticism. However, in its introduction, the report says that all of the media have largely failed to realize their potential for nurturing the healthy growth and development of the young.

In calling for the establishment of a National Children's Media Foundation, the forum suggested that Nixon instruct the office of child development of the department of health, education and welfare to bring together representatives from all areas of the public and private sectors for that purpose "not later than July 1."

Funding for the foundation, the report suggests, should come from both the federal government and the private sector, with seed-money being provided by the office of child development.

Among other recommendations, the foundation would foster the planning and production of programming, encourage research and experimentation, urge creative young people to enter the field of the mass media for children by providing fellowships and scholarships and establish a training institute for media writers.

Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, apparently received an early draft of the report and criticized it on the ground that it had not been voted on by the full membership of the conference because the Forum 20 group believed all of its recommendations were significant and could not choose one single one to submit to the full membership.

A spokesman confirmed the reason for Wasilewski's objections, adding that he "also disapproved of the report's content."

Rogers also confirmed that the report had not been submitted for the reasons Wasilewski mentioned but said it had been voted on by the 180 members of the mass-media forum.

"As a matter of fact," Rogers said, "the report is not as strong as I would have liked. I would have made it stronger."

In other recommendations, the report states:

- That the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Communications Commission notify broadcasters and advertisers that transmission of material intended to persuade children is a "privilege" that must be earned and re-earned through accurate presentation and acceptable appeals to their vulnerable audience.
- That enforcement of truth in advertising and standards in broadcasting not be left to the advertisers and broadcasters but that the FTC and FCC establish an organization to defend the public interest in the media.
- That advertisers and the networks undertake for next season "meaningful innovations" in the current TV advertising structure, including the testing of clustering of commercials to insure uninterrupted programming and the elimination of all commercials except for a line credit.
- That the promotion or advertising of patently adult programming, either on TV or in films, be excluded from children's TV programming.
- That programs emphasizing violence or ethnic and minority-group defamation be excluded from children's TV immediately.
- That the FCC recognize that children have a "right" to improved quality and diversity in programming and that it set up guidelines insuring a minimum number of children's TV programming hours for diverse ages.

WASILEWSKI
. . . fights back

'Little Red Schoolbook' Upsets U.K.

By ROBERT DUFFY

LONDON — Virtually the entire book-publishing industry in London, including a number of world-famous imprints, is participating in the legal defence of a small firm facing charges under the Obscene Publications Act.

The firm, Stage I, has been hauled before the law for publishing a pungent little book for teenagers, called The Little Red Schoolbook, which might be subtitled A Manual for Direct Democracy in the School System.

The pocket-size book (5 by 3½ inches, 208 pages) has 24 pages of sexual information and advice, and another 34 about drugs, including alcohol and tobacco.

It is presumably these sections that attracted police action under the Obscene Publications Act — it must have been, for there is nothing else in the book that could remotely be associated with obscenity, though it is all fairly revolutionary.

What has alarmed the publishing industry, however, was the method of police procedure which, in the publishers' view, already amounts to arbitrary censorship.

The Stage I office was first raided on March 31, when 1,201 copies of the book were seized. The ensuing summons was issued on April 13. Since that time the book cannot be legally sold in Britain, and the trial has already been postponed once.

The big publishers have publicly declared that they regard the book as reputable and they are concerned by the damage done through the mere bringing of charges under Section Two of the Obscene Publications Act. This section uses the classic British definition of obscenity as material tending to "deprave and corrupt" the audience for which it is intended — in this case teenage schoolchildren.

The case has not so far attracted much general publicity, but the brief news reports have all characterized the book as offering children advice on contraception, abortion and drugs. Hence the book may already have a dirty name.

In fact, the section on sex reads simply as a straightforward elementary manual on the subject of sexual attitudes and relations. It is different from many others only in that it uses the common colloquial terms for the organs and for the act of intercourse. The language is clear, dispassionately clear, and unemotive, without moral judgments. "This section says nothing about love and very little about feelings," it begins. "It gives some practical information which you may find useful."

Similarly, the section on drugs begins: "Drugs are poisons which can have a pleasant effect. People use drugs in spite of the fact that they can have bad effects, either simply because they don't know about these effects, or because they think the risks are less important than the pleasure that drugs can give."

And on marijuana, under the heading Is Pot Dangerous?: "There's no definite answer to this yet. Some experts say that pot is much less harmful than alcohol or tobacco. Others say it can cause damage to the brain or nervous system. What evidence there is suggests that it isn't dangerous unless it's taken in excessive doses. But a lot more research will be needed before anyone can be certain."

The greater part of the Little Red Schoolbook, however is simply a coolly written critique of the school system and of the dominant educational philosophy, with some suggestions as to how children can act, individually or collectively, to bring about improvements.

It explains, from its own viewpoint, why some schools are good and some bad, why some teachers are successful while others fail. In short, it tries to give the child an aware understanding of his school environment, and to make him actively committed to the real objectives of education.

There is a long section on demonstrations and strikes, and advice on how to organize collective action effectively, which some teachers and school authorities would undoubtedly find objectionable. The book stipulates, however, that such action must only be a last resort, when every effort of representation and discussion has failed to produce understanding and agreement. And it warns the children that they must feel very strongly about something, and certain, before taking the grievance so far.

The Little Red Schoolbook was first published in Denmark in 1969, written by Soren Hansen and Jesper Jensen. Since then other editions, partly rewritten to relate with local conditions, have appeared in Finland, Germany, Holland, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland. North American rights are being negotiated.

The British edition had sold about 5,000 copies before the police moved in. But between the day of the first raid and the issuing of the summons, another 12,000 were sold. These 17,000 copies are circulating around London and other British cities at a rate suggesting the book would have become a runaway best-seller, if sales had not been stopped. One boy wrote the publisher that his copy had been borrowed by more than a hundred friends and friends of friends.

Would I let my children read it? Well now, how do you think I managed to get my hands on a copy? They can have it back — when I've finished reading it.

Rebels Threaten Malaysia

By MORT ROSENBLUM

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Communist guerrillas, pushed into jungled corners for 11 years, again threaten security in several key parts of Malaysia, one of Southeast Asia's few peaceful prosperous nations.

"It is a real problem," admits Prime Minister Abdul Razak, "and it is getting serious."

Uniformed rebels are striking in new places, with new tactics and in new numbers. Reliable estimates say half of Malaysia's 48,000 soldiers and armed police are committed to anti-guerrilla work.

Authorities ordered 24-hour curfews in parts of Perak state, hampering some of the world's richest tin mining. Guerrillas killed two soldiers June 13 in an ambush 10 miles from Ipoh, Perak's capital, 100 miles from Kuala Lumpur.

NUMBERS INCREASE

It was in Perak that guerrillas executed three British planters June 16, 1948, to start a 12-year-old "war" of liberation." No activity has been reported there since 1960, when the "emergency" ended.

Officials acknowledge more than 1,800 active guerrillas operate in west Malaysia, nearly four times the number left at large in 1960. Until recently, they were confined to the Thai border area, 90 miles north of Ipoh.

Another band of 400 to 500 guerrillas, demanding a Communist takeover, is menacing the east Malaysian state of Sarawak, 1,000 miles across the South China Sea.

Officers in Sarawak say they killed 23 Communist terrorists the first week in June.

Both guerrilla movements are basically Chinese. The west Malaysia rebels belong to the Malayan Communist party, formed in 1930 and used by the British to fight Japanese occupation troops during the Second World War. They have held on since, encouraged if not supplied by China. Their clandestine radio is located in China.

The Sarawak guerrillas are mainly remnants of disgruntled Chinese armed by Sukarno when the former Indonesian president forced a "confrontation" on Malaysia in 1963.

LBJ 'Entirely Honest, Deeply Troubled' by Viet War

WASHINGTON (WP) — George Ball, undersecretary of state in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, said Sunday that president Johnson was "deeply troubled" by escalation of the Vietnam war and was "grateful" for advice recommending a different course of action.

Identified in the secret Pentagon papers as the chief opponent of Vietnam policy in the administration, Ball said that he wrote a series of memoranda to president Johnson starting in September 1964 urging that "we should cut our losses and get out" of Vietnam.

Deliberate Deception Denied By Ball

On every occasion, he said, Johnson insisted on a full-dress discussion and from time-to-time was persuaded not to go forward on a particular act of escalation.

"There were many, many times that at the end of these sessions he would put his arm on my shoulder and say, 'George I can't tell you how grateful I am to you for disagreeing with me. . . ."

Ball said he disagreed with the impression that many have drawn from the newspapers that Johnson was deceiving the pruble in the 1964 presidential campaign by advocating no deeper commitment in Vietnam while planning for a wider war.

"What the president was saying was entirely honest . . . he didn't want a wider war. . . .

"At the same time, any government that wasn't planning for all kinds of contingencies would have been very derelict," Ball said.

During this period, he said, there was a deterioration in the South Vietnam situation and "there was always the possibility that we might have to get engaged in it more deeply . . . if we were going to carry out the objectives. . . .

"But that there was any deliberate deception, I think was entirely wrong."

Ball, now a New York lawyer, described his role in the development of Vietnam policy and his views on the publication of the Pentagon papers in an interview on "Face the Nation" (CBS-TV).

He said that while he has not seen all of the papers, those published in the New York Times, the Washington Post and other newspapers "present very little danger to the United States."

BALL
. . . get story out

"On the whole I would suppose it was healthy to begin to get this story out so that the American people can really know what went on during this period," Ball said.

Rules now governing the release of papers "are not very logical and certainly have been abused in the past," he declared.

DEEP CONCERN

Ball suggested that all papers be declassified after five years except for special documents and that a bi-partisan commission appointed by the president and confirmed by Congress determine when those papers could be made public.

Ball said that he regretted that the Pentagon papers do not bring out the deep concern for civilian lives felt by president Johnson, secretary of state Dean Rusk and defence secretary Robert McNamara.

The papers, he said reflect a problem of official prose that tends to be "over-intellectualized" and "clinical."

Ball said that he hoped the publication of the documents would result in more candor in the Nixon administration, expressing the view that Cambodia and the Laotian invasion have "left a good deal to be desired from the point of view of total candor."

Discussing his own role in development of policy, Ball was reminded that he had made a speech in 1966 endorsing Johnson administration policies while privately recommending that the United States withdraw. Ball said that he made the speech as a member of the administration reflecting the administration's view and not as George Ball.

It would have been meaningless to resign in protest, he said, because he had no political base from which he could have pressed his own point of view.

The newspapers would have reported it for a day and then no one would have paid any attention to it, he said.

Declaring that there are "no devils and no villians in this situation," Ball said that while he was advising the president to get out of Vietnam, others were advising a different line of policy "honestly expressing their own points of view against the background of their own experience." Ball said that he has worked with the French government as a practising lawyer before joining the U.S. state department and knew the "agonies" that the French had gone through in trying to fight a war in Vietnam.

NOT CONVINCED

Ball said he had never been completely convinced of the domino theory — that the fall of South Vietnam would mean that all southeast Asia would fall to communism.

Asked why the president hadn't taken his advice, Ball said that Johnson was convinced of the strategic importance of South Vietnam, and feared that a pullout would harm U.S. prestige and integrity.

In an interview that will appear in Time magazine today, former U.S. secretary of state, Dean Rusk declares that he never heard of the Pentagon study until he read about it in the New York Times. Rusk was asked to comment on a cable that the magazine says he sent to president Kennedy in 1961 warning against sending 8,000 troops in Vietnam as recommended by General Maxwell Taylor, ostensibly to work on flood relief. If Taylor's proposals were carried out, the cable said that "Washington would be forced to see its commitments through," turning "a guerrilla struggle into a full-scale war."

Time says the cable is drawn from the Pentagon study but a Time spokesman declined to say whether the magazine has a copy of the 47-volume report.

Rusk said he has no recollection of the cable but explained that in 1961 the United States was negotiating with the Soviet Union on Laos "so I was very reluctant at the period to see us go gung-ho in the area until we saw how that worked out."

AUSSIES DENY PROTEST

CANBERRA (Reuter) — Australian foreign affairs sources confirmed today that the government has been in touch with the U.S. government over the publication of the secret Pentagon papers on origins of the Vietnam war.

But the sources refused to comment on a press report that Australia has lodged a strong protest over the disclosure of the documents.

Precisely what has gone between Canberra and Washington is confidential, the sources said.

In Washington, the Australian embassy denied that any official protest has been lodged.

The New York Times articles on the Pentagon papers led to a parliamentary controversy in Australia because of a suggestion that Australian troops were sent to Vietnam without the South Vietnamese government really wanting them.

One of the memoranda published by The Times was a cable from the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, to the state department in April 1965, suggesting that the U.S. should get in touch with various governments, including Australia, and ask that they contribute troops to the war. It should then be suggested that South Vietnam should ask for such troops.

Australia's prime minister at the time, Sir Robert Menzies has strongly denied the suggestion that the South Vietnamese did not make a prior request before Australian troops were sent to the war.

All compacts. All built by American Motors. And all built with the same family ties of economy, durability and quality.

Hornet from $2473*

Certain items illustrated are optional.

Viewed collectively they share a lot of good ideas. They're built with the same regard for quality. Both in materials and the way those materials are assembled. They're powered by thoroughly reliable engines. They're styled to look good years after you buy them. And all these factors will mean extra dollars when you trade them.

Individually they offer an impressive list of advantages you just won't find when you shop among their competitors.

SPORTABOUT—For the compact wagon buyer who wants North American styling and performance the answer is Sportabout. It's the only compact wagon made on this side of the Atlantic . . . and the Pacific.

It has all the good looks of a sports machine, and all the fine handling characteristics to go with the good looks. It's got an extremely tight turning circle so it handles very nimbly, parks very easily.

Almost as an extra added bonus, Sportabout is as functional as it is fun, with a cargo carrying capacity of 60.8 cubic feet.

HORNET—The first thing that'll impress you about the compact Hornet is its price tag. It's lower than that of any other domestic compact. The next thing that'll impress you is how much more Hornet gives you for such a low price tag. The standard engine is a big 232 cu. in. 6 cylinder. The biggest standard engine in the compact class. For those who want more power, Hornet also offers the largest optional engine in its class, the 360 cu. in. V-8. And although Hornet is designed over a 108" wheelbase, its interior actually rivals that of much bigger cars for roominess and comfort.

GREMLIN—Gremlin was the first of the North American sub-compact cars. It was and still is, the only one with a 6 cylinder engine as standard equipment. As for styling, it's been imitated but never excelled. And because Gremlin has standardized, easily replaceable fenders and grille, it means greater economy should you ever need repairs. And Gremlin gives you a big 17 gallon fuel tank that can put you almost 500 miles down the road between gas stations.

Quaker Returns To Peterborough

TORONTO (CP) — Quaker Oats of Canada is moving its marketing operation back to Peterborough, Ont., next month, company officials say.

The United-States controlled firm moved its operation from Peterborough to the head office in Chicago about two years ago. H. Edward Miskiman, the firm's Canadian president, said the shift back to Peterborough is the result of a decentralizing plan within the corporation to take some of the pressure off the U.S. parent and establish independent "profit centres."

But Miskiman said the return to Petertiorough does not mean the move to Chicago was failure.

"New products were developed, sales increased . . . we had a successful two years," he said.

Marketing operations in Peterborough will come under New Haven, Conn., native Frank Morgan, who will be general manager.

When the firm moved its operation to Chicago a furor developed. Canadian president Donald Kelly resigned and the firm's long-time advertising agency dropped the account.

More Crickets Now Recalled

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Chrysler Canada Ltd., announced it is calling back 819 Plymouth Cricket 1971 cars to dealerships for inspection of possible insufficient lubrication of the front wheel bearings.

Similar recall notices went out last week to owners of 7,544 Crickets in the United States.

The company said there have been no accidents attributable to the condition on the car which went on sale in Canada and the U.S. in January.

Insufficient lubrication of the front wheel bearings would first cause a great deal of noise, premature bearing failure and eventual damage to the wheel hub, a company spokesman said.

Now approval of the merger will permit Mr. Baldwin to get under way his plan to develop a chain of hotels up the Alaska Highway. Initially, the 44-room Kitimat Hotel will be combined with the Fort St. John Hotel, the Nelson Inn, and the Inn of the North in Prince George.

IOS SHAREHOLDERS FIGHT FOR CONTROL

'$1.4 Billion Pot' Up for Grabs

By PHILLIP GREER

NEW YORK (WP) — A $1.4 billion pot of gold will be up for grabs Wednesday when shareholders of Investors Overseas Services gather in Toronto's Royal York Hotel to decide the winner in a heated battle for control of the once-formidable mutual fund complex.

The money represents the remaining assets in the mutual funds managed by IOS — money that has remained in the funds through more than a year of steady redemptions, a "critical" cash shortage, reams of adverse publicity and investigations by governments of several countries in which IOS does business — money that insiders say could easily yield as much as $20 million a year in income for whoever manages it.

Coming down the stretch, both sides insist they have enough votes to win. Robert L. Vesco, chairman of New Jersey-based International Controls Corp., who has been IOS chairman since December, said after a board meeting that he "certainly" has more than 51 per cent of the 40 million votes and that his only concern is rolling up a "significant" majority.

HOLDS CLUB

But Vesco still feels he has to hold a club over the stockholders. He has threatened to force IOS to pay nearly $9 million in badly-needed cash if he loses.

The challengers to Vesco's control are eight former officers of IOS, including one who is also a Vesco nominee for the board of directors.

The insurgents claim that Vesco has no intention of reviving IOS, but plans to "rape" the company. One member of the group has filed suit in New Jersey, charging Vesco with "deliberate looting" of IOS. The insurgents also claim they have the votes to win.

FAIR CHANCE

While Vesco is in full control of IOS at the moment, the dissidents are given a better than fair chance to win the battle. The members of the group hold nearly 4.5 million shares of preferred stock, which elects two-thirds of the board. All the preferred stock, except for some 7 million shares controlled by ICC, is owned by employees or former employees of IOS.

Both sides have made extravagant — and so far unsupported — claims for the help they can give IOS. Vesco claims to have lined up a group of "well-known financial institutions" which will become partners in the company, but he has refused to identify any of them.

At the last board meeting, he reportedly outlines a $10 million financing plan for IOS, but he made it contingent on a victory on Wednesday and has declined to spell out any specifics — or, in fact, to confirm that he detailed such a plan.

LOAN IN DEFAULT

Last year, Vesco took control of IOS when ICC loaned the company $5 million and promised $10 million more. Shortly after, Vesco declared the original loan in default and cancelled the remainder. For arranging the credit, ICC took a finders fee of $350,000. The loan was quickly transferred to Butlers Bank in the Bahamas and IOS posted more than $9 million in collateral. The collateral has since been worked down to something over $5 million.

Vesco and the dissidents will likely be the main characters in the meeting, but two other personalities are certain to hang over the proceedings.

One is Bernard Cornfeld, founder of IOS who was deposed last year. Cornfeld, who sold his shares to Vesco and has agreed not to oppose management, has said he plans to attend the meeting "to give moral support" to the dissidents but it is uncertain whether he will show up.

The other overriding personality at the meeting — as he had been during IOS salad days — is Edward M. Cowett, former executive vice-president who was the chief architect of the company's complicated legal structure.

RESIGNED

Cowett resigned from IOS last spring, served as a consultant to the company for five months and dropped out of sight. Vesco maintains Cowett has no connection with the company, but many stockholders feel he is at least guiding Vesco's efforts.

Wednesday's vote is expected to be very close, notwithstanding the claims by both sides that they have the battle won. The dissidents say they are prepared for any parliamentary moves the management may make to prevent their possible victory and they have prepared papers to carry the fight into the Canadian courts.

Vesco has made no public commitment on his plans if he loses — other than his threat to withdraw his financing — but he is also expected to take legal steps.

For one side or the other, the end of the rainbow holds a $1.4 billion jackpot. It promises to generate a heated fight.

B.C. Mineral Production Increases

The provincial mines department has announced that mineral production in British Columbia increased in value last year to $485.2 million from $464.3 million in 1969.

The department said the most valuable single product in the mineral industry in 1970 was copper with production valued at $121.3 million.

Crude oil was worth $60.4 million and molybdenum $52.4 million.

The value of all metals produced in the province increased by $11.6 million to $306.5 million.

The department said a $9.4-million decline in the production value of structural materials was the result of a decrease in value of cement, sand and gravel. Structural materials were valued at $46 million.

TORONTO (CP) — Prices on the Canadian bond market moved upward in moderate trading last week.

The report of large spending and deficits in the federal budget depressed the market at the beginning of the week, however, some institutions began buying toward week's end, using nowledge gained from the budget and money held back until its announcement.

The short end of the market rose by about 10 to 15 cents this week and mid-term issues by about one-quarter to one-half point. The long end grew stronger by about one-half point and corporate issues by about three-quarters of a point.

Day-to-day money was available at 3% per cent Friday, and three- and six-month treasury bills traded at 3:18 and 3:30 per cent respectively.

It is likely that the market will see increased activity and the release of new issues this week when the budget has been fully digested.

Fighting Room Pledged in Labor Relations Bill

By IAN PORTER

OTTAWA (CP) — The long-promised revisions to the federal industrial relations code will be unveiled in the Commons this week.

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey says the revisions will leave plenty of fighting room for unions and employers to work through to a satisfactory relationship.

"There'll be a minimum of interference in collective bargaining," he promised in an interview.

Just how much room that will leave for the public is not clear. The minister was reluctant to upstage his own legislation with a premature discussion of details.

However one safe prediction is that the bill will reflect Mr. Mackasey's own approach and leave plenty of scope for his hand-picked mediators.

The labor minister is a firm believer in the healing powers of hard, fast talk at the bargaining table.

His department has had notable success with the concept of preventive mediation — an on-going program to ensure unresolved minor grievances don't clutter proceedings during contract negotiations.

COULD BE DIFFERENT

All this suggests the new legislation will be significantly different from recommendations presented in a 1968 report by Dean H. D. Woods of McGill University, Montreal, and three other members of a committee appointed by the government in 1966.

The Woods committee also expressed confidence in the collective bargaining process but, because of concern for the effect of strikes, recommended creation of a public interest disputes commission with enormous powers of intervention.

Mr. Mackasey has made clear there will be no such labor court in his legislation, although admitting it will reflect other Woods committee recommendations.

An indication of how far he intends to go with the committee will be seen in the accomodation in the bill between the individual rights of union members and the disciplinary powers of unions.

The Woods committee recommended a worker should have a right of appeal to an outside body in the event of disciplinary action by a union that might cost him his job.

Mr. Mackasey said the bill will seek a balance between the rights of a worker and a union's need to maintain order in its own ranks.

One area in which Mr. Mackasey appears to be in agreement with the Woods report involves the scope given the Canadian Labor Relations Board.

The committee recommended wide discretionary powers for the board, including the power to recognize regional bargaining units in national industries.

A recommendation that may also have found favor is for extension of the federal labor jurisdiction by agreement in some industries now within provincial authority.

Whether Mr. Mackasey believes such inter-delegation of responsibilities would be acceptable, he has been working with his provincial counterparts towards a more comprehensive national labor policy.

Two Plane Crashes Raise Weekend Toll

VANCOUVER (CP)—At least 11 persons died accidentally in British Columbia during the weekend, four of them in two plane crashes and the rest in traffic accidents.

The first crash occurred at Roche Lake, 19 miles southeast of Kamloops, when a light plane flipped over when it landed there Friday. Killed were 39-year-old Robert Jonah and his wife, Ruth, of Vancouver.

Early Saturday evening, another small plane crashed in the Deer Park area near Castlegar. Forty-year-old James Damchella of Robson, and 27-year-old John MacKinnon of Glade were killed. They had been working at the Mica Dam site. Glade and Robson are near Castlegar.

An accident at Golden on the Trans-Canada Highway took the lives of two men Friday night. One of them identified as 20-year-old Robert Walter Arrance of Golden, formerly of Okanagan Mission near Kelowna. Name of the second man has not been released.

A Port Moody man died Friday night when the car he was in flipped over on the Barnett Highway in Port Moody east of Vancouver. Dead is Edward Filbert, 42.

HIT BY CAR

Forty-five-year-old Gordon Samms was struck by a car while he walked along the Trans-Canada Highway Friday near Kamloops. He died Sunday in hospital in Kamloops.

Twenty-two-year-old Marianne Angela Manly of Surrey died in hospital in New Westminster during the weekend, after an accident on the Fraser Highway in Surrey. She swerved to miss a cat and hit an oncoming car.

In Richmond Sunday morning, Marilyn Patricia Moore of New Westminster was killed when the car she was riding in slammed into a power pole. Driver Steve Jordan of Richmond is in fair condition.

An 82-year-old Salmon Arm man died in hospital in the central interior city Sunday after he was struck by a car as he crossed a street in Salmon Arm. He was identified as Michael John Wilkinson.

Strike Vote At Breweries

VANCOUVER (CP) —Lower mainland brewery workers have voted 99 per cent in favor of strike action against Molson's and Labatt's breweries.

The strike vote was taken Sunday among about 550 members of the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America.

The union is asking for a raise of 72 cents an hour in a one-year agreement. The companies have offered a 60-cent increase over two years.

Union spokesman Alex Lipp said the basic wage at the two breweries is currently $3.82 an hour.

He said a settlement recently reached at Carling's and O'Keefe breweries raised the basic wage to $4.22 with a provision for an additional 40-cent raise in January.

The union is also seeking reduction of the work day from eight to 7½ hours and adjustments in overtime policy.

7 Survive Air Crash

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — A chartered plane carrying 20 real estate executives and salesmen returning home from a business weekend crashed into the sea Sunday moments after taking off from a private airstrip, the U.S. Coast Guard said. A crew of three was aboard.

Seven survivors and 10 bodies were taken from the water after coast guard cutters and crews of sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen reached the wreckage of the DC-3 twin-engine prop craft.

All aboard were reported to be Californians. Three of the survivors were in hospital in good condition while four others were in serious condition, two after surgery on their legs.

The cost guard said the plane struck a sewage treatment building at the end of the Shelter Cove Co. airstrip and plummeted into the ocean. It remained afloat for 20 minutes before sinking. The plane was en route to San Jose.

Let's Talk Real Estate by Jack Mears.

The value of Real Estate is inextricably tied to the political atmosphere of the country in which it is located and its value will rise or fall according to the actions of those governing the country.

Here in Canada we are lucky enough to have a relatively stable political situation and consequently real estate is and always has been a good investment.

Last week Mr. Benson tabled his budget together with sweeping tax reform proposals and I understand that the English version of the Bill runs to nearly 600 pages.

Included in the Bill are provisions for a capital gains tax and changes in the regulations affecting the application of depreciation on capital cost allowances and their recapture. Whilst it is still too early to fully assess the impact of these changes on the values of revenue properties, there will undoubtedly be a considerable effect. We are thoroughly investigating these changes and would be only too pleased to discuss them with you. Just call 598-3321.

U.S. SUSPICIOUS OF BREZHNEV'S PEACE OFFENSIVE

By DONALD ARMOUR

MOSCOW (Reuter) — A peace offensive launched by Soviet Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev is being viewed with suspicion by the United States.

During the last three months, Brezhnev has woven an intricate pattern of proposals calling for disarmament, collective security and a general international effort for world peace.

But Secretary of State William P. Rogers has voiced his skepticism of some of the Russian leader's proposals, pointing out that they have been made in political speeches.

HIT HEADLINES AGAIN

Brezhnev first launched his much-publicized peace offensive at the 24th Soviet party congress in March. Then in May, he picked up a NATO suggestion of troop reductions in Europe, presenting it as his own initiative and even haranguing the West for its timidity about coming to the conference table.

In June, the 67-year-old party boss made the headlines again with a dramatic proposal to control the movements of the superpowers' naval task forces.

He hinted that he might be prepared to discuss with the U.S. the build-up of Soviet naval power in distant seas in return for some rethinking on the role of the American Sixth and Seventh fleets.

Although there can be no doubt that Russia is seriously ready to talks about arms cuts, Western observers here believe some sober skepticism is in order in assessing Brezhnev's impressive-sounding proposals.

Soviet ambassadors in Washington, Peking, Paris and London have since handed over official statements calling for such a conference.

LOOKS GOOD ON PAPER

The proposal is attractive on paper. But the likelihood of persuading China to come to such a conference and the chances for its success in the near future seem slim to most observers here.

At a news conference in Washington on June 15, Rogers noted that Brezhnev had questioned the sincerity of the NATO partners over troop reductions.

He charged in reply that the Russians themselves these days seemed to be making their proposals only in political speeches thus prompting "a little question about their sincerity."

Smythe Appeal Fails

Times News Services

The Supreme Court of Canada, in a judgment handed down in Ottawa today, dismissed an appeal by Stafford Smythe of Toronto against trial by indictment for tax evasion.

Smythe was charged in 1969 with evading payment of income taxes on $278,920 and of making false and deceptive statements in income tax returns from 1964 to 1967.

Harold Ballard, another Gardens director, also was charged under the Income Tax Act with evasion of taxes on $134,685 in income.

Smythe, 51, president of Maple Leaf Gardens Ltd., had appealed the Crown's procedure by indictment on the grounds that it was a violation of the Bill of Rights.

His lawyer, J. J. Robinette, argued that the procedure violates the Bill of Rights because, at the whim of the justice minister, it places the accused in jeopardy of a jail sentence.

Procedure by indictment means a minimum of two months in jail on conviction, while summary procedure provides the judge with the option of jail or fine.

Robinette argued and won the Smythe case last November before county court Judge Joseph Kelly. In December Chief Justice Dalton Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court overruled Judge Kelly and ordered Smythe to stand trial as charged.

Robinette went to the Ontario Court of Appeal, which upheld the Wells ruling, and then to the Supreme Court of Canada, which today did the same.

At Vancouver, former Toronto Argonaut quarterback Tom Wilkinson piloted British Columbia Lions' black team to a 27-6 victory Sunday over the Western Football Conference club's white team.

Wilkinson completed nine of 11 passes and set up running backs Dave Whitfield, Wayne Matherne and Dave Corcoran for touchdowns in the inter-squad game before 9,800 fans. Corcoran scored two touchdowns.

The lone touchdown for the white team came on a play from quarterback Vidal Carlin to running back John Ashton.

There were two injuries in the game. Rookies A. Z. Drones received a shoulder injury and McKinley Boston sufferrd a knee injury.

The team will be pared to 32 in time for next Monday's pre-season game at Vancouver against Edmonton Eskimos.

At Eugene, Ore., UCLA'S John Smith smashed the world 440-yard dash record Saturday as he won at the Amateur Athletic Union's track and field championships in 44.5 seconds.

Then Sid Sink of Bowling Green, Ohio, came on to smash the american record in the 3,000-metre steeplechase in eight minutes 26.4 seconds as he cut loose with a tremendous drive on the final lap. He overtook Mike Manley of the Oregon track club in the final 50 yards.

Sink, the National Collegiate champion, bettered the 8:30.6 American record set by George Young in 1968. Australian Kerry O'Brien holds the world record at 8:22.

Smith, a 20-year-old junior, became the second collegiate champion to post a world mark in this meet at the University of Oregon's Hayward Stadium—preceded Friday by a 120-yard high hurdles mark of 13 seconds flat by Rod Milburn of Southern University.

At Portland, Don Hellings, a St. Louis, Mo., lefthander, came through with a clutch 210-182 victory over Dave Souter of Gilfoy, Calif., Saturday to take the $4,000 winner's check in the $35,000 Portland open bowling tournament.

Helling, 28, the leader after 28 games of qualifying with a 218 average, wound up with an advantage of 105 pins over runner-up Bobby Cooper of Houston, Tex.

Dave Davis, Miami, Fla., went into third place, dropping Soutar to fourth.

BLACK SUNDAY FOR WHITE SOX

It was sad Sunday for Chicago White Sox in American League baseball doubleheader on the home field. Everything went wrong for Sox in clashes with California Angels. After clipping Californians 4-3 Saturday, Sox were nipped 2-1 in Sunday's opening game and bombed 12-3 in nightcap. One of unhappy moments for White Sox arrived as Rich Morales attempted to score and was tagged out by California catcher John Stephenson, who received perfect throw from outfielder Tony Conigliaro. # Giants Unable To Shake Off 'Dome Deluge

By The Associated Press

It never rains inside the Houston Astrodome, but it generally pours for San Francisco Giants anyway.

Sunday was no exception as the Giants lost to Houston Astros 5-2, making it 20 setbacks in their last 25 games inside the dome.

"We're kind of jinxed here," said pitcher Jerry Johnson. "Maybe we've got it in our heads that we play bad here.

"It's just a psychological thing . . . I can't explain why."

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Pittsburgh Pirates edged Philadelphia Phillies 10-9 after dropping the opener 8-4, Montreal Expos trounced New York Mets 12-4. Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed San Diego Padres 7-2, Chicago Cubs downed St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 and Cincinnati Reds held off Atlanta Braves 7-5.

Outfielder Ken Henderson disagreed with team-mate Johnson's assessment of the San Francisco-Houston situation.

"I don't think it's anything psychological. Breaks play a big part in any ball game and I don't think we're getting them."

The Giants jumped off to a 2-0 lead Sunday against rookie Ken Forsch, but the Astros took a 3-2 lead off Steve Stone in the fifth on RBI singles by Bob Watson and Roger Metzger around Doug Rader's sacrifice fly.

The Pirates, meanwhile, blew a five-run lead against the Phillies and then had to overcome a four-run deficit before winning their nightcap on Roberto Clemente's pinch homer in the eighth.

Willie Stargell hit his 28th home run in the opener and broke Tony Perez's NL record for most homers through June 30.

Roger Freed's game-tying home run and doubles by Denny Doyle and Willie Montanez keyed a four-run seventh inning that enabled the Phils to win the opener.

BOSTON IN SECOND

In the American League, runners are learning not to run on Carl Yastrzemski.

Frank Robinson tried and Baltimore paid as Boston Red Sox topped the Orioles 3-1 Sunday for their third straight victory over the East Division leaders.

Yaz cut down Robinson with a perfect throw, bailing Ray Culp out of a fourth-inning jam and the Red Sox right hander took over after that, pitching Boston into second place, one percentage point ahead of Detroit Tigers and five games back of Baltimore.

Detroit lost 3-1 to Cleveland Indians Sunday while Washington Senators swept a doubleheader from New York Yankees 2-1 and 8-0, California Angels took a pair from Chicago White Sox 2-1 and 12-3, Minnesota Twins split with Milwaukee Brewers, winning 2-1 before losing 8-5, and Oakland Athletics split a pair with Kansas City Royals, winning the first 3-0 and dropping the second 6-3.

HEADED FOR PLATE

The Red Sox were leading 2-0 in the fourth when Baltimore nicked Culp for a run on a walk and singles by Frank Robinson and Brooks Robinson. There were two out when Dave Johnson singled to left and Frank Robinson turned third and headed for the plate.

"I wasn't unhappy at all to see Robinson trying to score," said Culp.

"I like to see people challenge Yaz. If you challenge him, he's going to get you an awful lot."

Yastrzemski got Robinson the same way he's gotten several other runners this season and Culp was out of trouble.

Boston Buddies Top Hockey Golf By Three Shots

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Eddie Johnston and Derek Sanderson won the third annual American Airlines-National Hockey League Players' Association golf tournament Sunday, carding a best-ball score of 125.

The Boston Bruin stars carded a 64 Sunday to go with Saturday's 61 to win the $5,000 first-prize money.

Three strokes off the pace was the Chicago Black Hawk pair of Stan Mikita and Jim Pappin while New York Rangers' Brad Park and Dave Balon finished at 129.

Individual honors went to Dale Tallon, Vancouver Canucks' rookie defenceman and Canadian junior golf champion in 1969.

Porsche Collects Another Triumph

ZELTWEG, Austria (AP) — The team of Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico and Dick Attwood of Britain won the 1,000-kilometre auto race Sunday in a Porsche 917 on the Oesterreich course.

The race counted towards the car-maker world championship, which Porsche already had clinched.

The Rodriguez-Attwood duo was clocked in 5 hours 4 minutes and 26 seconds, which was an average of 198 kilometres, or 124 miles per hour on a wet and slippery track.

Ferris Takes Trial

Pat Ferris, covering the distance in 1:08:26, won a 25-mile bicycle time trial staged Sunday by Victoria Wheelers. David Kirsop and Ken Baber finished second and third.

Ontario Team Leads Cenntennial Car Rally

REGINA (CP) — A rally team from Tavistock, Ont., Bruce and Betty Schmidt, were leading in the British Columbia centennial 1971 car rally as competitors pulled in for a two-hour stop Sunday in the 4,800-mile endurance run from Ottawa to Victoria.

The Schmidts, driving a Fiat 124, lead with 318 penalty points, 11 fewer than the second-place team of Haydn Gozzard and David Grundy of London, Ont., in a Renault 8. The Renault had been leading in Winnipeg on Saturday.

In third place with 386 penalty points were Tom Samida of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Brian Fox of Dover Centre, Ont., in an AMC Hornet.

Ole Pedersen and Tony Woodlands of Guelph, Ont., driving a Datsun, held fourth spot, with 410 penalty points.

From Regina, the rally goes through Saskatoon with a 12½-hour stop in Edmonton. The cars were due to arrive in Edmonton this morning and leave this evening.

MONTREAL (CP) — Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass., fired a one-under-par 71 for a 54-hole total of 214 Sunday to win the Quebec Open golf championship for the second year in a row.

Dolan, in repeating the 1970 victory when the Open was played in Quebec City, scored a one-stroke victory over Bob Payne of Mount Vernon, Ill., and Tom Nettles of San Diego. Nettles is a former wide receiver with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference.

Dolan was one stroke behind four co-leaders at 143 going into Sunday's final round in the $16,000 event.

He claimed $3,000 first-place money, Payne and Nettles, who shared first place with two other golfers after Saturday's second round, both fired one-over 73s and finished at 215. Each man won $1,875 second-place money.

FIERY JOHNSON . . . . . SUSPENDED INDEFINITELY

Angels Didn't Have a Choice

CHICAGO (AP) — "It was unfortunate for him and the ball club, but the team had no other choice," said Tony Conigliaro Sunday about the suspension of controversial teammate Alex Johnson.

Johnson, who won the American batting championship last year, was suspended indefinitely Saturday by the California Angels.

Most of the players said the action was justified but there were several, including Sandy Alomar and Tony Gonzales, who refused to comment.

"The club gave him every opportunity," said Conigliaro.

"I've talked to him for hours and like the man, but he had inner hatreds which were so intense that he simply couldn't perform."

General manager Dick Walsh said he had no other choice.

"Sure, we could have traded him but it is unethical to trade a player with a physical ailment and we couldn't trade Alex and promise another team he would perform," said Walsh.

Pitcher Rudy May, the only other Black on the team, upheld the ball club's action even after admitting that he once asked Johnson "Hey man, loan me two grand" and Johnson had replied "Wait until I cash a check tomorrow."

If the suspension lasts longer than 19 days, the player automatically has his case reviewed by the commissioner of baseball, Bowie Kuhn.

Johnson, benched numerous times this season by manager Lefty Phillips for lack of hustle, has criticized fellow players for not allowing him to play his game. Teammates in turn have criticized him for what they call his poor team attitude.

Early this month, Johnson accused team-mate Chico Ruiz of pulling a gun on him in the clubhouse, a charge that was vehemently denied by Ruiz.

May, Turney, Hawkins Among 19 From B.C.

By BILL WALKER

RICHMOND — Three from Vancouver Island were among the 19 B.C. athletes named to the Canadian Track and Field team to the Pan-American Games at Cali, Colombia, July 31 to Aug. 12, following the national trials here Friday and Saturday at Minoru Park.

They were Victoria's Penny May, the only record breaker in the event, Gail Turney of Cowichan, and John Hawkins of Courtenay.

Twenty four athletes were selected from Ontario, and one each from Quebec and Alberta to the 45-member squad.

Miss May set her record of 13.5 seconds in the 100 metre hurdles on Friday.

Miss Turney finished third in the 100 metres and fourth in the 200 metres.

Hawkins, the Canadian high jump record holder at 6' 11½" finished second to Wilf Wedmann of Burnaby on Saturday, Wedman jumped 6' 10" Hawkins, 6'8".

Other B.C. athletes include: Patti Loverock of Vancouver won the 100 and 200 metres and equalled the Canadian record of 11.3 in the 100; Stephanie Berto, who was second in both sprints; Brenda Eisler, winner of the long jump at 20'7½"; Joye Sadowick, who equalled the Canadian open record of 54.3 in the 400 metres, Wendy Taylor of Abbotsford, who was second to Miss May in the hurdles. Alberta member: Brenda Walsh, Edmonton.

DISAPPOINTED

High jump record holder Debbie Brill of Haney was disappointed in her winning jump of 5'9½" Saturday. "Things weren't coming together the way they should," she said. Miss Brill was tied by Patti Wilson of Ottawa and won first place in a jumpoff.

Charles Francis of Toronto, who was one-tenth of a second off the Canadian record in the 100 metres Friday with a 10.1 clocking, came right back to win the 200 metres Saturday in 21 seconds flat. He was followed by Craig Blackman of Toronto in 21.3 seconds.

Canadian record-holder George Puce of Toronto won the discuss with a throw of 60.38 metres (198 feet one inch), well below his record-breaking throw in 1968 of 64.289 metres (211 feet two inches). Ain. Roose of Toronto was second, with a distance of 59.15 metres and Elio Poliselli, of Windsor, was third with 52.95 metres.

Nancy McCredie, holder of the Canadian native shot put record of 16.008 metres, won her event Saturday but was well below her record. Miss McCredie, of Brampton, Ont. threw for 4.51 metres (47'7") beating Joan Pavelich, of Vancouver, who had a best throw of 14.08 metres.

WON ON COUNT-BACK

Allan Kane of suburban Burnaby won the men's pole vault with a leap of 4.86 metres (15',11¼"). Kane beat second-place Bruce Simpson, who holds the Canadian native record of 5.123 metres (16',9¾"). Simpson also jumped 4.86 metres Saturday, but Kane won on a countback — he missed fewer jumps at lower heights.

Abby Hoffman of Toronto, who holds the Canadian native record of 2:04.3 in the 800 metres, sprinted to a first-place finish in the event with a time of 2:06.1. Gayle Olinek of Toronto was second in 2:07.2.

Bill Smart of Vancouver was a double winner. After taking the 1,500 metres on Friday, he came back on Saturday to win the 800 metres in 1.50.6.

Pressure Stuck But Didn't Hurt

CLEVELAND (AP) — "There was pressure all the way," Bobby Mitchell said after scoring a seven-stroke triumph in the $150,000 Cleveland Open, his first victory in six years on the pro golf tour.

Mitchell, 28, and a pro since he was a 15-year-old assistant in a Danville, Va., shop, put the lie to the apparent ease of his elusive first win.

"I kept thinking about last year," Mitchell said.

He was referring to the 1970 Azalea Open when — as Sunday — he went into the final round with a four-stroke lead, then finished second after three-putting the final three greens.

This time it wasn't even close.

CANADIANS MISSED OUT

Mitchell birdied the first two holes from 12 feet, almost scored an ace with an eight iron on the third hole, tapped it in "and kind of left them behind," he grinned.

Three Canadians—George Knudson of Toronto, Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver and Ken Fulton of Montreal—didn't survive the halfway cut after Friday's round.

Mitchell had a final-round 65, six under par on the muggy Beechmont Country Club course, a relatively short 6,643 yards.

His 72-hole total of 262 was a fantastic 22 under par—on rounds of 66, 64, 67, 65—and was the second lowest winning total in the last 15 years on the tour.

Masters champion Charles Coody was second at 269, but never really in contention despite a final-round 68. Australian veteran Bruce Crampton Mitchell's playing partner, was next with a 69 for 270.

United States Open champion, Lee Trevino, had a final 71 and was 18 strokes away at 280.

The victory was worth $30,000 to Mitchell, pushing his year's earnings to $49,928, by far his best year on the tour.

Ex-Seattle Golfer New Open Queen

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Jo-Anne Carner of Lake Worth, Fla., took her first United States women's open golf championship Sunday with a seven-stroke margin.

Kathy Whitowth, the all-time Ladies' Professional Golf Association's leading money-winner, finished alone in second at 295 and won $2,500.

Tied for third place were the defending champion Donna Caponi, four-time Open winner Mickey Wright, Jane Blalock and amateur Jane Bastanchury. They all cored 299, 11 over par.

Sandra Post Elliott, formerly of Oakville, Ont., had a 72 for a total of 304 and won $610. Amateur Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, Ont., had 77 for a total of 308.

COQUITLAM — Club captain Bill Bradley pressed the power button Saturday night and Coquitlam Adanacs snapped a second-place deadlock with Victoria Shamrocks in the Western Lacrosse Association by defeating the Irish 20-14 before 1,050 fans.

Bradley, who had scored only eight goals in the past 15 games for Coquitlam, finally got untracked and led the Adanac attack with four goals and two assists.

Only one Adanac—Bob Ormans—failed to collect at least one point as the home-town squad took advantage of various Shamrock defensive lapses.

Adanacs took a 4-3 lead in the first period and then jumped away to a 12-7 advantage by the end of the second frame.

Any chance for a third-period rally went up in smoke when Victoria goalkeeper Doug Thompson, who made 37 stops overall to 34 for counterpart Merv Schweitzer, was beaten three times within 21 seconds.

Ed Kowalyk had his finest night since rejoining the Irish with a squad leading total of three goals and two assists as well as a strong defencive game.

Ken Alexander and Dennis Sommer each scored twice for Shamrocks, who were without the sevices of Muzz Bryant, Tom Somner and Frank Alexander because of injuries. Juniors replacements Mike Walsh and Norm Baker Jr. each scored a goal.

Mike Beaulac, who also scored, ran into another injury problem. Playing with a face mask to protect a broken nose, Beaulac had to leave the game in the second period because of a sore leg.

Shamrock co-coach Bert Bertoia summed up the loss later as 'Mental, mental, mental! We've tried to get them to hustle back down floor, but they don't turn around fast enough to pick up their checks—and it's in again.'

Bates One Up On Ball Rivals

The relationship between Campbell River Tyees and Bate's Construction of Victoria at senior men's softball tournaments parallels that of the Hatfields and the McCoys.

Their feud has spiced three tournaments this season. Nothing was settled in the first at Campbell River when rain prevented a decision. Upstarts got in the way to stop them short of the final at Central Park two weeks ago.

But round No. 3 went to Bates when the Victoria team shaded the Tyees 2-0 Sunday in the sudden-death playoff for Strathcona Invitational tournament honors.

Campbell River forced the playoff earlier Sunday by defeating Bates 8-4. The Victoria team had dropped Tyees into the losers' section of the double-knockout tournament Satuday, 7-0, behind the shutout pitching of Barry Jackson.

LARSON STRONG

While Bates claimed the championship trophy, Campbell River also got into the silverware-collecting act by taking a pair of individual honors. Tyee shortstop Wayne Kennedy, who batted .471 and sparkled afield, was selected the most valuable performer and Dave Ruthowski, winner of three decisions which included a five-inning no-hitter, was named the top pitcher.

Langford Power Topples Gilmour

Power at the plate proved the difference Sunday as Langford Drywall vaulted into a four-point lead in the Stuffy McGinnis Major Men's Softball League.

Langford swept a double-header against cellar-dwelling Gilmour Construction 10-8 and 3-2 at Heywood Avenue Park.

Ken Hardy and Barry Moen supplied much of the impetus for the first victory. Hardy had three hits on four trips to the plate, batted in two runs and scored twice as Langford began to erase a 6-0 deficit at the top of the fourth inning.

Gilmour batters also had some fun in the first game, producing a three-run homer by Bob Walton and a solo homer by John Hughes in the first inning.

In the second contest, Wade Burns led the Drywall assault with a three-for-three performance, including a solo homer in the fourth inning. Burns scored Langford's second run in the sixth inning on a single by Rocky Tylor. Ken Hardy, who reached base on a walk, scored the winning run on a single by Terry Hamilton.

Favorites Advance In Junior Tourney

Play went largely according to form Sunday in opening matches of the Pacific Regional junior tennis championships on courts throughout the Greater Victoria area.

Because of wet weather all matches were restricted to a pro set, in which the first player to reach eight games is the winner.

Top-seeded players in the under-18 age bracket all gained the quarter-finals, which were scheduled for today. The only seeded player to fall was second-ranked Susan Smith in the under-14 girls' singles competition.

Blake Dunlop of Vancouver, first seed in the tourney and seventh-ranked in Canada, disposed of Craig Thomas, 8-0. In other boys' under-18 struggled, second-seeded Peter Vick downed Gerry Macken 8-2, third-ranked Frank Scott defeated Chris Ferrie 8-3 and Victoria's Ted Davies, the forth-seed, ousted Mark Ralston, 8-1.

BRENDA WINS, LOSES

Taffy Savard, who was invited to the junior Wimbledon meet last year and is seeded first for this tourney, downed Barb Smith 8-0 in the girls' under-18 competition.

In other matches, second-seed Janet Hall defeated Carla Rawlston 8-0, third-ranked Pat Gildersleeve eliminated Pat Thain 8-2 and fourth-seeded Kim Tindle downed Agnes Szilos, 8-2.

Brenda Cameron of Victoria defeated Nicki Jaffary 8-1 in the under-14 girls' singles but lost out to Pat Moran in the under-16 bracket.

Tacoma Ace Holds Off Late Charge by Cooper

Ron Eaton of Tacoma took charge on the sixth circuit Saturday and was never again headed en route to a victory at Western Speedway in the 50-lap main event of the first Early Late Stock Car Association of the Northwest super-stock meet ever held in Canada.

But he was severely pressed before collecting the win in front of 3,837 car-racing fans.

Dave Cooper of Victoria, who beat Eaton in the O-Keefe Opener at Langley Speedway last weekend, also took the checkered flag ahead of the Tacoma ace twice Saturday night. Cooper won the "A" trophy dash while Eaton finished third and placed second in the fast heat while Eaton settled for fourth.

Eaton flashed into the lead on the sixth lap of the main event when Gary Kershaw, the pole-sitter, had to go around a spinout involving Mark Meets, John Harris and Mike Armstrong.

For the next nine laps Eaton was challenged by another Tacoma driver, Jackie Kupper, who had won the fast heat.

HEATING PROBLEM

Kerhsaw took over the runner-up spot on the 15th lap and pressed Eaton until the 31st lap, when a heating problem in his car's engine forced Gary out of the race.

Cooper, who trailed by quarter of a lap at this point, gradually began to close the gap and was within striking distance for the last two laps.

On the final circuit of the four-tenths of a mile Langford oval, Cooper was trailing Eaton by a car length and made his bid on the outside and the number-two turn.

LAP RECORD SET

The extra distance involved was too much to surmount and Cooper finished three-quarters of a car legnth behind Eaton.

Kershaw, who believes that a new fan blade might have been partially responsible for the overheating, set a new record for super-stocks during the time trials with a lap of 17.37 seconds — an average speed of almost 83 miles-per-hour. Kershaw set the old mark of 17.58 seconds on May 1 of this season.

The scheduled second half of the ELSCAN program on Sunday was rained out and as track manager Reg Midgley said: "That's the way it goes."

Results:

Main event—1. Ron Eaton, Tacoma; 2. Dave Cooper; 3. Jackie Kupper, Tacoma 4. Harvey Brown, Royston; 5. Duane Rea, Portland.

McLarens Bow To Canny Scot

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) — A pre-race strategy of driving slowly to preserve his car paid off Sunday for Jackie Stewart as he swept by an ailing Denis Hulme to win the Canadian-American Challenge Cup race at Le Circuit over the favored McLaren team.

For 51 of the 75 laps it looked like the same old Can-Am story with Hulme's McLaren M8F taking the lead fro mthe start and running easily at the head of the pack.

Then on lap 52, Stewart's Lola T260 outbraked Hulme going into the hairpin turn leading to the start-finish straight and jumped ahead.

The 32-year-old Scot extended his lead throughout the late stages of the race and finished 66.8 seconds ahead of Hulme and a lap ahead of Peter Revson, he other Team McLaren driver.

Stewart told reporters following the race he followed a strategy worked out by his team to keep the car running throughout the 198.5-mile event.

"Perhaps I could have led early in the race but we'd decided it was very important to win this one.

"In the early part of the race I drove as quietly as I could."

FIRST CAN-AM WIN

It was Stewart's first Can-Am win and his first victory ever in Canada.

His average speed was 100.95 miles an hour, compared with 98.76 miles an hour for the runner-up.

Hulme, leading driver for the McLaren team which has dominated Can-Am racing for the past four years, had trouble maintaining his pace and complained of nausea when the event ended.

He and several other drivers and mechanics apparently became sick as the result of eating tainted food prior to the race.

Lothar Motschenbacher of Beverly Hills, Calif., who finished fifth in a McLaren M8D behind fellow Californian Chuck Parsons in a similar car, almost decided not to race because he felt so ill.

However, Motschenbacher moved his car from the fourth starting spot he learned in qualifying to the back of the grid and decided to race for as long as he was able to fight off sickness.

FASTEST SINGLE LAP

Although the McLaren team, winner of 30 of 34 Can-Am events since the beginning of the 1967 season, failed to claim their customary first place, Hulme was the fastest man around the course on a single lap.

The New Zealander turned a lap of 1:33.6—equivalent to 101.92 miles an hour—to set a record for Group 7 cars on the 2.65-mile track.

The previous record of 1:33.8 was set in 1969 by Hulme at the wheel of an arlier model McLaren.

Top Canadian was Ray Brezinka of Toronto who piloted his McLaren M6B to 12th place. John Cordts, another Torontonian, qualified his McLaren M8C in seventh position and was running a strong sixth before engine problems forced him from the race after 40 laps.

Awards Won By Fawthorpe, Tom Morris

WEST VANCOUVER — Two members of Victoria Wheelers earned major prizes as the stamina-testing Centennial 71 bicycle race was completed here Sunday.

Tom Morris of Victoria, one of the favorites in the open section of the two-day event, which was run in four stages over a route from West Vancouver to Whistler Mountain and return, finished in second place behind Calgary star Hank Koning.

Title Challenger Suffers Beating

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Bruno Arcari of Italy stopped Argentine challenger Henrique Jana in the ninth round to retain his world boxing council junior welterweight title Saturday night.

French referee Georges Gondree stopped the match 45 seconds into the ninth round. Jana had both eyes nearly closed by Arcari's blows.

Substitute's Late Heroics Save West

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Substitute quarterback Chuck Hixson of Southern Methodist fired a desperation 23-yard touchdown pass to Nebraska's Joe Orduna with 31 seconds remaining Saturday night to give the West a pulsating 33-28 victory in the 11th Annual Coaches All-America football game.

Hixson, who played the game in the shadow of Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett of Stanford led the West 57 yards in five plays after Alabama's Scott Hunter had galloped three yards for a touchdown with 2:44 remaining to give the underdog East a 28-26 lead.

Plunkett, the No. 1 draft pick of the New England Patriots, thrilled the record crowd of 43,320 and a national television audience as he guided the West to a 19-point third quarter explosion to overcome a 21-7 deficit.

Orduna, a draft choice of San Francisco 49ers, caught Hixson's winning pass on the East eight-yard line and bulled his way through several tacklers to barely stagger in the end zone. Orduna was voted the outstanding player in the game.

Plunkett completed 18 of 32 passes for 209 yards and had two interceptions. Hixson was six of eight for 59 yards in his brief but deadly appearances.

Canadian Squad Finishes Second

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Captained by Bill Terrell of Charlotte, N.C., the United States seniors golf team won the international triangular seniors golf matches Friday with 23 points.

Canada's hold on second place with 18½ points, was due in large part to play by Phil Farley and George Hevenor, both of Toronto, and ailing Gordon Taylor of Montreal, who beat both of their opponents to gain two points each.

Britain trailed with only 12½ points.

CURLING MEETING

Annual meeting of the Victoria Curling Club will be held at the club tonight at 8 p.m.

New Zealander Jolts Riessen

WIMBLEDON, England (Reuter) — Rod Laver of Australia and Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., will be out to qualify for their projected semi-final meeting when the 1971 all-England lawn tennis championships swing into their second week today.

Quarter-final action is scheduled for both singles events today with all the women's semi-finalists and two of the men's to be decided.

Laver, the top-seed and a four-time winner of the men's crown, had the tougher job of the two. He faced Tom Gorman of Seattle, unseeded but the eliminator in the opening round of Cliff Drysdale of South Africa.

Smith, seeded fourth, faced Onny Parun, 24, of New Zealand, the first from his country to get as far as the quarter-finals since Anthony Wilding was a runner-up at Wimbledon in 1914.

UPSET RIESSEN

Parun followed up victories over Jean-Loup Royer of France, Hans Plotz of West Germany and Pierre Barthes of France with one of the biggest surprises of the week Saturday, beating Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 9-8, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Smith had his best victory of the week Saturday when he eliminated 34-year-old Australian Roy Emerson 26, 61, 63, 9-8.

The other men's quarterfinals will be played Tuesday and will send third-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia against Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex. and second-seeded John Newcombe of Australia against unrated Colin Dibley, also of Australia.

In other matches Saturday, Rosewall eliminated his doubles partner, Fred Stolle of Australia, 6-4, 7-5, 7-9, 6-4 and Richey bested the promising Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 after 3-0 in the third set.

Top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia is the only seeded player remaining in the top half of the womens' draw and faced Winnie Shaw of Scotland today.

The winner will play the survivor of a match between two unrated Australians, Kerry Melville and Judy Dalton, who upset Britain's Virginia Wade Saturday 9-8, 6-3.

All four seeds remain at the bottom half of the draw. Nancy Gunter of San Angelo, Texas, No. 6, takes on third-seeded Evonne Goolagong of Australia and Francoise Durr of France, the seventh seed, plays No. 2 Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif.

In other matches Saturday, Miss Shaw beat Lesley Bowrey of Australia 1-6, 9-7, 6-3, Mrs. Gunter tripped Saigo Yansone of Russia 6-3, 6-2 and Miss Goolagong lost her first set of the tournament but prevailed over Lesley Hunt of Australia 1-6, 6-2, 6-1.

In mixed doubles Canadian No. 2 Jane O'Hara of Toronto and her partner Australian John Barlett won their second-round match, easily accounting for Jackie Fayter of Britain and Pakistan's No. 1 Munawar Iqbal 6-2, 6-3.

With all these new-style rules and regulations, the early heroes of Cap Stadium wouldn't recognize the old ball game today. But, they'd still appreciate one style: Old Style. It's still brewed with natural ingredients and plenty of time. Still brewed in B.C. for Old Style flavour.

DOES CHARGE LESS!

Work that is 'labor' is cheaper per hour than work of a skilled mechanic for the more technical jobs—we charge according to the type of work done—not a flat rate per hour—but a variable rate that does save you dollars.

EXAMPLES:
Muffler change is a lower rate than a tune-up where more skill is required to do the job.

We recently installed some new procedures in our Service Dept. We can now provide you with the convenience of "Service by Appointment"—NOT JUST BY THE DAY, BUT BY THE DAY AND THE HOUR!

GRAND BOLERO WINS

Favored Cougar II Follows Form

By The Canadian Press

Cougar II, high weight and heavily bet, staged a familiar powerful run through the stretch to win the $125,000 Ford Pinto Inviatational Turf Handicap at Hollywood Park at Inglewood, Calif., Saturday.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker piloted Cougar II from far back in the 1½-mile marathon, raced on the outside entering the stretch, cut in to the rail and overcame Fort Marcy to win by a neck. Divide and Rule was third, 1½ lengths back.

Time was 2:26 2-5 over a firm grass course.

The victory was worth $68,750 and brought the winner's earnings for 1971 to $317,450, passing the current money leader, Canonero II, who had won $311,983.

At New York, Salem, who moved into the favorite's role when Calumet Farm's Son Ange was scratched, held on for a neck victory over Farewell Party in the $56,500 Saranac Stakes on the closing day of the Belmont Park spring meeting.

Jacinto Vasquez sent Salem over the mile in 1:34 4-5 for first money of $19,748 and his fourth win in six starts this year.

Farewell Party, half of a Paul Mellon entry with Run The Gantlet, was 5½ lengths ahead of Tartan Stable's third-place Highbinder in the field of seven three-year-olds.

At Vancouver, George Bieley's Grand Bolero led all the way to win the $8,165 Johnny Longden 6,000 by a nose over Ranch Hand Stable's River Buoy at Exhibition Park.

The longest price of the three starters, Grand Bolero paid $6.20 and $2.50.

At Omaha, Neb., Stormy vogel, a 25-to-1 shot, won the $40,000-added Omaha Gold Cup Stakes at Ak-Sar-Ben Race Track by three lengths over Lincoln's Miss. Four Way Split was third.

At Chicago, Red Bayou got up in the stretch to beat Hoist Sail by a head in the $28,350 Laurence Armour Handicap at Arlington Park. Chief Sundance was one length back in third and Jacks Again, the favorite, was a close fourth in the one-mile turf race.

At Toronto, Gentleman Conn won the $11,750 Victoria Stakes, a 5½-furlong race for two-year-olds Sunday at Woodbine, but a crowd of 12,699 had to wait 10 minutes for the results to be made official.

Gentleman Conn beat Umbrella Chief by three lengths with Flint Castle third, but stewards posted the inquiry sign immediately after the race. After viewing the film, the stewards disqualified Umbrella Chief from second place, moving the horse to fifth. Flint Castle was placed second and Fifty Guineas, third.

Jockey Sandy Hawley rode three winners to bring his total of wins to 63 in the current meet. Saturday, Hawley had four winners. Wednesday, he begins serving a five-day suspension for interfering in a race last week.

Soccer Visitor Royal Sparkler

Iam McFaul provided a display of brilliant goaltending for Victoria Royals as the Western Canada Soccer League squad played to a scoreless draw against Vancouver Junior All-Stars in an exhibition match Saturday at Royal Athletic Park.

McFaul, goalie for Northern Ireland and Newcastle of the English League's first division, is holidaying here and showed his class for the first time at the 20-minute mark of the opening half.

With a lightning-fast movement, McFaul snatched the ball out of the air after forward Brian Budd had broken through and fired a shot from close range.

McFaul tipped another shot by Budd over the bar moments later and then again impressed the crowd of 380 with a beautiful stop of a free kick.

In WCSL action at the weekend, Edmonton Eagles took a firm grip on first place in the Prairie Division with a sweep over host Vancouver Spartans of the Coast Division during two interlocking matches.

Edmonton down Spartans 1-0 Sunday after fashioning a 2-1 victory in the Saturday contest.

Rick Hart scored the lone goal for Edmonton in the Sunday contest with a penalty kick and added the insurance tally (2-0) in the Saturday match one minute into the second half.

Q. AND A.

What? No Laundry In a Wilderness?

Being another session of Questions and Answers:

Question: "On the weekend my family and I went to Sproat Lake to camp. As we were not familiar with the area we inquired at random about camping facilities. We were, to say the least, most surprised to find out that the private campsites offered so much more convenient facilities to families than the provincial ones.

"For instance, at the private ones there were proper bathroom facilities, hot and cold water, laundry facilities, electric outlets for those needing them, lake frontage with swimming and boat docking facilities. The provincial campsite offered cold-water taps, firewood, a privy in the bush and a possible attack from local vandals and troublemakers.

"The difference in rates was also a surprising discovery. The provincial government has upped the rate from three nights free of charge and after that a dollar a night to a flat two dollars a night per car or tent. The rate was the same at the privately-owned sites.

"As we cannot believe that the private owners are willing to work with a loss we have to believe that the provincial campsites are tourist traps where one really pays through the nose."

Answer: The parks people have very little sympathy for the likes of you, dear sir, and I can't say I blame them.

They're interested primarily in the camper who seeks natural, primitive, wilderness surroundings, a total change of environment far from the creature comforts of home. They've no plans and probably never will have for laundry facilities, electricity or the rest. The campsites, themselves, are seldom if ever placed directly on waterfrontage in order to keep the shore in its natural state.

Officials in the provincial department admit that they're concerned about the incidence of vandalism and rowdies, but that's a police problem and a difficult one. Unlike the privately-owned camp site, the public park is open to all and no one can be excluded merely on suspicion of being a troublemaker.

Ideally, there should be no charge for camping and certainly the two-dollars-per night fee is too high, considering the comparative charge of private campgrounds, but the government can argue that the user should be contributing to the maintenance of the parks. Last year, for example, the camping fees amounted to $210,000, but the tab for upkeep was nearly a million-and-a-quarter.

Question: "Why should we in this city have to put up with our neighbors' cackling hens and bantams? We live in Fairfield where there are lots of lovely singing birds around, but sitting out in our garden every sound is drowned by this incessant cackling. I telephoned City Hall and was told by a man that he loved the sound of hens so he was no help. Surely we should have a bylaw controlling this nuisance."

Answer: There is a bylaw, unchanged since 1939, that allows a Victoria citizen to keep chickens, pigeons, hares and rabbits on his premises as long as space requirements are met. If your neighbor is failing in that your complaint will be acted upon. The bylaw specifies that fowl must be penned or housed and may not run at large.

Out Metchosin way almost everybody keeps chickens and we awake each dawn to the sound of cocks crowing. You'd swear you were in Mexico. I've enjoyed it so much, in fact, that I've invested in a half dozen layers myself. That probably is the best form of self-defence for someone like yourself. Chickens make beautiful music when you know that every cackle is bringing you closer to the magic egg.

Question: "Some weeks ago you wrote about filing a complaint with the Canadian Radio-Television Commission concerning a half-hour commercial on a Vancouver television station and said that you would report on what action was taken. There has been nothing from you since. Since then I have complained on a related matter to the CRTC without any response from them. Are we to assume that the commission just doesn't give a damn about public opinion?"

Answer: I'm beginning to think so. The last I heard from the CRTC was in March when they wrote to say that they had a videotape of the program to which I objected and that the matter had been referred for an opinion to the Department of National Health and Welfare under the Food and Drugs Act. "Our concern upon receiving a complaint is to move as quickly as possible to investigate it," the letter noted. Since then: total silence. Which hardly fortifies my faith in the CRTC as the watchdog of the airwaves.

Question: "As one who came to make his home in this blessed town at about the same time as your own arrival I have been interested in your continuing impressions on the way of life here. It surprises me, however, that you've had no comment on the hazards of driving hereabouts due, I expect, to the large numbers of elderly motorists. Would you agree that no other Canadian city demands such dedication to the technique of defensive driving?"

Answer: The point was made here some months ago in interviews with several drivers who race at the Western Speedway. To a man, they agreed that they'd rather risk their necks on that dirt track than on any Victoria street.

My first reaction to the elderly drivers was irritation and an alert wariness at the sight of any flowered bonnet peeping over the steering wheel of an Austin Cambridge.

There are no specific statistics, but traffic police tell me that the Ancient Mariners of the roads undoubtedly account for the fact that we've a higher-than-average number of minor accidents of the crunched fender category, caused by excessively slow or vague driving. But there's no evidence whatever that they contribute significantly to more serious accidents involving injury or death.

I've come to look at it, in fact, as yet another of the enduring charms of the city and its unique breed to retired people who refuse to fade into the woodwork. In no other city in which I've lived have I seen so many blithe spirits of advanced years who fearlessly venture forth in their horseless carriages. They deserve every courtesy, if only in the interests of self-preservation.

Question: "Like most Victorians, I suppose, I have never visited a single one of our tourist attractions. This summer we're expecting no less than three visiting families from the prairies and the east. What would be your own choice of sights for them to see?"

Answer: It would make a pleasant, crowded day to visit Chimo, the white killer whale at Sealand which continues to fascinate me after many, many visits; the Butchart Gardens, always a delight the cruise of the harbor and the Gorge that leaves from the Inner Harbor in front of the Empress; and just for tradition's sake, tea and crumpets in the Empress Lounge to look at the comical visiting Americans.

FEATHERS AND FIFES are blended by Mark Edwards, 10, and Ruby Charles, 13, of Kuper Island Fife Band, one of nine Indian groups taking part in the Native Children's Centennial '71 Tattoo touring B.C. The 322 youngsters who drew large crowd at Legislative Buildings Sunday night, will perform at 8 tonight in Memorial Arena with program including marches, musical drills and ancient tribal dances. The provincial tour is financed by the First Citizens Fund and locally is co-sponsored by the British Columbia and Greater Victoria Centennial '71 Committees. Some tattoo members were scheduled to perform on steps of the legislature this afternoon while others entertained elderly in a rest home.

'UPPER TROUGH' STAYED PUT

About That Sunshine . . .

The weatherman predicted sunny skies for Greater Victoria over the weekend — and for a few moments Sunday evening he was right.

How come such a goof-up?

Very simple, said senior weather technician Mike Dolan with a chuckle this morning.

"We were expecting the upper trough to move out but it stayed stationary."

How can you argue with that?

And if you found the weekend weather hard to believe, would you believe rainfall this month has been below average?

So far there has been .80 inches of what the weather office primly calls precipitation this month. In Junes past the average at this point is 1.01 inches.

And if that doesn't seem real, this won't help. There have been 11 days of measurable precipitation this month in contrast to the average of seven.

With the month almost gone, Greater Victoria has gleaned only 158.8 hours of sunshine when the average of Junes past is 246.2.

Dolan's explanation of why the month has been so miserable is somewhat less technical.

He suspects "it's just the law of averages catching up with us." No one remembers all those glorious Junes of yesteryear which have to be paid for.

Meanwhile, the forecast for Tuesday — cloudy in the morning, some sunny periods in the afternoon.

City Loses Out In Uvic Tax Bid

Victoria City Hall officials had mixed reaction today after learning the Supreme Court of Canada has turned down an attempt by the city to include a downtown university-owned building on its tax rolls.

The $21,849 in tax "arrears" on the Central Building on View Street, owned by the University of Victoria, will be written off. The money was owing in part since 1958 when the building was willed to Uvic in the T. S. McPherson estate.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady had taken the case through B.C. courts all the way to the Supreme Court, basing his case partly on decisions in favor of other municipalities in other provinces which had won decisions.

CLEAR IN INTENT

On the principle that a university-owned building must be used for educational purposes to avoid taxes, other court decisions have gone as far as to rule that even a university president's house and land, though owned by the university corporation, should be taxable like any other building.

Current taxes on the Central Building are $5,547 for 1971.

City manager Bill Hooson said the decision shows that the wording of the B.C. law is clear in its intent, but he questioned whether the intent was a conscious act by the B.C. government.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND

"It doesn't come as any great surprise — although from the city's point of view it certainly seems to be inequitable," Hooson said.

He pointed out that any change to the law in future would indicate how the provincial government views the matter.

Told of the decision today, land commissioner Alf Joyce said glumly: "We'll just have to write it off." He said he could not understand how the building could go tax free when it is "rented out in competition with other buildings."

Another official pointed out that the decision could mean any private citizen or corporation can now avoid paying real property taxes by turning over ownership of land by special arrangement to a B.C. university.

DISTINCTION LACKING

The B.C. law in question does not make the distinction enforced in other provinces between a university-owned building used as part of the learning institution and one serving an exclusive purpose. The law merely states that a property vested in the university shall not be taxed as real property.

The unanimous five-judge decision upheld similar judgments in the B.C. courts.

The downtown land is under lease to commercial tenants and is not used for university purposes.

Both a trial court and the British Columbia Court of Appeal agreed that the provincial Universities Act allowed the university exemption from city taxes.

NO PROVISION

Mr. Justice Bora Laskin, writing the unanimous judgment of the Supreme Court, said "it may be anomalous to permit a university to reap revenue from commercial leases of land . . . without being obliged to pay taxes, especially when, as was indicated to us, there also appears to be no provision for taxing the commercial tenants."

He noted that legislation in other provinces provided tax exemption to universities only when the land in question was actually used and occupied for university purposes.

If a remedy was believed required to bring U.C. universities into line with those of other provinces, it must come from the B.C. legislature, said Mr. Justice Laskin.

Strike Queries Dodged By Hospital Operator

The president of National Nursing Homes Ltd., Neil Cook of Vancouver, said today he has no comment on mass picketing of Sandringham Private Hospital Saturday.

He also declined to answer almost every question asked of him this morning about the 24-week strike of 28 employees at Sandringham, which is owned by two Vancouver businessmen and managed by Cook's company.

Asked if National Nursing Homes is prepared to resume negotiations with the striking Local 1311 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, Cook said "we've already done the negotiating."

Asked if he thought there would be any new negotiations, he said "no I don't."

When pressed further on this point, and to comment on union actions, he said: "I am not going to debate this in the press."

He said he has no comment on last week's brief picketing of National Nursing Home's retirement centre, under construction at Cadboro Bay Road and Bowker Avenue in Oak Bay.

Asked if an injunction might be sought to prevent picketing, he said "I don't know."

Asked if he thought there would be any conclusion to the Sandringham strike, he said he doesn't know.

Finally, he said he didn't know why a reporter was asking him questions, after the reporter had told him he was trying to get management's side of the dispute.

"We have stated our position to the union," he said, but would not say what that position is.

CLAIMED LOSSES

Earlier this year, National Nursing Homes, in newspaper advertisements, said Sandringham's revenues have never covered its cost of operation. The company said Sandringham is "an uneconomic operation . . . heavily indebted and its owners have never received any return on their investment."

As a result of the financial situation at Sandringham, it was said, it is impossible to pay some employees more than the provincial minimum wage.

The union went on strike Sept. 30 seeking a first contract with wages between the minimum of $1.50 an hour and $2 an hour plus job security, similar to contracts in effect at Glenwarren, Glengarry and Richmond Heights private hospitals in Victoria.

No Trouble in Sight This Summer—RCMP

RCMP said today they are not anticipating serious civil disturbances involving youth and police during the summer despite a letter from the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association offering help in such cases.

Superintendent James Nelson of the Vancouver Island detachment was commenting on a letter from the association offering "impartial observers or mediators to attend the scene of any threatened or actual civil disturbance."

Nelson said the RCMP has been assisting travelling youth for years adequately and added that he could see no reason for special arrangements this year.

He said if such a disturbance occurs the bystander testifying before the court helps make the final analysis.

"We're playing it by ear day by day," he said of the expected influx of travelling youth this summer.

"It is hoped that such a procedure would serve to cool tempers and prevent escalation of confrontations," said the association's letter. It also asks police officials if there are any other ways in which the association can help preserve the peace during the anticipated influx of travelling youth to metropolitan areas of B.C.

It said that its concern is that inflammatory words or actions on the part either of authorities or of young people may result in serious civil disturbances, "which in turn, might imperil the liberty and safety of citizens generally as well as those directly involved in any confrontation."

CAUT Says Two Panelists Not Qualified to Judge

Because two of the three men investigating the University of Victoria tenure dispute "lack academic experience" they aren't qualified to pass judgment on the affair, the Canadian Association of University Teachers said today.

The CAUT statement was presented as the second day of hearings opened after a two-week delay.

The statement gave the CAUT's reasons for not participating at the hearings. It said it is doubtful whether the inquiry would result in settlement of the cases of Drs. William Goede and Tikam Jain and lecturer J. P. Graff.

'NATURAL JUSTICE'

"Although the panel has indicated that it gives a wide meaning to the words 'natural justice' in its terms of reference," the statement said, "it is doubtful whether those terms, even when this widely interpreted, will permit settlement of what we regard as the substantial issues in the three cases, namely whether or not professors Goede and Jain should be granted tenure and whether or not Mr. Graff should be promoted and hence retained as a member of faculty.

"If the inquiry is inconclusive it can only further delay settlement of these cases which have been in dispute for nearly a year.

"Moreover, we do not think that the advisory panel is properly constituted. It was established unilaterally by the University of Victoria and it is so composed that a majority of its members lack academic experience. We believe that issue of promotion and tenure, involving judgments about the quality of scholarship and teaching, should be decided primarily by academics."

CHEMISTRY CONTROVERSY

During the morning session of the hearing assistant dean of arts and science Dr. William Gordon answered questions from board solicitor David Williams about his knowledge of the Jain case.

He told how a controversy had developed in the chemistry department in 1970 over a claim by Jain that he had discovered a new compound in his area, natural products chemistry.

Gordon took documentation of the work to a "distinguished chemist" at another university, and that scientist's evaluation was that Jain had not isolated a new compound.

The outside opinion, as reported in a memorandum by Gordon, played a part in the decision not to recommend Jain for tenure.

Canoeist Presumed Drowned

A 31-year-old North Saanich man is missing and presumed drowned by Tofino RCMP after a canoeing mishap Thursday night on the Kennedy River, RCMP said today.

The RCMP said they have called off the search for Frderick Angus Gunn, 271 Coal Point Lane, after failing to find him or the canoe.

Two other men, Tom Johnstone, 4670 Spring, and Peter Rassenti, Prospect Lake Road, were shaken up but otherwise unhurt, RCMP said.

Police said the three men were canoeing down Kennedy River which flows from Kennedy Lake to Tofino Inlet. About two miles before the river's mouth are rapids.

"They tried going through the rough water and the canoe overturned. I don't know why they were trying it but they did anyway. The canoe just tipped over," RCMP said.

He has been employed with the centre for about three years. Sevenoaks is part of the Family and Children's Service.

Gunn is married with one child.

Smell Will 'Add to Interest'

A smouldering cigarette is believed to have started a fire in the B.C. Maritime Museum early Sunday morning that triggered the fire alarm system at 11:45 p.m. and caused $1,500 damage.

The fire started in the lecture room, behind the judge's dais in the old Law Chambers, used by members of the Bastion Theatre Sunday afternoon.

Deputy fire chief Carl Coates said the heat built up in the room, triggering the direct line to the fire hall. Firemen fought the fire for three hours.

None of the exhibits in the Royal Canadian Navy room below was damaged.

Curator Bill Symons praised the Victoria firemen. "Thank heaven we have a fire alarm system that works and a highly skilled fire department.

"By the time we arrived the firemen had covered all the exhibits with tarpaulins."

Symons said the fire would not force closure of the museum. "We're not out of business. There will be a slight smell of smoke and burned wood—but that will only add to the interest."

He added that if the alarm had not acted when it did the fire would have reached the roof and the damage would have been extensive.

Symons estimated the damage to be "between $2,000 and $3,000" but Coates felt that $1,500 was a more realistic figure.

Coates said the last person is believed to have left the museum at 4 p.m. after the meeting.

GLUE SNIFFING

Gas Breaks Dogs' Hearts

By JEFF CARRUTHERS
(Special to the Times)

OTTAWA — Glue-sniffing leads to a physically broken heart, according to two groups of U.S. heart researchers.

Experiments on dogs and mice have pinpointed the mechanism of death for persons sniffing airplane glues, aerosol sprays and the fumes of certain solvents.

The gas used to propel the sprays triggers irregular heart rhythms which can lead to a total heart standstill.

Freon is the most common propellant and is also added to various glues and solvents to speed up evaporation and drying.

Dr. Nancy Flowers of the Medical College of Georgia in Augusta suggests that the "kicks" or feelings of euphoria and lightheadedness that humans seek when they sniff glue or sprays are probably due to these heart rhythm changes.

In her experiments, 15 dogs were given one to nine whiffs of three kinds of Freon-propelled aerosol (anti-septic and hair) sprays. Eight dogs died of cardiac arrest from four to 70 minutes after exposure. Seven showed irregular heart rhythms.

Dr. Willard Harris of the University of Illinois Hospital in Chicago produced similar results in mice.

He suggests that prompt external heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resusctation may help revive victims.

Another group of American scientists have taken a significant step towards the development of an effective malaria vaccine for man.

According to The Medical Tribune, a University of Illinois researcher has succeeded in developing a malaria vaccine which has protected primates against lethal doses of the parasitic protozoa Plasmodium knowlesi, one of the malaria-causing agents in the monkeys.

Malaria, which Dr. Lawrence E. D'Antonio notes is "still the world's number one disease," is caused by a number of the parasitic, one-celled protozoans when injected into the blood by carrier mosquitoes.

The vaccine is believed to be the first antimalarial agent of its kind.

It appears from experiments on rhesus monkeys that the vaccine may prevent the occurrence of the chronic state of infection which often accompanies the natural course of the disease, as well as preventing deaths from malaria.

The vaccine is made from a partially-purified fraction of the parasite.

And Dr. D'Antonio, research assistant professor of zoology at the Urbana campus of the University of Illinois, said the methods used in isolating the parasite for the vaccine would be applicable to at least three strains of Plasmodium which infect humans.

recipes

Grandma's recipes certainly have charm but today's busy homemakers find nothing charming about the long hours of cooking required in many of her traditional dishes.

This is especially true of pickles and jellies. So the ingenious cook takes the same spices that grandma used — ginger, cinnamon, cloves, allspice and cardamom — combines them with pantry shelf items and creates delectable meat accompaniments in a matter of minutes.

SPICED GRAPE JELLY

6½ cups sugar
1 stick cinnamon
½ teaspoon whole cloves
½ teaspoon whole allspice
2 cans (6 oz. size) frozen grape juice concentrate
6 oz. bottle liquid pectin

Sterilize 10 small jelly glasses. Leave in hot water until ready to fill. In large kettle combine sugar, spices tied in cheesecloth bag and 3 cups water. Stir-cook over high heat and bring to a full rolling boil. Boil hard for 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir in thawed juice concentrate and pectin. Mix well then ladle into hot glasses. At once cover with ⅛ inch hot paraffin. Let cool and cap with lids. Store in a cool place. Makes 10 jelly glasses.

FRUIT RELISH

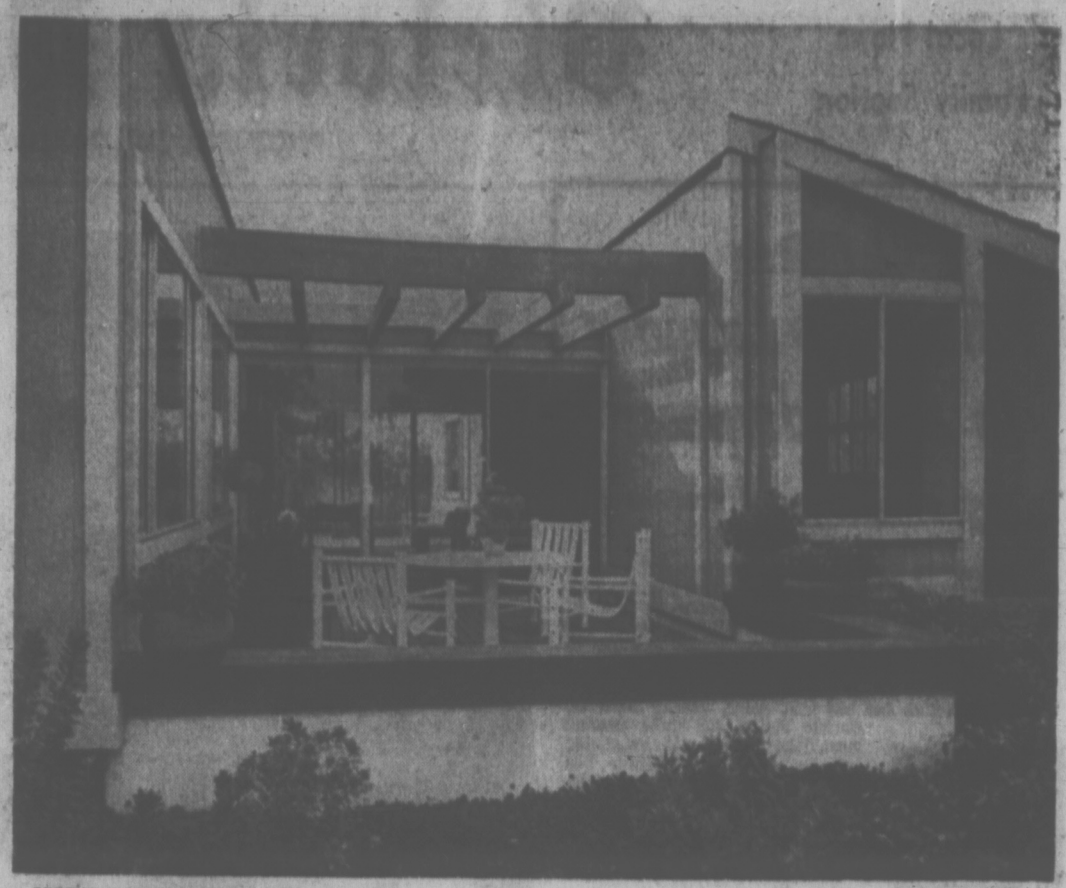
28 oz. can fruit cocktail
1 lime or lemon
¾ cup seedless raisins
¾ teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup liquid honey
¼ cup white wine vinegar

Drain juice from fruit cocktail. Use juice for a fruit jelly dessert. Slice lime thinly and add to fruit cocktail. Combine raisins and next 4 ingredients in a saucepan. Simmer three minutes. Pour over fruit cocktail and lime slices. Keep in covered jars in refrigerator. Makes three cups.



MOBILE-MODULAR HOMES offer possibilities for architectural distinction. Original design must be of good quality, then installation and outdoor areas carefully worked out in advance.

TRY THIS

By PAULINE GRAVES

Deck Expands Mobile Home

Do you know how to stretch your imagination? Have you ever looked at a given situation with new eyes, trying to sublimate any preconceived ideas you might have about it?

If you can, then you are exercising your imagination, and probably with interesting results.

Take, for example, mobile homes. They all expand their quarters by going outside with an outdoor living area. And these areas run the length of the mobile home, along the side.

With a single width home, this is fine, but with a double width, there are other possibilities.

In this mobile home, designed by architect Barry Berkus, the outdoor living area is between the two units, which together make a double size mobile home. By this separation, one gains an extra room.

A deck, at floor level, or down a step, is built between the two house sections, just as an outdoor deck would be built along the side.

The addition of sliding glass doors, perpendicular to the two housing units, enclose a space 10 or 12 feet wide, which when roofed over becomes an extra room.

To enclose the entire space would create a too-large room, but by leaving open space on the deck, outdoor living is maintained.

Overhead beams, two-by-fours and two-by-eights, tie the separate structures together for a pleasing architectural effect. A low wall topped with a four-by-eight cap that functions as a bench, frames the patio and relates it to the house.

Train Children for Equality, Edmonton Women Recommend

EDMONTON (CP) — Women's attitudes towards themselves are their worst enemies in the struggle for equal rights, a panel reviewing recommendations of the royal commission on the status of women was told here.

Lois Campbell, an Edmonton public school board trustee, said "the concept that a person has of oneself as one moves into community life is very important."

"This means a woman knowing she can do a job as well as any man given the same opportunity and qualifications."

Joanne Russell, wife of provincial Liberal leader Bob Russell, felt there is not much hope for equality in the present generation.

"Perhaps by the time our daughters enter the labor force, there will be equality, but only if we start training children now to realize that a woman's place is where she wants to be, and that intelligence and ability are not governed by sex," she said.

Jan Steele of London, Ont., chairman of a three-member Liberal study group investigating the commission recommendations, said in an interview women in the family and economy are the two issues of most concern to Canadians.

"The need for day care centres is of high interest, as are other matters in the report's section on women in the family — abortion, sterilization, birth control, and family planning in general," she said.

"People are also questioning why more women are not involved in politics and decision making positions, including the judiciary," said Dr. Esther Greenglass, assistant professor of psychology at York University in Toronto and member of the study group.

"Most women don't have capital of their own. If we want women to run in politics, we have to face up to the fact that the parties will have to pay for campaign costs," Dr. Greenglass said.

The study group will present their royal commission report priorities to a Liberal party council in October.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By SYDNEY OMARR

The late, great psychologist, Carl Gustav Jung, who was Freud's leading protege, often utilized horoscopes of individual patients in an effort to get at the root of their psychological problems. Jung also identified "the Ages of Mankind" through zodiacal symbolism. Thus, today, we hear many persons talk about the Age of Aquarius. As far as Jung was concerned, there were the Ages of the Fish, the Goat, the Ram and so forth.

TUESDAY, JUNE 29

ARIES (March 21-APRIL 19): Financial support you had relied upon may take a different course. Refuse to hang onto outmoded concepts. You will have to tear down in order to rebuild.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Today you will not find in-law jokes funny. One who may be well-meaning may be trying to usurp your parental duties. Stress independence.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Deliberate efforts are required to improve home, property. Leaving such matters to chance would be an error. Unorthodox approach tends not to succeed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): There is little doubt about your actual abilities — but key is to find correct form of action. There are numerous demands on your time. Be selective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emphasis is on practical approach. Playing the clown now would be inappropriate, expensive and would gain little or no appreciation. Thorough approach is necessity.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Some neighbors, associates make no secret of resentment based on envy. Your role now is to collect and utilize pertinent data. You are on right track.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): Someone appears to be going to considerable expense behind the scenes—and not necessarily in your favor. Utilize intuitive intellect. Means follow hunch.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Significant compliments are received. Stop kicking toe in sand. You deserve accolade. Know this and respond accordingly. Major wish can be fulfilled.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): There is room for you at the top; know this and act like you know it. Exude confidence, invest in your own abilities. You are intrigued by unusual romantic interlude.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What appears necessary seems to be at a distance. Check reservations. Be aware of potential. Get started on thesis. Prepare creative format.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Get promises in writing. Some in positions of authority are in magnanimous mood. That's fine—but you deserve something more solid than a mere promise.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 21): Apply light touch. Don't attempt to force issues. Improve public relations. Study contracts. A domestic squabble is but temporary. Make concession to mate, partner.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intuitive, have natural sense of drama, and this will be one of your most significant years. If single, marriage is on horizon. If married, there could be an addition to family.

In the eyes of Helen Beirnes, who officially takes over as president of the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, Victoria has a character all its own.

If we lose that charter, she says, "we are in deep trouble." Then she caps that with "I'd hate to think we'd ever become a stone mason's delight."

This first woman president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce (and perhaps of any such group in Canada) was talking of the wealth of old buildings that give this city "its own exciting image." She believes they should be preserved, restored and cherished.

"What we have here is what big cities all around the world are now striving to recreate. If I had my way I'd insist that to preserve this character, anyone wishing to put up a new building would have to agree to maintain our imaginative outline."

Helen Beirnes is looking forward to her year as Chamber president with a reasonable amount of excited anticipation. "We have a splendid board, made up of old heads to guide any younger ones to generate enthusiasm and to spark new programs.

"Our standing committees cover a wide range of interesting community projects, including economics, harbor development, the ecology, government affairs and civic beautification.

"The committee chairmen are exceptionally well chosen, so my work will mainly be in learning from them and in coordinating the various units into a working whole."

Of special interest to the new president is the Victorian Days Festival, inaugurated in May and to be continued "under the wing of the C of C" for another year at least.

"This year our main idea was to get the people interested and excited enough to talk about our city and to don old-time costumes.

"Our plans for the 1972 festival include spreading the news across the country and inviting everyone to come and visit us at that time. If we can make the Victorian Days Festival exciting enough to entice people here every year in May, we will certainly extend the tourist season and at the same time have a lot of fun ourselves."

An innovation for next year's festival will be inclusion of a British Week in which shops featuring British imports will take a part.

Why? Because it's a well-known fact, "that people who travel in Canada and plan on coming out west, always keep something in their pockets for Victoria, where we have the finest selection of British goods in Canada."

Another special interest of the incoming president is C of C's attempt to entice clean, non-pollutant types of manufacturing to establish in Victoria.

"We don't want smelly pollutant-belching factories here. Indeed, if we wish to beckon more and more people to visit us, then we must keep the city clean."

That she is the first woman president of this senior business group in Victoria doesn't seem to excite Helen Beirnes to any great degree.

"Actually I was surprised to be named the president. While I'm conscious that it is perhaps important to women's organization that I was elected, I would rather believe I was chosen as a person and not just as a woman."

Her ideas about the new women's lib groups that have sprung up in the last few years: "It's so foolish of them to fight merely as women instead of as people ... if they would only relax and forget they are women and try to work shoulder-to-shoulder with men to accomplish the things that are really important, they would gain more respect and accomplish a great deal more."

Mountain Mends Marriages

By LYNNE OLSON

HEBER, Utah (AP) — For nine days, Bob and Nancy French lived on a remote Utah mountaintop. They slept under a lean-to they built by hand, ate leaves and roots and analysed their marriage.

They were equipped only with a knife, sleeping bag, change of clothing and a tin can to cook in and eat from.

The purpose was to strengthen their marriage with the aid of a wilderness course taught by Dr. G. Hugh Allred, instructor in marriage and family counselling at Brigham Young University.

Four other couples took the course. None had met before. Their children, if any, stayed home.

"We took this class away from our complex society to force the couples to communicate," Allred said.

The Frenches, married three years, said the nine days of roughing it brought them closer together than ever before.

Bob French described the course as "one of the few times in our marriage where Nancy and I were able to share a feeling of accomplishment."

Nancy French, expecting her second child in seven months, said the experience "made Bob and I realize that we never go to the root of our problems in our arguments."

"Habit and routine are great veils eliminating the need for a husband and wife to talk to each other," Allred said.

"The wife can lose herself through her children or TV, the husband through his work or community interests. And when their children are grown, they find the're strangers.

"In order to survive on this mountain, hoewver, these couples have had to communicate and co-operate."

The course, given the first time this year, began in a chilling rain. The couples, Allred and two survival instructors trudged six miles up a steep, narrow mountain trail to reach their camp in a grassy meadow.

At the top, the couples were told they had to go down, get more gear and climb the mountain once more.

When the couples awoke the next morning, they found two inches of snow on the ground. The next eight days, all rainy, presented challenges in survival. The couples helped each other in keeping warm and in finding food.

The most difficult part of the course, the participants said, was the analysis of their marriages.

Each morning for four hours they discussed a marriage relations textbook and switching roles, the husband playing the wife and vice-versa.

On the last night, the couples sat in grubby sweaty clothes by a campfire, exchanging lighthearted chatter about their experiences and planning a class reunion next year.

Petroleum Eaters Produce Protein

NEW YORK (AP) — It's likely to be quite a while before anyone asks how you want your petroleumburger cooked. But progress is being made in producing food from crude oil.

Oil company scientists are moving ahead slowly but steadily in their efforts to help ease a growing shortage of high-grade protein food.

They have been working in their laboratories for a number of years, and finally some plants of modest size have been built to turn out the synthetic food on a commercial basis.

In the simplest terms, organisms — yeasts and bacteria — are grown on a diet of petroleum to produce nutritional value comparable to meat.

These microbes — the yeasts and bacteria — biochemically change petroleum hydrocarbons into protein with dazzling speed. For example, a 1,000-pound steer can make about one pound of useful protein in one days' growth, but 1,000 pounds of microbes can make 4,000 pounds of protein in a day.

The intensive effort to produce a symthetic food is inspired by the fact that two-thirds of the world's population doesn't get enough protein now, and some scientists say that new protein sources, in addition to plants, animals and fish, must be developed to avoid mass famine in the still more populous future.

"The final SCP product is a fine, white powder — bland tasting and odorless — that mixes well with other foods," says the American Petroleum Institute.

"In most cases, the immediate objective of the SCP projects is to produce a food supplement that can be fed to livestock and thereby enrich human diets in a secondary way.

"But the ultimate aim is to develop SCP that can be eaten directly by humane beings."

British Petroleum Co. has built two plants of modest size in Scotland and France to produce protein by hydrocarbon fermentation. It said the product will be used to enrich animal feeds, principally for turkeys, chickens, hogs and for fish farming.

Scientists concede that one of the biggest problems will be to persuade people to eat food made of petroleum-based protein.

WCTU UPDATES OLD BATTLE CRY

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — The strain of fighting the evils of alcohol and tobacco has taken its toll during the last 94 years, but the Ontario chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union isn't about to surrender.

A report presented to the annual meeting 25 miles north of here showed:

In 1891 there were 175 chapters in 15 counties, with a membership of 4,318 dedicated fighters.

In 1971 there are only 328 Ontario members in 21 far-flung groups.

To help stem the depletion of their forces and add new members, the WCTU has begun youth-oriented programs, which include poster, scrapbook and essay contests in schools and temperance study courses.

As a drawing-card to youth, the WCTU last year revised and updated its pledge, which now goes like this:

"God helping me, I promise not to buy, drink, sell or give alcoholic liquors while I live.
From all tobacco I'll abstain, and never take God's name in vain.
From harmful drugs like LSD,
from marijuana and STP,
from pills that leave one half insane,
An sniffing glue that attacks the brain,
From all of these I will abstain."

Shorter Week Wins Approval

BY THE CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION

The idea of a shorter work-week, to "spread the work around" and help solve unemployment, is approved by 64 per cent of Canadian adults. Less than half as many (27 per cent) do not endorse the suggestion.

Surprising to many is the fact that three-in-ten adults say they would be willing to take less pay for their shorter work-week, in the interests of helping unemployment, although six-in-ten say they would not.

Acceptance of a shorter work-week in order to distribute jobs finds greatest favor in union families, where 71 per cent say they support the idea as compared with 60 per cent in non-union homes.

Maritimers are the most willing, followed closely by Westerners. Approval drops a little in Ontario and is at its low point in Quebec.

To establish these facts, Gallup interviewers put two questions to a scientific sample of the adult population:

"WOULD YOU APPROVE OR DISAPPROVE IF BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENT INTRODUCED A SHORTER WORK-WEEK "TO SPREAD THE WORK AROUND" AND HELP TO REDUCE UNEMPLOYMENT?"

Regional responses, and thos in union and non-union homes, are compared below with the national attitudes.

| | Approve | Disapprove | Undecided |
|---|---|---|---|
| CANADA | 64% | 27% | 9% |
| Maritimes | 69 | 17 | 14 |
| Quebec | 60 | 26 | 14 |

| The West | 67 | 29 | 4 |
| Union Homes | 71 | 20 | 9 |
| Non-Union | 60 | 30 | 10 |

The second question:

"Would you be willing or not to accept less pay for a shorter work week?"

| | Yes | No | Not Sure |
|---|---|---|---|
| CANADA | 30% | 60% | 10% |
| Maritimes | 41 | 48 | 11 |
| Quebec | 26 | 63 | 11 |
| Ontario | 30 | 61 | 9 |
| The West | 32 | 58 | 10 |
| Union Homes | 29 | 62 | 9 |

Campuses Need Day-Care

OTTAWA (CP) — The need for day-care on campus exceeds the services available, but university administrators seem to regard it as a low-priority item compared with other educational needs.

A study of 23 Canadian universities, done for the Canadian Council on Social Development, said the need for greatly increased day-care facilities for children under three years of age seems especially acute.

Some of the 17 university day-care centres reported that the fees they had to charge barred many students from using the facilities.

Most of the centres relied on parent volunteers for management and staff assistance.

The study is one of several discussed at a national conference on day care held here under the auspices of the council, a non-profit voluntary agency concerned with the causes of social breakdown and change.

Another study, interpreting existing research in the United States and Canada on day care, concludes that full-day programs have not been found harmful to children provided they are carried out according to a well-planned program under the direction of experienced and adequately qualified staff.

It suggested that the idea of having men staff members in day-care centrs should be studied to determine whether small boys would benefit from this.

Tell Children

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A child with leukemia or any other disease should be told the name and nature of his affliction and that there is a possibility that he may die, Dr. J. M. Darte, professor of pediatrics at Memorial University of Newfoundland, said here. Dr. Darte said doctors who do not tell the child patient about the possibility of death are projecting to children the embarrassment and fear most adults experience when confronted with the subject of death.

Britain Finds Pregnant Bride Is One in Five

LONDON (Reuter) — One bride of every five in Britain is pregnant on her wedding day.

And, says a report by the British Family Planning Association, the figure is even higher for teen-age brides, with one in three in England and Wales expecting a baby and one in four in Scotland.

Over-all, more than 100,000 unmarried women and girls became pregnant last year in Britain, the association reported.

The report also disclosed a steep rise in teen-age abortions in Britain. In the first quarter of this year, 4,555 had abortions, a 28-per-cent increase on the figures for the same period of 1970.

The report highlighted an alarming increase in veneral disease among British teenagers, with a 20-per-cent increase between 1968 and 1969.

SANO, Japan (AP) — About 200 men hoping to promote marriages have formed the Japan Matchmakers Association. Any member who is a successful Cupid for 25 couples will get a "grand expert's degree."

Weight Theory Challenged

By DELOS SMITH

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — The theory of weight gain and weight loss which most doctors and their fat patients take for gospel has been challenged by a medical scientist.

The theory holds that when energy input in food and drink exceeds energy output, the body becomes fat. When it is the other way around, the body becomes lean.

That is "the cornerstone for the rationale" in the medical dieting approach to obesity and it is too much of an over simplication to hold water, Dr. George Edward Schauf, Riverbank, Calif., told a scientific session of The American Medical Association (AMA) convention.

He cited ne wtechniques for measuring body composition. In three experiments, fat persons who went without food for up to 17 days lost weight, but they remained obese because 59 to 66 per cent lost was their lean tissues, not their fat.

These and other experiments "indicate that scale weight is not truly representative of what the poinds lost or gained consist of and further indicates that the victim to lose weight must be qualified," he said.

An outline of the biochemistry as he interprets it follows:

Fat is generated from food at the membranes of fat cells, whereas lean cells convert fat into energy by oxidation, and so fat people with their greater number of fat cells have a greater capacity for storing fat than lean people.

Reducing diets which merely restrict calorie intake embarrass lean cells more than fat cells. Lean cells rely increasingly on their own protein for energy. They are reduced in number which means fewer and fewer of them are burning fat as the restrictions on calories continue.

In his view, the medical treatment of obesity should seek to remake and maintain the masses of lean cells so they will burn off food as energy before it is converted into fat. To encourage this burning, he suggested severe restriction on carbohydrate intake, which is also readily usable as energy.

He recommended three meals a day as a diet both to reduce obesity and body weight since the terms "are not synonymous." Eggs, meat, fish, fowl or cheese should be included in each meal in reasonable amounts but daily carbohydrate intake should be held to between 50 and 60 grams a day. And there should be supplements of polyunsaturated oils at lunch and dinner.

He also recommended daily systematic exercise such as running or jogging to improve muscle tone as well as to burn off more fat. But he warned the obese not to overdo it.

DEAR ABBY...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please tell STAMP WIDOW she's lucky. Unlike sports widows who wonder if their husbands really went to the game, or TV widows whose husbands ignore them for hours on end, stamp widows always know where there husbands are. And there isn't a stamp collector alive who doesn't like to talk about his hobby. Even to his wife. Ticket stubs and programs from sports events only add to the nation's pollution, but a stamp collection is like money in the bank. Think of the legacy the stamp collector's wife will have, if she outlives him — Israel I. Bick.

DEAR MR. BICK: And what if she doesn't outlive him? She's given the best years of her life to a man whose biggest thrill is finding a 1923 airmail stamp with the airplane upside down. And his second wife winds up with a valuable stamp collection.

DEAR ABBY: I could have written that letter from STAMP WIDOW. My husband is an avid stamp collector and we had the biggest laugh over it. My Montie doesn't drink, smoke or chase women. His home is the most important thing in his life — after his stamps, of course. — Lorraine Rumsower.

DEAR ABBY: You told STAMP WIDOW she was lucky because her husband had the one hobby she could "lick." Shame on you, Abby. Anyone who collects stamps knows that to lick a stamp is blasphemy. Stamp collectors use stamp hinges or protective mounts. — Ed Susman.

DEAR ED: Okay, I'll take a good "licking" with a Scott catalog.

DEAR ABBY: Stamp Widow doesn't know how lucky she is. My husband is a stamp collector and I have to go to all the stamp shows and auctions with him. And I'm the "soaker off" from envelopes and cards that friends give him. Yes, my house is a mess with stamps drying off all over. But I'm lucky. He could be in a tavern, gambling, instead of in his stamp corner.

I've gone to work with stamp hinges clinging to my clothes, inside my shoes, and you don't ask where else. For Christmas, birthdays, Fathers' Day, what does my man want? Stamps, or supplies for his albums. — Lillian.

DEAR ABBY: Words cannot adequately express my appreciation for the wholesome hobby of stamp collecting. My husband was forced to retire before 60 so he turned to his stamp collection, added to it, bought and sold stamps and found a fascinating hobby that required no physical effort.

We exposed our children to stamps early. As they brought in the mail they would announce, "Betsy Ross Flag!" Or "Another Mr. Lincoln!" They learned history through observing stamps. To this day I never throw away a canceled stamp. I cut, soak and dry. And they're saved for my grandchildren.—Stamp Widow.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Life Drains From Rock Festival

McCREA, La. (AP) — Thousands of sun-parched rock fans are streaming out of this rural area where a rock festival folded prematurely after drawing a crowd of 50,000.

The closing was announced after the Internal Revenue Service filed ttx liens of more than $700,000 on the ticket-sale cash and police cracked down on drug violations.

Three persons died during the event and police said about 100 persons have been rrested on drug charges.

Thousands of fans began leaving the 700-acre meadowland even before the announcement boomed over loudspeakers Sunday night that the four-day-old festival would end after a night-long show, authorities said.

The Celebration of Life festival had been scheduled to last a week.

Randy Runkle, 20, of Elyria, Ohio, died Sunday at the festival hospital tent of an overdose of drugs, Dr. Eugene Durell, a coroner, said.

Two youths drowned Saturday as rock fans moved into the Atchafalaya River to combat temperatures that rose to 100 degrees. There were Edwin Hardy Jr., 20, of Atlanta, Ga., and Wayne Green, 19, of New Orleans.

The Internal Revenue Service impounded gate receipts after filing more than $700,000 in tax liens against promoters. The state of Louisiana, which will get almost $1 a ticket in taxes, has had agents stationed at the gates, counting heads.

Festival-goers had paid $28 for advance tickets, $30 at the gate for the length of the festival, or $20 for three nights.

Police said the only major incident of violence occurred Saturday when five disguised agents were bringing out two persons on drug charges and a crowd gathered.

Warning shots were fired over the crowd, but one agent, struck by flying bottles and sticks hurled by the crowd, fell and fired a low shot, police said. The shot hit a youth in the thigh.

The wounded youth and two other persons were arrested on charges including attempted murder and inciting to riot.

MUSICIANS 'GREEDY'

NEW YORK (Reuter) — An era of rock ended today when Fillmore East music emporium closed after a marathon concert which lasted well into the morning.

Some of America's most popular rock musicians, including the Beach Boys, Country Joe McDonald and Albert King, participated in the farewell concert. The Fillmore, and its San Francisco counterpart, Fillmore West, were the two most important rock palaces in the United States.

Rock impresario Bill Graham decided to shut his two rock institutions because of what he called hostile audience and greedy musicians.

Graham announced his decision last month and said it was precipitated when the manager of one group expressed disbelief that they were asked to play for only $50,000 a week. About 20 rock groups command that sum per performance, Graham said.

Odd Catch

NEW YORK .AP, — Herman Stark, 50, a lobster fisherman tried to haul in the crawlers and found his lines entangled with a heavy load—200 pounds of hashish, police said. Detectives said Stark was tending 20 lobster pots in Ambrose Channel off Queens when he pulled 228 waterproofed hashish "bricks," into his boat. Police said they believed someone dropped the hashish from a passing boat with plans to recover it later.

Air 'Rate War' Predicted Unless Fares Cut—BOAC

By JOHN LeBLANC

LONDON CP) — Observers here are predicting an "open-fares" situation — a rate war — by next fall unless the International Air Transport Association agrees to cuts in transatlantic fares at its conference opening in Montreal Tuesday.

"We are in no mood to take 'no' for an answer," Keith Granville, chairman of British Overseas Airways Corp., said Sunday.

BOAC is among the leaders of a group of scheduled airlines pressing for IATA to authorize lower rates to meet stiffening competition from charter concerns. The group includes the others of the transatlantic "big four"—Air Canada, Pan American and Trans World.

The open-fares situation, simmering for some time, has been heated in recent days since some of the big lines including Air Canada and BOAC announced June 17 special low "youth fares" for transatlantic travellers between the ages of 13 and 26.

The BOAC spokesman said his company will press for changes in eligibility for other new categories of low-fare travel, such as inclusive tours off-peak reductions and "early bird" types of booking where the passenger makes reservations months in advance.

"Charter operators," BOAC says, "with their low fares based on 100-per cent loads are forcing rates down to a level where the scheduled airline—which has to operate to a set timetable—may not be able to stay in business."

Publication Ceases

LONDON (CP) — The weekly English-language edition of Le Monde, distributed here and elsewhere by its French-language parent newspaper in Paris, is to cease publication shortly. The Guardian, in reporting July 28 as the suspension date, says Le Monde's English-language was "the most ambitious venture into Anglo-Saxondom" by the most distinguished Paris paper.

Thousands of Jobs Vanishing As U.S. Goes Global

In an endless struggle to compete on equal terms with cheaper goods, United States business is setting up shop abroad in steadily growing numbers. This article examines the trend and the monumental problems it poses.

By STERLING GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States business is going multinational with a rush.

As the corporations go global, they carry U.S. capital, technology and managerial skill to the earth's four corners and leave alarm bells ringing back home.

Complaints are piling up that U.S. jobs and possibly some vital portions of the U.S. industrial base for defence and economic stability are going overseas.

Organized labor, which formerly carried the banner of free trade, has taken alarm at vanishing jobs and shrinking memberships and has joined some major industries in the drive on Congress for import quotas.

The unions, led by the AFL-CIO, also are criticizing the multinationals as "runaway employers" who move plants to Europe, the Orient, or the Caribbean where labor is cheaper.

Ironically, competition from imported goods is the main reason many corporations have gone global. They are trying to stay competitive with foreign products by becoming importers of components, semi-finished goods, or entire products which come back to the customer with only one U.S. part, the brand name.

SEEK NEW CUSTOMERS

There are, however, may other reasons why U.S. industry is deploying subsidiaries overseas — to gain growth by reaching new customers, to get behind trade barriers that U.S. exports cannot pierce, to cut costs and improve profits, to compete on even terms with foreign firms in world markets.

For the U.S. consumer these are among the signs of the changing times:

● The Dodge Colt, one of the new U.S. "answers" to the small-car imports, is 100-per-cent made in Japan by Mitsubishi.

● If you buy Ford's Pinto, another of the U.S. industry's answers, you may get a car with an English-made engine and German-made transmission, assembled either in Canada or the United States.

● Ninety per cent of all radio sets, tape recorders and cassettes sold in the U.S. are made elsewhere. So are more than half the black-and-white television sets, nearly one-fourth of all color TV sets, two-thirds of the sewing machines and most of the typewriters.

A major industrialist, board chairman Fred Borch of General Electric, told The Associated Press:

"I don't know any American manufacturer who would not prefer to make his product in this country for this market."

SAVES PRODUCT LINE

But in cases where the choice became either abaning a product line or "moving offshore," GE and others have gone offshore. That way, Borch estimates, at least half the U.S. employees are kept on the job — designers, engineers, sales force, research and development people and others.

The AFL-CIO industrial unions which once took pride in their liberal free-trade stance — along with the U.S. steel industry, now being jostled for world leadership by Japan — have almost apologetically lined up with such long-time protectionists as the textile and shoe industries.

LOWER LABOR COSTS are attracting U.S. businessmen to Formosa, among other places around the world, where American firms are setting up shop to compete on equal terms with cheaper foreign goods. (AP Wirephoto)

Their combined push for import quotas in the 91st Congress blocked President Nixon's trade-expansion bill by plastering it with import-quota amendments and came within inches of reversing a 35-year policy of liberalizing U.S. tariff and trade. Only a major defensive stand organized by the foreign trade community, including the heads of many multinational corporations, stopped them.

There will be no trade legislation at all this year. Nixon's supporters dare not push his bill to a vote, they now admit privately, because Congress would turn it into a restrictionist bill curbing imports.

MUST FACE ISSUE

Some day the issue must be faced. In the meantime, the Nixon administration is moving in three areas to blunt the quota drive:

● It is pressing for negotiated restrictions by Japan and other countries — voluntary quotas which doctrinaire free trades abhor just as much as they deplore quotas imposed by law.

● It has launched a verbal offensive calling on Europe and Japan to drop their protectionist laws and pick up a fair share of defence costs. As U.S. Treasury Secretary John Connally told the International Banking Conference last month, Europe's easy assumption that the U.S. will be willing indefinitely "to bear disproportionate economic costs does not fit the facts of today."

● It is enforcing, promptly and vigorously, for the first time ever as a deliberate policy, long-standing curbs on unfair trade. Such crackdowns as a March 10 ruling against Japanese TV sets, sold in the U.S. at far less than the Japanese home price, are considered certain to discourage cut-rate foreign competition at relatively small risk of retaliatory action against U.S. products.

There will be less head for quotas next year if, as the administration confidently predicts, the economy has picked up steam and unemployment has declined below six per cent.

JOBS ARE LOST

But labor is impatient. The three major unions in the consumer electronic and electical goods industries have told Congress that more than 50,000 of their members' jobs have disappeared in three years.

"The types of jobs exported are precisely the unskilled an semi-skilled jobs needed here if we are to win the war against poverty and provide dignified and gainful employment for our disadvantaged poor," said the unions' joint statement.

To deal with this and other problems, Nixon in January created a cabinet-level Council on International Economic Policy. A year ago he named a 27-member presidential commission on international trade and investment policy.

At least seven in-depth studies also have been started by various government groups.

How aggressively Nixon's council will attack its problems remains to be seen.

Legislation Would Merge Grain Control

OTTAWA (CP) — The government, acting on an agreement made two weeks ago in the Commons agriculture committee, today presented new legislation in the Commons that would place flax, rapeseed and rye under the regulation of the Canadian wheat board.

The three would join wheat, barley and oats under the federal marketing agency's jurisdiction if a majority of grain growers favor the idea. The legislation calls for a plebiscite on the matter.

The committee agreed June 18 during a closed session that the matter of putting the three additional grains under the wheat board would be separated from a bill amending the Wheat Board Act.

Following the closed session, the committee passed and reported back to the Commons other amendments to the Act contained in the bill. These primarily made the Wheat Board Act conform to changes already made in Canada's grain handling system and include provisions for grading grain on protein content rather than on weight and visual appearance.

GIVEN FIRST READING

The bill outlining provisions for the plebiscite was given first reading in the Commons. It was presented by Otto Lang, minister responsible for the wheat board.

The matter of bringing the two oilseeds and rye under the board had been the only clause in the amending bill to raise the opposition ire.

Conservative spokesmen had argued that the three should be allowed to trade freely on the market; that all had done well enough on their own and would only suffer from board regulation.

Mr. Lang said they would not be placed under board regulation unless farmers wanted them there. But the Conservative opposition asked for assurance and the clause providing for their regulation was removed from the bill amending the act.

When the original bill amending the act was introduced in the Commons April 21, Mr. Lang told John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert), that the government was seeking power to place the three under the board by proclamation if the need arose.

GOT NO REPLY

Mr. Diefenbaker asked why the government was seeking power it didn't intend to use. Mr. Lang did not reply.

Later that day, the Conservative agricultural caucus said in a statement the bill was "only another step on the way to giving complete government domination over agriculture."

Reputed Underworld Boss Shot at Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Reputed underworld boss Joseph Colombo Sr. was shot in the head and critically wounded today before a crowd of thousands at an outdoor Italian-American Unity Day rally. Another man near Colombo was killed.

The shots rang out as thousands of persons were converging into Columbus Circle, an open area at the southwest corner of Central Park in busy mid-Manhattan.

A police official said he struggled with a gunman as the shots were fired. The assailant escaped.

"They got Joe, they got Joe," people in the crowd shouted as Colombo went down.

An hour later, The Associated Press received a telephone call from a man who claimed the "Black Revolutionary Attack Team" had shot Colombo.

"We just assassinated Joe Colombo," the caller said. "This is only the beginning. One of our brothers was killed today. The racist society will pay for what they are doing to our black brothers."

Then the man hung up without further explanation.

The man who was killed was believed to have been black, but police did not immediately identify him.

A spokesman at Roosevelt Hospital said Colombo, 48, was in critical condition.

A doctor at the hospital said Colombo had one wound in the brain and two other superficial head wounds.

The gunfire erupted after about 6,000 people had assembled in Columbus Circle for the rally, which Colombo had helped organize as a leader of the Italian-American Civil Rights League.

A police official told reporters he saw a hand holding a gun sticking up in the crowd near the speaker's stand.

"I tried to grab the wrist," he said. "Then a shot went off while I was holding onto the hand."

The police official was one of more than 1,000 policemen on hand for the rally, which organizers said had been expected to draw a crowd of 500,000. He said he did not see Colombo and was not sure how the other man was shot.

Colombo's family was standing near the speaker's stand and broke into tears when he was shot.

The demonstration continued after the shooting, with pleas for unity and shouts of "One! One!"—for unity—from the crowd. Singing of the United States National Anthem and the Italian national anthem followed.

Appeal Allowed

OTTAWA (CP) — Ronald Emkeit of Calgary will be allowed to appeal his conviction of non-capital murder to the Supreme Court of Canada.

In a 2-to-1 decision, the Supreme Court granted Emkeit's motion to appeal his conviction arising from the death of Ronald George Hartley during a fracas between two motorcycle gangs.

At the same time the high court rejected a Crown motion to appeal lower court decisions granting new trials for 11 other members of Emkeit's group.

They also had been found guilty in Hartley's death of non-capital murder but the Alberta Court of Appeal ordered a new trial for them on grounds that the trial judge failed to instruct the jury properly.

'I Prefer to Die'

LONDON (UPI) — Deputy coroner John Motton told an inquest that after Robert Murton, 33, leaped 200 feet to his death from a building in downtown London, a suicide note was found in his pocket. It said: "I perfer to die, rather than work for a wage which the government takes more than half of in taxes, welfare rates and inflation."

'Jobless Stay Away' —Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia warned young people Sunday not to come to the west coast this summer unless they have jobs or money in their pockets.

"I believe in free movement of Canadians," Mr. Bennett told a caller on the CBC open-line program Cross-Canada Checkup, but he said B.C.'s first obligation is to provide jobs for its own students and unemployed.

"Everybody is welcome, but don't come at this time unless you have a job or have some money in your pocket," he said.

The premier said unemployment is high in B.C. because people are "flocking in" from other provinces. He said B.C.'s population rose 3.5 per cent last year, "double the national average," and said Quebec's population increase in 1970 was only .3 per cent.

No Special Meeting To Discuss Malta

BRUSSELS (Reuter) — NATO representatives are unlikely to meet to discuss the alliance's strained relations with Malta before the regular NATO council session Wednesday, a NATO spokesman said here today.

A spokesman said no meeting was taking place today at the alliance headquarters here and so far none has been scheduled for Tuesday.

NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio called in the representatives last week for talks on relations with Malta following the reported expulsion from the island of the alliance's naval commander in the Mediterranean, Italian Admiral Gino Birindelli, 61.

Asked about Malta's request to the United States to cancel for the time being visits to the island by U.S. naval vessels, the spokesman said this was a bilateral question at the moment between the U.S. and the new Maltese government of Prime Minister Dom Mintoff.

NATO sources here said there is still considerable uncertainty as to Mintoff's intentions. It is not clear whether his reported expulsion of Birindelli is aimed at the admiral personally or at NATO as a whole.

In the same way, it was too early to gauge Mintoff's intentions in seeking to renegotiate Malta's defence accords with Britain, they said.

These could be aimed at obtaining better terms for Malta under a new agreement with Britain, or he could be using the renegotiation call to get at the NATO presence on the island, the sources said.

STANFIELD HITS BENSON BUDGET

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield Sunday lashed out against Finance Minister Edgar Benson's June 18 budget as a "totally incredible . . . means of stimulating the economy."

On the CBC television program The Nation's Business, Mr. Stanfield said the budget was supposed to serve as a "credible plan to get our economy moving properly and put an end to the tragic levels of unemployment that the Trudeau government created in the name of a crusade against inflation."

Instead, it has "further widened the credibility gap that this government has created for itself in both the field of economic planning and humane concern."

"The inaccurate forecasts and misleading statements by Mr. Benson and Mr. Trudeau to date are legion."

An example of a misleading statement made by Mr. Benson came during the finance minister's previous budget in December, Mr. Stanfield said. Mr. Benson said he was going to extend the three per cent surtax on personal and corporate incomes "which he had earlier promised would expire at the end of the year 1970."

"He said he had to keep this tax on specifically because to remove it would be inflationary. . . . Now six months later, when inflation is rising at an annual rate of close to five per cent, Mr. Benson in his June budget removes the surtax."

"This is the sort of thing I mean by incredibility."

Summer Recess Countdown for House Starts

By DAN TURNER

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons, scheduled to close shop for the summer Wednesday, will spend most of three final days on budget debate.

The government will have only about four hours, grabbed in snatches, during these three days to try to get some of its leftover legislation through.

It will likely have time enough to get approval for setting up a ministry of state for external affairs—Robert Andras will be the new minister—and to get a bill through to give across-the-board raises to federally-appointed judges.

With those exceptions, the three days will be spent in discussion of the government's budgetary policy.

Finance Minister Benson's bill to amend the income tax structure will be given first reading Wednesday.

Three of the six days allotted to budget debate have already been completed.

TO RESUME IN FULL

The session is to start again Sept. 7, and likely will continue until October or November before it is prorogued and another session is started—unless the government calls an election this fall.

If it doesn't, some time will be spent this fall dealing with bills left on the order paper over the summer.

Three of them are agricultural measures being fought hard by the opposition:

—The farm products marketing bill, designed to create a structure for the formation of national agriculture marketing agencies;

—The prairie grain stabilization bill, which would replace some existing agriculture schemes with a guaranteed income plan for the western grain industry as a whole based on past industry earnings;

—A bill to amend the Canadina Wheat Board Act, which would give the government the prerogative to bring flax, rapeseed and rye under the board's jurisdiction.

Other bills on the order paper would:

TRY TO SAVE PLANT

—Authorize the government to make a grant to Nova Scotia to try to save Deuterium of Canada Ltd., the trouble-plagued heavy water plant;

—Require weather-modification firms to provide the government with information on their activities;

—Amend the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries Convention Act;

—Amend the Northern Canada Power Commission Act.

A motion of note still hanging would have a special joint Senate-Commons committee study replacement of the Public Order Temporary Measures Act which expired April 30.

Cancer Loses Title

LONDON (UPI) — Heart disease has edged out cancer in 1969 as the biggest killer in England and Wales, according to official statistics.

The British Statistical Review said circulatory diseases claimed 37 per cent of total deaths in the two countries, the largest single affliction being heart constriction. It was responsible for 139,428 deaths, a 31 per cent increase over 1968, it said.

Lung cancer deaths were up 36 per cent over figures for 1959. Increases were also recorded in mortalities from breast cancer in women, respiratory diseases, and road accidents to men.

Deaths of women due to complications of pregnancy and childbirth were at an all-time low, as were suicides, the report said.

Facade Hides Fight For Existence

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

Its economy has been sucked dry by the four-month civil war and the deadly cyclone that raked the East last November, taking an estimated 400,000 lives. Diplomats say 200,000 persons have died in the civil strife.

These disasters have widened the gap between the people of West and East Pakistan to what probably are unbridgeable lengths, leaving politics in disarray.

The Pakistan army from the West is waging an undeclared war against Bengali secessionists along the border with India. The outside world, meanwhile, is mobilizing to combat problems of millions of refugees who are seen as the tinder on which one spark could ignite war between the two subcontinent countries.

Bengalis in Dacca are part of the 70 million in the East who constitute the majority in a country of at least 130 million population. Bengalis speak openly of "waiting for our time to come again," while quietly avoiding the army and West Pakistan police imported to keep order.

Ninety days after the Awami League was outlawed, Sheik Mujibur Rahman, its leader arrested and the army embarked on crushing the secessionists, resistance continues with border incursions, bombings and sabotage.

Against this background, Pakistan President Gen. Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan has scheduled a broadcast Monday in an attempt to promote political reconciliation and outline a program for the transfer of power to civilians from the military.

Party leader Sheik Mujib, as he is popularly known, remains in jail in West Pakistan where he is soon expected to stand trial.

In the East, Bengalis believe he could not resume leadership even if he were released. Many complain his leadership did not prepare them for the devastating blow delivered in March by the army.

Members of the Bangla Desh —the East's liberation army— walk the streets of Dacca and visit friends before returning to border sanctuaries. Operating from these sanctuaries, they have dynamited bridges, crippling East Pakistan's major railway, and blown up tea factories in Sylhet, halting production in the East's second major industry.

World reaction against the army offensive here has resulted in postponement of a World Bank consortium's annual pledging meeting on aid to Pakistan. This may mean the country will go without $400 million in economic assistance, and a $300 million market in the East for West Pakistan goods also has disappeared.

Unity Response 'Really Great'

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and the premiers of all 10 provinces joined Sunday in expressing support for Canada Week, sponsored by the Canada Committee to "promote the benefits of a United Canada."

The annual event, which began Sunday and ends July 4, started with flag-raising ceremonies in most cities and features civic celebrations and ceremonies, planned by both municipalities and the provinces.

A spokesman for the Canada Committee's Montreal headquarters said that response from across the country on behalf of national unity has been "really great, really diversified."

He said major retail chains and all branches of Canadian banks are featuring window displays.

SEEKS UNDERSTANDING

In a news release, the committee, a non-profit, non-political organization founded in 1964, explained its aims, which are "to dispel indifference and promote understanding among all Canadians."

A telegram received by Prime Minister Trudeau read:

"We (Canadians) have felt the deeply-rooted desire for community of spirit, of values and of ideas. We have sought to understand one another in a climate of tolerance and of mutual respect.

"On the occasion of Canada Week 1971 . . . let us think of those things that unite us and make us happy and proud to be Canadians."

In a letter from Quebec City, Premier Robert Bourassa said: "In the name of all Quebecers, I associate myself with my colleagues in other provinces to wish the organizers of the Canada Committee every success they merit."

ISSUED PROCLAMATION

From British Columbia, L. J. Wallace, deputy provincial secretary, announced that Premier W. A. C. Bennett had issued a proclamation respecting Canada week.

From Newfoundland, Premier Joey Smallwood commemorated Canada Week by saying:

"The government and people of Newfoundland and Labrador are pleased to join with the other provinces and the government of Canada in observance of Canada Week."

Alberta Premier Harry Strom said "we have made it a practice . . . not to declare special weeks." He added, however, that he appreciated the objective of the special week and said "I shall endeavor to talk about the objectives during one of my press conferences."

Guerrilla Jailed

GAZA CITY (AP) — An Arab guerrilla who admitted receiving a year of military training in Communist China was sentenced to life imprisonment Thursday by an Israeli military court. Ibrahim Ahmed Kablan, 24, pleaded guilty to all charges against him: armed infiltration, sabotage activity, illegal possession of arms and membership in the Al Fatah guerrilla organization.

'INSTANT CITY' FOR 40,000 CAMPERS SPRINGS UP

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — An "instant city" for an expected 40,000 campers will spring up here in two weeks.

They will come from across Canada and the United States and some from Britain to attend the conference of the National Campers and Hikers Association.

Campsites for the expected 9,000 families have been staked out in Brant Park, a newly-developed conservation area on the western outskirts of this community of 65,000 people.

"An instant city is the only thing you can call the site," said Clare Hope of Oakville, Ont., the convention's publicity chairman.

The 435-acre site will include a restaurant, supermarket, bank, post office and about 100 exhibits of camping equipment.

The association's annual convention, the first in Canada, officially begins July 12 but the families are expected to start arriving a few days earlier. It ends July 16.

Mr. Hope, who visited the site Sunday, said it will be ready for the crowds.

The Grand River Conservation Authority had originally planned to complete the area over 10 years but Mr. Hope said when the association guaranteed at least $100,000 in campsite fees for the convention, work was stepped up.

Extra roads, water lines, electrical outlets and 250 temporary toilets have had to be installed for the convention but they will be removed afterwards.

Activities are planned each day of the convention at the site for three age groups—pre-teens, teens and adults. As well there are tours planned to Brantford, Niagara Falls and the Six Nations Reserve.

Ontario Tourism Minister Fernard Guindon will be at the official opening.

The association claims 2,000 member families in Ontario, 250 in Nova Scotia, a few in the other provinces and some in every state.

The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

CABLEVISION 10 PROGRAMS. 7 p.m., Ladies First; 7:30 p.m., Project Travel; 8 p.m., Music Victoria—Robin Wood plays Chopin; 8:30 p.m., Victoria Outdoorsmen — sailing edition; 9 p.m., Canadian Forces Pacific; 9:30 p.m., Connections—Council of Churches. Connections tonight is a program on pottery work, originally scheduled to be telecast two weeks ago but delayed because of technical problems.

HERE'S LUCY 7 p.m., Channel 6, (RERUN). Lucy has brought Harry many problems in their long years of association, and this time Harry gets back. His house is being redecorated, and he moves in with Lucy and her children. His set ways disrupt the household, and you know Lucy will scheme to get him to move out. But how?

GUNSMOKE 7:30 p.m., Channel 7, (RERUN) "The Jailer" Bette Davis works her magic as tonight's guest star. She plays a bitter woman who plots with her four sons to kill Marshall Dillon (James Arness) to avenge her husband's hanging.

PARTRIDGE FAMILY. 8 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. Laurie, one of the singing Partridges, can't be enticed to open her mouth . . . not even to sing. The problem? Braces on her teeth. Star Shirley Jones sings The Love Song.

ROOM 222. 8 p.m., Channel 8. The student chosen to deliver the commencement address is outspoken . . . too outspoken for a local television show. Result: the show is knocked off the air and Kaufman is knocked off balance and winds up in a tight spot.

THIS IS THE LAW. 8:30 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. New show. It's a game and Marvin Catzman is the guest lawyer who explains tonight's unusual laws to panelists William Charlton, Madeline Kronby, Hart Pomerantz and Larry Solway. Paul Soles is the moderator.

IT WAS A VERY GOOD YEAR. 8:30 p.m., Channel 4. The year tonight is 1939 and host Mel Torme takes us back to the opening of the New York World's Fair, Hitler's march on Prague, Lou Gehrig's farewell to baseball and the opening in Altanta of "Gone with the Wind." Remember Kay Kyser's "Three Little Fishies"?

MAYBERRY R.F.D. 9 p.m., Channel 7. (RERUN). Ruta Lee is tonight's guest as a city planner who arrives to work with Sam as Millie is leaving on vacation. Sam tries to keep everything businesslike but the planner has other ideas. They include candlelight and wine dinners with Mayberry's mayor.

MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE. 9 p.m., Channel 4 (RERUN) "Women Times Seven" (1967) is a pleasant enough vehicle for the considerable talents of Shirley MacLaine. Her leading men in this comedy include Alan Arkin, Rossano Brazzi, Michael Caine, Vittorio Gassman and Peter Sellers. Also featured are Anita Ekberg, Elsa Martinelli, and Robert Morley. Shirley plays everything from a beautiful widow to a neglected housewife in seven vignettes satirizing modern woman.

SUSPENSE PLAYHOUSE. 10 p.m., Channel 7 "Lost Treasure" stars James Stacy, Fritz Weaver, Tige Andrews, Roger Carmel and Danielle Demetz. This unsold pilot film centres on three men of varied and colorful backgrounds who join forces to find a Russian ikon buried on the island of Crete since medieval times.

'IT'S GOOD TO HAVE FEW BIRDS IN BAR'

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — A women's liberation group stormed into the traditionally all-male private bar of Auckland's Great Northern Hotel in a bid to "liberate" the hotel.

"We were determined to set a precedent, even if it meant tackling a band of great, fat, bristling men," said the group's leader, Susan Kedgley.

The men reached calmly.

"It's good to have a few birds in the bar," said one.

ST. JUSTIN, Que. — Claude Lefebvre went for an unexpected 27-mile side trip Saturday night with his car lodged between two box cars of a moving CNR freight train. The 26-year-old auto mechanic was approaching an unmarked level crossing near this city 50 miles northwest of Montreal when his cars of the train. Lefebvre said later he does not remember not stop in time, he jumped into the back seat of his 1966 convertible just before it lodged itself between the 18th and 19th cars of the train. Lefebvre said lattr he does not remember much as he was knocked out by the impact. He suffered a broken nose and minor face cuts. The car dislodged itself 27 miles later when the train rounded a curve.

JACKSON, Miss. — James Meredith, the first Negro to enter the University of Mississippi, says he has moved his family from New York City to Jackson because "on a person-to-person, day-to-day basis, the South is a more livable place for blacks than any other place in the nation." "The racial atmosphere in the northern cities is becoming extremely tense," Meredith said. "And it is going to increase.

DOING HIS THING 225 feet above the ground between the towers of Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris is tightrope walker Philippe Petit. His performance lasted several hours and police were unable to bring him down. (AP Wirephoto)

Notre Dame on Tightrope

PARIS (AP) — A little man in black danced against the grey Paris sky looking down and laughing from a tightrope strung between the two towers of Notre Dame Cathedral.

He juggled balls, pranced back and forth and lay down on the cable 225 feet above the ground. A crowd applauded and the police, feeling a bit silly, gave up on bringing the man down after trying to find winches, ropes and rescue specialists.

The tightrope walker turned out to be Philippe Petit, 21, a professional. He descended on his own.

The police were a little confused about how Petit set up his equipment, but the best guess was that he sneaked into the cathedral and put up the cable overnight.

An officer said he had helpers because the cable stretched between the two towers weighed more than 100 pounds.

Traditionally, the cathedral, built from 1163 to 1345, has been a home for jugglers and acrobats who crowded outside its main entrance during the Middle Ages.

Police Morale 'Dangerously Low'

The official spokesman for the Victoria Policemen's Union said Saturday there is "dangerously low morale" on the force.

Charles Mclean, a Vancouver lawyer, said in a statement the morale was shown to be "dangerously low" by the unanimous police union membership vote of non-confidence in the police commission.

He said morale was "dealt a further blow" by a statement last week, by E. E. Pearlman, spokesm for the commission's negotiating committee in the current pay dispute.

Maclean said the commission's "attempts at calm and reasonable" bargaining consisted of two meetings. At one the commission made no offer and refused to discuss union requests and at the other "threw down a take it or leave it offer . . . and flatly refused to discuss union proposals."

He said morale was also affected because, if the commission's wage offer was accepted, the difference in pay between first-constables here and Vancouver would become $123 a month. In 1969 it was $8 a month.

The commission has offered a two-year contract with 5 per cent raises in each six months. The union turned it down. Mediation officer Clark Gilmour now has been appointed.

The commission and the union are to meet Tuesday.

Smile Show Displays New Material

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Any visitor or Victorian who beats a path to Jerry Gosley's door in the Oak Bay Junior Secondary auditorium, this summer, will find the 19th annual Smile Show as happy, informal and tuneful as it has ever been.

Viewed at Saturday's premiere, it unveiled a good deal of new material as well as two or three items that have been favorites in past seasons.

Backed by an excellent musical team in Peter Williams at the piano — responsible for most of the arrangements — and drummer Don Restall, and excellently stage-managed so that acts followed each other without pause, the show is generally lively, energetic and smooth flowing.

Bits of the show have yet to jell and some of it — like a preserve in which the sugar has been skimped — won't jell for lack of substance.

HOT PANTS

One of these spots is the Hot Pants of 1871 number where one keeps hoping for a "kicker" that never comes. It's pretty with dancers Cynd Connolly, Dawn-Alena Poulson, Terri Shingles and Linda Geddes doing a stylish job, led in vocals by popular Dorothy Hosie. But still it's terribly routine.

On the other hand, the Bebe Eversfield ballet-with-dialogue version of Swan Lake as danced by the girls with John Heath and Mark Smith is anytying but routine and one of the memorable bits along with the show-stopping pantomime, The Princess and the Pussycat in which Bill Dyson plays the beautiful princess.

Hit solo numbes include Gosley's Violin Vignette — one of the re-run favorites, Mark Smith's impassioned discussion and demonstration of the Baritone Single Octave Toilet Plunger and Dorothy Hosie's Songs from Scotland.

In summation, some golden opportunities for fun, aptness and exploitation were missed. In the latter case, Janie Woods, a delightful musical comedy talent, had nothing really worthy of her skill but made do pleasantly enough with a tribute to Noel Coward.

However as long as the Smile Show continues to roll 'em in the aisles with If I Should Ever Lose My Job and can provide so much audience-participation fun as it does with a nautical number, most audiences will react like the big-opening night audience did — relax, forget their troubles and enjoy the goodies.

Inform MLAs, Old Urged

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis has urged senior citizens who own property let their MLAs know they need tax relief.

"I think it is important to keep up the pressure and I hope our senior citizens understand that it is simply not lawful for a municipality to make any change on its own. We don't have the authority, as much as we might want to," he said.

The Union of BC. Municipalities has sought relief in this area but the provincial government has rejected it.

Bike Rider In Hospital

A 13-year-old boy is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with injuries suffered when he was knocked off his bicycle Sunday by a car at Craigflower and Admirals.

Colwood RCMP said the accident occurred at 5:10 p.m. sending Ronald Jackson, 2891 Craigowen, to hospital. The driver of the car, police said, was Martin Jones of Parksville.

Balcony Tubs Are Thriving

By HILDA BEASTALL

Balcony gardeners with miniature vegetable plots have not fared too badly in the cool early summer. With the backing of a warm building and less radiated chill at night than is inevitable from a garden size plot, the young plants recommended for apartment balcony tubs are thriving.

Hilda

Lettuce for instance will suffer from botrytis when it goes into a cool night with moisture on the soil and in between the leaves. A brown rot may develop to the point where the stem is completely severed just about soil level.

In a balcony tub this is less likely to happen since the volume of wet soil is small, and with the protection of the balcony roof no stray raindrops dampen the leaves. The plants rely of course completely on the kindliness of the gardener for moisture supplies, and the gardener in turn wants to have success with this venture just to prove it can be done.

Radishes sharp, tender, crisp and colorful and containing some vitamin C when freshly grown, have reached edible size quickly. Green onions too have livened many a balcony lunch.

In fact, I am inclined to believe that apartment dwellers will discover a new zest for meals by working out a mini-schedule for year-round fresh saladings from balcony tubs.

A tip should be emphasized here: with soil limitations in the tubs be sure to practise what is called "rotation of crops."

With tubs this is far more easily done than in a garden, since each tub is an isolated unit. Don't mix the soil from one tub to another, but sow radishes in the one which grew lettuce, and onions where the radishes have been raised. Put the lettuce in the onion tub.

The small plants of thyme, sage and other herbs will have grown despite the lack of hot sunshine, for it has been possible to keep the soil reasonably dry for them.

Using the fresh leaves as required does no harm to the plants but adds appetizing aromas to cooked foods or to salads.

Mint likes dampness, so perhaps a separate large pot or tub should be used for this herb. Try a leaf chopped into any salad, or dropped into almost any canned soup as a freshener.

Dwarf bushy tomatoes are likely to give the highrise gardener the laugh over the down-to-earthers this year.

Give them tepid water early in the day when needed, no fertilizer yet, and let us see what luck balcony gardeners have coming their way this year.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

On virtually every deal, wishful thinking enters the picture. From the declarer's point of view, he hopes that one defender, rather than the other, possesses some specific key card. And a defender, on the other hand, hopes that his partner has a missing key card.

In today's deal, a defender had to indulge in the wishful thinking that his partner held two specific key cards. If he didn't have them, declarer's contract figured to be unbeatable. So he defended the hand on the assumption that his wishful thinking was a reality. Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

The bidding:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 ♣ | Pass | 2 NT | Pass |
| 3 NT | Pass | Pass | Pass |

Opening lead: Five of ♡.

North's forcing two-club opening bid was an inferior call. First, he really didn't have a hand with which he wanted to be in game if his partner had zero points. And, secondly, if the final contract were to be in notrump, it would be preferably for North to be the declarer, to have the advantage of the opening lead. North should have opened with a non-forcing call of two notrump. Had he done so, he would have become the declarer at three notrump.

On West's opening heart lead, dummy's king was played. East winning with the ace. East then cashed the heart queen.

From East's position, his hope of defeating the contract was to get West into the lead for the latter to cash his heart suit. He assumed (wishful thinking) that West's heart suit was headed by the jack. There were two key cards not in evidence, the spade ace and the diamond queen. If South possessed both of these cards, then the contract could not be defeated.

If West possessed the spade ace, East could always lead a spade after he had made his club queen. But if South had the spade ace and West the diamond queen, then it was imperative to establish West's queen as an entry.

So, at trick three, South banged down his diamond king. Whether dummy's ace won the trick or not, West could not be prevented from obtaining the lead via the diamond queen.

In the actual play, dummy's ace won the trick. The South hand was then entered via the spade 10, and the club finesse was taken. Upon winning with his queen, East returned a diamond. When play had ended, declarer was down four tricks.

Sam placed the meat on the scales. "Just one pound and a half," he said. "Okay, lady?"

"That's fine," replied Lucy. "How much?"

How much did she have to pay?

WORTH A 'REAL CELEBRATION'

Vote Overwhelmingly Favors Hospital

Architect's Sketch of Cowichan Valley Extended Care Hospital

DUNCAN — Approval of the $1,600,000 hospital money bylaw by 93.4 per cent of voting Cowichan Valley regional district ratepayers Saturday today was described as an unprecedented success in comparison to earlier referendums.

About 5,000 ratepayers, or 30 per cent of the 16,500 eligible voters, voted 4,542 in favor and 316 against.

Don Hammond, chairman of the construction and planning committee for the new hospital, said it now has to receive approval from BCHIS before any further steps are taken towards construction.

Following approval, final plans will be drawn up by architects. The committee's goal is to have tenders called for in early October.

Hammond said the overwhelming success of the referendum is worth a "real celebration."

"In my 18 years in politics I have never seen anything passed with such a high vote in favor," North Cowichan Alderman Don Morton said. "About 85 per cent for any referendum would have been considered the highest before."

"I am sort of highly delighted with the results," said Jack Dobson, co-chairman of the publicity and promotion of the referendum and a member of the construction committee.

"It is a record referendum for this area. It shows that if we forget our petty parochialisms how things can be accomplished. I hope people in the district remember this when other projects come up."

Dobson said the committee hopes to have the hospital built as quickly as possible without sacrificing quality.

"The vote showed that the welfare of the senior citizens is uppermost in the minds of people," said Duncan Alderman Jay Powley, who is a member of the Cowichan District Hospital Board.

Sunday Sports Approved

DUNCAN — Ladysmith is now the only area within the Cowichan Valley Regional District that does not have Sunday sports.

Residents in the unorganized areas of the regional district voted 82.4 per cent in favor of Sunday sports Saturday. A total of 1,029 voted for it and 197 voted against.

Duncan and North Cowichan approved Sunday sports about two years ago while Lake Cowichan approved it in the village three years ago.

For Ladysmith to have Sunday sports a separate vote would have to be held by the town.

Hospital Strike Headed Off

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — The threat of a strike in Kootenay hospitals has been averted, after an eleventh-hour compromise between 13 general hospitals in the east and west Kootenays and local 180 of the British Columbia Hospital Employees Union was worked out.

The strike was slated to begin at 6 a.m. today.

Harry Procter, administrator of Kootenay Lake hospital in Nelson, on the behalf of all the Kootenay hospitals and the B.C. Hospitals Association, and Ray McCready secretary of local 180, announced the settlement in a joint statement issued late Sunday afternoon.

It announced that both sides had agreed to the appointment of professor R. G. Herbert from the University of B.C. faculty of law as chairman of a three-man arbitration board to resolve the dispute, which centres on changed hours of work.

Prof. Herbert is said to be knowledgeable in the field of hospital labor-management disputes, having served last year as chairman of a government standing committee on standardization of wages in B.C. hospitals.

FINDINGS BINDING

He has served as an arbitrator in municipal, industrial and institutional disputes in the province and throughout Canada. He will head a board comprised of a union nominee and a nominee from the BCHA.

Its findings will be binding. It will decide whether afternoon and evening shifts at the Kootenay hospitals will include a half-hour paid lunch period or whether the lunch period will be additional to hours worked.

There is to be an immediate start on the hearings.

FUN DAY READY TO GO

PORT McNEILL — The 27th annual Port McNeill Family Fun Day on Thursday is expected to draw patrons from the entire North Island area.

The day will be kicked off by a parade at 10 a.m. boasting a centennial theme. Opening ceremonies will honor old-timers and will include crowning of the Evergreen Queen Joanne Iskra and the awarding of parade prizes.

The day's activities will include a rodeo, a beard judging contest, swimming, and adult and children's games.

A barbecue chicken supper will be served at 4:30 p.m. and the day will be wrapped up by a soap box race at 7 p.m. down Campbell Way.

Teachers Plan Extra Bursaries

DUNCAN — The Cowichan and District Teachers' Federation announced today it will grant an extra $1,000 in bursaries to local students as a special centennial project.

The $1,000 will be divided into five separate bursaries and be given to applicants from the 1971 Cowichan Senior Secondary graduating class who meet the scholastic and financial standards and want to pursue post-secondary education.

The group's annual bursary of $500 was awarded to Maxine Moore this year. It also donated $500 to the Duncan and District Association for Retarded Children.

Chamber Presses Bureau Boycott

SIDNEY — Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce will continue to dissociate itself from the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau on the grounds the area does not receive sufficient funds to aid tourism.

Chamber president Len Silver said last month Sidney was receiving "country cousin" treatment when it was forbidden, as a member of the VIPB, to solicit donations from Greater Victoria to operate the local tourist information centre.

Sidney, North Saanich and the Chamber are each asked to donate $110 annually to the bureau and, in return, the Chamber receives $300 and publicity for this area.

This year, Sidney has contributed $1,800 towards operation of the visitors' information centre and the Chamber has raised more than $900 among local businessmen. They are now writing to tourist attractions whose brochures are displayed in Sidney to ask for donations.

Over 1,500 visitors have passed through the First Avenue information centre since the June 1 opening.

Angle Parking Backed For Sidney Downtown

SIDNEY — A survey of parking spaces in the most congested area of Beacon Avenue, in Sidney reveals that a change from angle to parallel parking will mean a loss of 52 car spaces.

Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce carried out the survey this month under chairman Ken Jolley.

At its meeting, last week the Chamber resolved to recommend to Sindey that present parking patterns be retained until another check is made in October.

At the time, all side-road accesses to Pat Bay Highway will be sealed off by reconstruction and traffic on Beacon is expected to become much heavier.

In September, letter carrier service will be inaugurated in Sidney and this is expected to eliminate the present congestion on Beacon in the vicinity of the Post Office.

Ellsberg Admits Giving Secrets

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Daniel Ellsberg surrendered to federal authorities today and told about 150 persons that he provided the New York Times with secret Pentagon papers on the Vietnam war and said "I am prepared for all consequences."

Ellsberg is charged in federal warrants with unauthorized possession of top-secret United States government documents and failure to return them.

Ellsberg told a group of cheering well wishers outside federal court building here that in the fall of 1969 he presented the Senate foreign relations committee "information contained in the so-called Pentagon papers."

Arm-in-arm with his attractive wife and carrying a briefcase, Ellsberg said:

"After 9,000 more Americans had died, I could only regret that I had not at that same time released that information to the American public.

"I have done so now.

"I took the action on my own initiative. I felt as an American citizen—as a responsible citizen—I could no longer co-operate with concealing this information from the American people. I am prepared for all consequences."

Ellsberg, 40, a former Pentagon researcher and currently a research associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, had been sought unsuccessfully by the FBI during the weekend.

His lawyer promised Saturday that Ellsberg would surrender today.

At an hour-long hearing before U.S. Magistrate Peter Princi, Ellsberg was ordered released on $50,000 non-surety bond.

Princi set July 15 for a probable cause hearing.

The government, represented by Assistant U.S. Attorney Lawrence P. Cohen, had asked that Ellsberg be held on $100,000 bond because of the "severity of the crime charged."

The warrant for Ellsberg was issued late Friday night in Los Angeles where a grand jury investigated the leak of the documents.

Ellsberg was not charged with giving the papers to The Times, and the newspaper has not disclosed the source.

The Times, the Washington Post, the Boston Globe and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch have been barred temporarily by the courts from publishing any further articles based on the Pentagon study.

Ellsberg's lawyers said Saturday they asked the FBI to "restrain from their efforts to apprehend him" in light of his decision to surrender today, but the FBI refused.

His lawyers offered to have Ellsberg surrender immediately if the government would release him on personal recognizance, but the government refused.

. . . MEANWHILE, COURT DELAYS PAPERS RULING

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court did not rule on the Pentagon Vietnam papers case today but extended its term in order to decide it.

The court was to have adjourned today until the fall term. But Chief Justice Warren Burger announced from the bench that it would continue sitting to hand down further orders.

In a highly-unusual Saturday session, the court heard arguments on U.S. government suits seeking to stop the New York Times and the Washington Post from publishing parts of the secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war.

The fact that the case was heard Saturday was seen as an indication that the court considers the case of urgent importance. However, Burger made no comment whatsoever about the cast today.

Until the court reaches a decision the newspapers will continue to be banned printing material from the history which the government says is too sensitive.

Chicken-Egg War 'Illegal'

OTTAWA (CP) — Manitoba cannot set up an egg-marketing board as it proposed to do because it would restrict or limit the free flow of trade between provinces, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled today.

The Manitoba plan was almost a carbon copy of an egg-marketing board already established in Quebec. The high court's ruling therefore casts doubt on the validity of the Quebec board.

All nine Supreme Court judges agree that proposed legislation drafted by Manitoba as a thinly-disguised test of the Quebec plan was beyond the powers of the province.

Justice Minister John Turner told the Commons shortly after the decision was announced that he will study the ruling and decide what action should be taken.

Manitoba brought its proposed legislation to the Supreme Court in hopes it would end the so-called chicken and egg war which has broken out among the provinces.

STARTED BY QUEBEC

The war started when Quebec set up its egg-marketing board to give more of the market to Quebec producers. The limit on the number of eggs entering the province from out-of-province was severely restricted and is said to have cost Manitoba producers millions of dollars.

Other provinces retaliated by closing their markets to other agricultural products, bringing a demand from Manitoba that the question be referred to the Supreme Court.

When the federal government refused to do so, Manitoba drafted its legislation for an eggboard and asked its own court of appeal to say whether it was constitutional.

Power Blackouts Nearer—Union

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers warned today that the striking union cannot forever maintain electrical power.

Doug Cronk of Vancouver, business agent for the IBEW's Local 258, was commenting in an interview on the planned escalation of the strike which began on a full-scale one week ago.

Only a handful of the 2,000 electrical workers at B.C. Hydro have remained at work, without pay, to man the generating stations.

Pickets were at B.C. Hydro construction sites throughout the province today, except Mica and Peace Dams, but not at regional offices or the Victoria and Vancouver transit systems.

Cronk said there is a policy of escalation, of adding new sites for picketing as each day passes, eventually leading to the entire utility being picketed.

In the meantime, there was a policy of de-escalation if B.C. Hydro agrees to submitting the contract dispute to a third party outside the B.C. Mediation Commission.

'NOT PAID'

Asked if the escalation includes the generating stations, Cronk said: "Yes, everything. All of B.C. Hydro."

Asked if this means no more power, he said it means no more union men in the power stations.

"Our people are maintaining power for the public. We are not being paid. We are in a unique position — of striking and applying pressure and maintaining the employer's product. That's the responsible position but we can't do it forever nor will we do it forever.

"This gives time for people to see our request for a third party is reasonable. But we will not continue to man these places forever for nothing," he said.

Bill Will Allow Courts To Approve Wire-Tapping

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill banning wiretapping and other electronic eavesdropping by all but the police was introduced in the Commons today by Justice Minister John Turner.

The bill—an amendment to the Criminal Code entitled Invasion of Privacy—would make illegal wiretapping or eavesdropping on any private conversation without the consent of at least one of the parties to the conversation.

The exceptions would be government investigations of espionage, sabotage or other subversive activity, or when a superior court judge grants authorization to police for a criminal investigation.

Before granting authorization, the judge would have to be satisfied that:

—Other investigation methods have been tried and failed;

—Other methods are unlikely to succeed, or;

—Urgency makes other methods impractical.

The bill received first reading in the Commons.

The judge's authorization could only be granted for indictable offences, and would only last for 30 days. It could be renewed.

BANS BUGGING DEVICES

The bill also outlaws the selling of devices used for eavesdropping or wiretapping, and the disclosure of information gained from illegal methods.

A conversation unlawfully intercepted by the police would be inadmissible as evidence in court, but information gained as a direct or indirect result f the interception could be used.

That means, for example, that an overheard admission of a crime could not be used. But if the suspect says where stolen goods are hidden, the police can make use of that information.

Before an intercepted conversation could be used in court, the accused person must be told of police plans to use the evidence, and get a police copy of the transcript.

The federal solicitor-general and provincial attorneys-general would be required to publish a report each year on authorizations for wiretapping and eavesdropping.

By an amendment to the Crown Liability Act, the bill would provide punitive

SPECK ESCAPES DEATH SENTENCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court reversed today the death sentences of 35 persons, including the electric-chair sentence of Richard F. Speck, who was convicted of murdering eight nurses in Chicago in 1966.

In the plea to save Speck, 27, from the electric chair, his lawyers raised several claims, among them that the exclusion of 50 prospective jurors because they opposed capital punishment denied Speck a fair trial.

The court said then that no death sentence could stand if it was handed down by a jury automatically cleared of persons expressing general conscientious scruples against the death penalty.

CIA 'Sending Spies Into China'

By The Canadian Press

Two newspapers report that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is sending Laotian hill tribesmen on spying missions from Laos into Communist China to obtain information on troop movements and political developments.

The Philadelphia Bulletin and the Seattle Times publish the report of the alleged CIA activities in a copyrighted story from Vientiane by Arnold Abrams.

The dispatch, as published in The Bulletin, says qualified sources reported that U.S. officials in Laos discounted any potential threat the operations pose to slowly-improving relations between Washington and Peking.

"They believe this threat is small, according to reliable sources, because the operations are not commando raids or sabotage efforts and Americans do not participate in them," The Bulletin says.

Native hill tribesmen are of the same ethnic stock found in southern China. "They have been recruited, equipped and trained by the CIA to infiltrate Chinese territory and obtain information on troop movements, political developments and other data," The Bulletin says.

The newspaper says its sources claim such intelligence missions have long been known to Chinese authorities and that several teams have been captured in recent years.

"Consequently," The Bulletin concludes, "American officials reason that Peking will continue to tolerate these territorial incursions as long as they are conducted solely to gather intelligence."

Student Leader Shot in Saigon

SAIGON (Reuter) — The moderate student chairman of the Saigon University's law school was shot and killed at the crowded faculty building today in an apparent political assassination.

Eyewitnesses said a young man shot Dam Le Khac Sinh Nhut, and escaped on a waiting motorcycle amid a hail of fire from plainclothes policemen on duty outside.

Three other students, all apparently bystanders, were wounded by shots from the killer's pistol.

SUPREME COURT BACKS BOXER

Muhammad Ali a Free Man

WASHINGTON — The United States Supreme Court reversed today the conviction of former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, who was sentenced to five years imprisonment for evading the United States military draft.

In an 8-to-1 decision, the court said the record shows that Ali's "beliefs are founded on tenets of the Muslim religion as he understands them."

The 29-year-old black boxer, also known as Cassius Clay, was reigning heavyweight champion when he refused to take the traditional step foward at draft induction ceremonies April 28, 1967, in Houstaon.

The following month he was convicted by an all-white jury of six men and six women.

Ali had contended throughout his long legal battle that he should be draft-exempt on grounds that he is a Black Muslim minister.

ALI

In Chicago, just after the decision, Ali told reporters: "I've done my celebrating already. I said a prayer to Allah."

The supreme court cited the government's own concession that "there is no dispute that petitioner's professed beliefs were founded on basic tenets of the Muslim religion, as he understood them, and derived in substantial part from his devotion to Allah as the supreme being."

"This concession is clearly correct," the supreme court said.

Ali said: "I thank the Supreme Court for recognizing the sincerity of my belief in myself and my convictions."

NIXON PLANS LONG VIET WAR—BAYH

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "real reason" President Nixon refuses to set a date for ending the Vietnam war is not to secure release of U.S. war prisoners but to keep the present Saigon regime in power, Sen. Birch Bayh (D—Ind.), charged today.

Furthermore, Nixon's "Vietnamization" approach to American disengagement from Indochina may have as its underlying intention "the indefinite continuation of the war," said Bayh, a potential presidential candidate.

Q: AND A.

What? No Laundry In a Wilderness?

Being another session of Questions and Answers:

Question: "On the weekend my family and I went to Sproat Lake to camp. As we were not familiar with the area we inquired at random about camping facilities. We were, to say the least, most surprised to find out that the private campsites offered so much more convenient facilities to families than the provincial ones.

"For instance, at the private ones there were proper bathroom facilities, hot and cold water, laundry facilities, electric outlets for those needing them, lake frontage with swimming and boat docking facilities. The provincial campsite offered cold-water taps, firewood, a privy in the bush and a possible attack from local vandals and troublemakers.

"The difference in rates was also a surprising discovery. The provincial government has upped the rate from three nights free of charge and after that a dollar a night to a flat two dollars a night per car or tent. The rate was the same at the privately-owned sites.

"As we cannot believe that the private owners are willing to work with a loss we have to believe that the provincial campsites are tourist traps where one really pays through the nose."

Answer: The parks people have very little sympathy for the likes of you, dear sir, and I can't say I blame them.

They're interested primarily in the camper who seeks natural, primitive, wilderness surroundings, a total change of environment far from the creature comforts of home. They've no plans and probably never will have for laundry facilities, electricity or the rest. The campsites, themselves, are seldom if ever placed directly on waterfrontage in order to keep the shore in its natural state.

Officials in the provincial department admit that they're concerned about the incidence of vandalism and rowdies, but that's a police problem and a difficult one. Unlike the privately-owned camp site, the public park is open to all and no one can be excluded merely on suspicion of being a troublemaker.

Ideally, there should be no charge for camping and certainly the two-dollars-per night fee is too high, considering the comparative charge of private campgrounds, but the government can argue that the user should be contributing to the maintenance of the parks. Last year, for example, the camping fees amounted to $210,000, but the tab for upkeep was nearly a million-and-a-quarter.

Question: "Why should we in this city have to put up with our neighbors' cackling hens and bantams? We live in Fairfield where there are lots of lovely singing birds around, but sitting out in our garden every sound is drowned by this incessant cackling. I telephoned City Hall and was told by a man that he loved the sound of hens so he was no help. Surely we should have a bylaw controlling this nuisance."

Answer: There is a bylaw, unchanged since 1939, that allows a Victoria citizen to keep chickens, pigeons, hares and rabbits on his premises as long as space requirements are met. If your neighbor is failing in that your complaint will be acted upon. The bylaw specifies that fowl must be penned or housed and may not run at large.

Out Metchosin way almost everybody keeps chickens and we awake each dawn to the sound of cocks crowing. You'd swear you were in Mexico. I've enjoyed it so much, in fact, that I've invested in a half dozen layers myself. That probably is the best form of self-defence for someone like yourself. Chickens make beautiful music when you know that every cackle is bringing you closer to the magic egg.

Question: "Some weeks ago you wrote about filing a complaint with the Canadian Radio-Television Commission concerning a half-hour commercial on a Vancouver television station and said that you would report on what action was taken. There has been nothing from you since. Since then I have complained on a related matter to the CRTC without any response from them. Are we to assume that the commission just doesn't give a damn about public opinion?"

Answer: I'm beginning to think so. The last I heard from the CRTC was in March when they wrote to say that they had a videotape of the program to which I objected and that the matter had been referred for an opinion to the Department of National Health and Welfare under the Food and Drugs Act. "Our concern upon receiving a complaint is to move as quickly as possible to investigate it," the letter noted. Since then: total silence. Which hardly fortifies my faith in the CRTC as the watchdog of the airwaves.

Question: "As one who came to make his home in this blessed town at about the same time as your own arrival I have been interested in your continuing impressions on the way of life here. It surprises me, however, that you've had no comment on the hazards of driving hereabouts due, I expect, to the large numbers of elderly motorists. Would you agree that no other Canadian city demands such dedication to the technique of defensive driving?"

Answer: The point was made here some months ago in interviews with several drivers who race at the Western Speedway. To a man, they agreed that they'd rather risk their necks on that dirt track than on any Victoria street.

My first reaction to the elderly drivers was irritation and an alert wariness at the sight of any flowered bonnet peeping over the steering wheel of an Austin Cambridge.

There are no specific statistics, but traffic police tell me that the Ancient Mariners of the roads undoubtedly account for the fact that we've a higher-than-average number of minor accidents of the crunched fender category, caused by excessively slow or vague driving. But there's no evidence whatever that they contribute significantly to more serious accidents involving injury or death.

I've come to look at it, in fact, as yet another of the enduring charms of the city and its unique breed to retired people who refuse to fade into the woodwork. In no other city in which I've lived have I seen so many blithe spirits of advanced years who fearlessly venture forth in their horseless carriages. They deserve every courtesy, if only in the interests of self-preservation.

Question: "Like most Victorians, I suppose, I have never visited a single one of our tourist attractions. This summer we're expecting no less than three visiting families from the prairies and the east. What would be your own choice of sights for them to see?"

Answer: It would make a pleasant, crowded day to visit Chimo, the white killer whale at Sealand which continues to fascinate me after many, many visits; the Butchart Gardens, always a delight; the cruise of the harbor and the Gorge that leaves from the Inner Harbor in front of the Empress; and just for tradition's sake, tea and crumpets in the Empress Lounge to look at the comical visiting Americans.

FEATHERS AND FIFES are blended by Mark Edwards, 10, and Ruby Charles, 13, of Kuper Island Fife Band, one of nine Indian groups taking part in the Native Children's Centennial '71 Tattoo touring B.C. The 322 youngsters who drew large crowd at Legislative Buildings Sunday night, will perform at 8 tonight in Memorial Arena with program including marches, musical drills and ancient tribal dances. The provincial tour is financed by the First Citizens Fund and locally is co-sponsored by the British Columbia and Greater Victoria Centennial '71 Committees. Some tattoo members were scheduled to perform on steps of the legislature this afternoon while others entertained elderly in a rest home.

'UPPER TROUGH' STAYED PUT

About That Sunshine . . .

The weatherman predicted sunny skies for Greater Victoria over the weekend — and for a few moments Sunday evening he was right.

How come such a goof-up?

Very simple, said senior weather technician Mike Dolan with a chuckle this morning.

"We were expecting the upper trough to move out but it stayed stationary."

". . . upper trough . . . 500 millibars . . . low pressure . . . steering pattern . . ."

How can you argue with that?

And if you found the weekend weather hard to believe, would you believe rainfall this month has been below average?

So far there has been .80 inches of what the weather office primly calls precipitation this month. In Junes past the average at this point is 1.01 inches.

And if that doesn't seem real, this won't help. There have been 11 days of measurable precipitation this month in contrast to the average of seven.

With the month almost gone, Greater Victoria has gleaned only 158.8 hours of sunshine when the average of Junes past is 246.2.

Dolan's explanation of why the month has been so miserable is somewhat less technical.

He suspects "it's just the law of averages catching up with us." No one remembers all those glorious Junes of yesteryear which have to be paid for.

Meanwhile, the forecast for Tuesday — cloudy in the morning, some sunny periods in the afternoon.

City Loses Out In Uvic Tax Bid

Victoria City Hall officials had mixed reaction today after learning the Supreme Court of Canada has turned down an attempt by the city to include a downtown university-owned building on its tax rolls.

The $21,849 in tax "arrears" on the Central Building on View Street, owned by the University of Victoria, will be written off. The money was owing in part since 1958 when the building was willed to Uvic in the T. S. McPherson estate.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady had taken the case through B.C. courts all the way to the Supreme Court, basing his case partly on decisions in favor of other municipalities in other provinces which had won decisions.

CLEAR IN INTENT

On the principle that a university-owned building must be used for educational purposes to avoid taxes, other court decisions have gone as far as to rule that even a university president's house and land, though owned by the university corporation, should be taxable like any other building.

Current taxes on the Central Building are $5,547 for 1971.

City manager Bill Hooson said the decision shows that the wording of the B.C. law is clear in its intent, but he questioned whether the intent was a conscious act by the B.C. government.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND

"It doesn't come as any great surprise — although from the city's point of view it certainly seems to be inequitable," Hooson said.

He pointed out that any change to the law in future would indicate how the provincial government views the matter.

Told of the decision today, land commissioner Alf Joyce said glumly: "We'll just have to write it off." He said he could not understand how the building could go tax free when it is "rented out in competition with other buildings."

Another official pointed out that the decision could mean any private citizen or corporation can now avoid paying real property taxes by turning over ownership of land by special arrangement to a B.C. university.

DISTINCTION LACKING

The B.C. law in question does not make the distinction enforced in other provinces between a university-owned building used as part of the learning institution and one serving an exclusive purpose. The law merely states that a property vested in the university shall not be taxed as real property.

The unanimous five-judge decision upheld similar judgments in the B.C. courts.

The downtown land is under lease to commercial tenants and is not used for university purposes.

Both a trial court and the British Columbia Court of Appeal agreed that the provincial Universities Act allowed the university exemption from city taxes.

NO PROVISION

Mr. Justice Bora Laskin, writing the unanimous judgment of the Supreme Court, said "it may be anomalous to permit a university to reap revenue from commercial leases of land . . . without being obliged to pay taxes, especially when, as was indicated to us, there also appears to be no provision for taxing the commercial tenants."

He noted that legislation in other provinces provided tax exemption to universities only when the land in question was actually used and occupied for university purposes.

If a remedy was believed required to bring B.C. universities into line with those of other provinces, it must come from the B.C. legislature, said Mr. Justice Laskin.

Strike Queries Dodged By Hospital Manager

The president of National Nursing Homes Ltd., Neil Cook of Vancouver, said today he has no comment on mass picketing of Sandringham Private Hospital Saturday.

He also declined to answer almost every question asked of him this morning about the 24-week strike of 28 employees at Sandringham, which is owned by two Vancouver businessmen and managed by Cook's company.

Asked if National Nursing Homes is prepared to resume negotiations with the striking Local 1311 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, Cook said "we've already done the negotiating."

Asked if he thought there would be any new negotiations, he said "no I don't."

When pressed further on this point, and to comment on union actions, he said: "I am not going to debate this in the press."

He said he has no comment on last week's brief picketing of National Nursing Home' retirement centre, under construction at Cadboro Bay Road and Bowker Avenue in Oak Bay.

Asked if an injunction might be sought to prevent picketing, he said "I don't know."

Asked if he thought there would be any conclusion to the Sandringham strike, he said he doesn't know.

Finally, he said he didn't know why a reporter was asking him questions, after the reporter had told him he was trying to get management's side of the dispute.

"We have stated our position to the union," he said, but would not say what that position is.

CLAIMED LOSSES

Earlier this year, National Nursing Homes, in newspaper advertisements, said Sandringham's revenues have never covered its cost of operation. The company said Sandringham is "an uneconomic operation . . . heavily indebted and its owners have never received any return on their investment."

As a result of the financial situation at Sandringham, it was said, it is impossible to pay some employees more than the provincial minimum wage.

The union went on strike Sept. 30 seeking a first contract with wages between the minimum of $1.50 an hour and $2 an hour plus job security, similar to contracts in effect at Glenwarren, Glengarry and Richmond Heights private hospitals in Victoria.

No Trouble in Sight This Summer—RCMP

RCMP said today they are not anticipating serious civil disturbances involving youth and police during the summer despite a letter from the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association offering help in such cases.

Superintendent James Nelson of the Vancouver Island detachment was commenting on a letter from the association offering "impartial observers or mediators to attend the scene of any threatened or actual civil disturbance."

Nelson said the RCMP has been assisting travelling youth for years adequately and added that he could see no reason for special arrangements this year.

He said if such a disturbance occurs the bystander testifying before the court helps make the final analysis.

"We're playing it by ear day by day," he said of the expected influx of travelling youth this summer.

"It is hoped that such a procedure would serve to cool tempers and prevent escalation of confrontations," said the association's letter. It also asks police officials if there are any other ways in which the association can help preserve the peace during the anticipated influx of travelling youth to metropolitan areas of B.C.

It said that its concern is that inflammatory words or actions on the part either of authorities or of young people may result in serious civil disturbances, "which in turn, might imperil the liberty and safety of citizens generally as well as those directly involved in any confrontation."

CAUT Says Two Panelists Not Qualified to Judge

Because two of the three men investigating the University of Victoria tenure dispute "lack academic experience" they aren't qualified to pass judgment on the affair, the Canadian Association of University Teachers said today.

The CAUT statement was presented as the second day of hearings opened after a two-week delay.

The statement gave the CAUT's reasons for not participating at the hearings. It said it is doubtful whether the inquiry would result in settlement of the cases of Drs. William Goede and Tikam Jain and lecturer J. P. Graff.

Non-academic members of the advisory panel are chairman Colin McLauring and Vancouver lawyer A. B. Carrothers.

'NATURAL JUSTICE'

"Although the panel has indicated that it gives a wide meaning to the words 'natural justice' in its terms of reference," the statement said, "it is doubtful whether those terms, even when this widely interpreted, will permit settlement of what we regard as the substantial issues in the three cases, namely whether or not professors Goede and Jain should be granted tenure and whether or not Mr. Graff should be promoted and hence retained as a member of faculty.

"If the inquiry is inconclusive it can only further delay settlement of these cases which have been in dispute for nearly a year.

"Moreover, we do not think that the advisory panel is properly constituted. It was established unilaterally by the University of Victoria and it is so composed that a majority of its members lack academic experience. We believe that issue of promotion and tenure, involving judgments about the quality of scholarship and teaching, should be decided primarily by academics."

CHEMISTRY CONTROVERSY

During the morning session of the hearing assistant dean of arts and science Dr. William Gordon answered questions from Williams about his knowledge of the Jain case.

He told how a controversy had developed in the chemistry department in 1970 over a claim by Jain that he had discovered a new compound in his area, natural products chemistry.

Gordon took documentation of the work to a "distinguished chemist" at another university, and that scientist's evaluation was that Jain had not isolated a new compound.

The outside opinion, as reported in a memorandum by Gordon, played a part in the decision not to recommend Jain for tenure.

Canoeist Presumed Drowned

A 31-year-old North Saanich man is missing and presumed drowned by Tofino RCMP after a canoeing mishap Thursday night on the Kennedy River, RCMP said today.

The RCMP said they have called off the the search for Frderick Angus Gunn, 271 Coal Point Lane, after failing to find him or the canoe.

Two other men, Tom Johnstone, 4670 Spring, and Peter Rassenti, Prospect Lake Road, were shaken up but otherwise unhurt, RCMP said.

Police said the three men were canoeing down Kennedy River which flows from Kennedy Lake to Tofino Inlet. About two miles before the river's mouth are rapids.

"They tried going through the rough water and the canoe overturned. I don't know why they were trying it but they did anyway. The canoe just tipped over," RCMP said.

He has been employed with the centre for about three years. Sevenoaks is part of the Family and Children's Service.

Gunn is married with one child.

Smoke Smell Will 'Add to Interest'

A smouldering cigarette is believed to have started a fire in the B.C. Maritime Museum early Sunday morning that triggered the fire alarm system at 11:45 p.m. and caused $1,500 damage.

The fire started in the lecture room, behind the judge's dais in the old Law Chambers, used by members of the Bastion Theatre Sunday afternoon.

Deputy fire chief Carl Coates said the heat built up in the room, triggering the direct line to the fire hall. Firemen fought the fire for three hours.

The fire burned through the floor of the third-storey room and crept up the wall to the ceiling.

None of the exhibits in the Royal Canadian Navy room below was damaged.

Curator Bill Symons praised the Victoria firemen. "Thank heaven we have a fire alarm system that works and a highly skilled fire department.

"By the time we arrived the firemen had covered all the exhibits with tarpaulins."

Symons said the fire would not force closure of the museum. "We're not out of business. There will be a slight smell of smoke and burned wood—but that will only add to the interest."

He added that if the alarm had not acted when it did the fire would have reached the roof and the damage would have been exstensive.

Symons estimated the damage to be "between $2,000 and $3,000" but Coates felt that $1,500 was a more realistic figure.

Coates said the last person is believed to have left the museum at 4 p.m. after the meeting.

No Break Seen in Strike By Salmon Fishermen

VANCOUVER — A strike by 4,500 salmon net fishermen which began Saturday remained in effect today from Victoria to Prince Rupert with no end in sight.

Talks between the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union and the Fisheries Association of B.C. broke off an hour after the strike began.

Also involved in the strike is the Native Brotherhood of B.C., which represents Indian fishermen on the northern coast and is bargaining jointly with the fishermen's union.

The dispute revolves around the minimum salmon prices for the 1971-72 fishing season. Fishing was to have begun in most areas Sunday night.

The association, representing four companies, has offered an average price increase of about 4.5 per cent. A union spokesman said the bargaining committee will recommend that fishermen reject the offer.

SMALL OFFER

"The offer is so small it is hardly worthy of a ballot, but in a democratic union, the membership calls the shots," the union said in a statement Sunday.

"We regret that talks broke down, but know any possible settlement must be well above what was offered officially or even suggested off the record."

The union spokesman said both sides adjusted their positions during talks Friday and Saturday, but were still unable to reach an agreement.

He said no arrangements have been made for further talks.

Association manager Ken Campbell said the two sides were "pretty close, but not close enough to bridge the gap."

"The union wouldn't come down to prices we could pay them, so it was a choice of that or going ahead with the strike and we chose the strike," said Mr. Campbell.

The association has said the prices asked for by the union would put canned salmon out of reach of most consumers.

. . . HYDRO

interview, Cronk said the union "cannot be irresponsible to the point of where you shut off the power."

Asked how this stands with his earlier comments, he said:

"I am saying we recognize that the government, whichever political party, cannot stand by and see no electricity flowing. We recognize that. We are saying there need not be a strike or inconvenience."

'ANOTHER LOOK'

Cronk said B.C. Hydro has told the union that it cannot and will not remove itself "from access to legislation that is available to other employers in British Columbia."

He replied that the union is not denying the use of the B.C. Mediation Commission, if the dispute cannot be resolved through independent means.

"We are objecting to automatic compulsion," he said.

THIRD PARTY

Earlier, Labor Minister James Chabot said the appointment of a third party would require agreement of all parties "and we don't have that." He promised to take another look at the situation.

Wages, job security, job classifications, sick benefit and isolation pay are among the main issues in dispute.

On wages, the union is seeking an increase of 18½ per cent over two years while B.C. Hydro has offered 14 per cent over this period. Hourly rate for linemen, a major job classification, now is $5.39. The union also wants protection for employees when work is contracted out to other employers.

N. Zealand Leader In S. Pacific

By J. C. GRAHAM
CP Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The emergence of independent nations in the South Pacific is changing the political complexion of the area and creating new groupings.

New Zealand seems to be cast in a leadership role at the invitation of leaders of the new countries.

Tropical island groups in the South Pacific which now have attained independence are Fiji, Western Samoa, Tonga and the phosphate island of Nauru. In addition the Cook Islands are self-governing, although leaving external relations in New Zealand hands.

Fiji, with a population of some 520,000 and an area of 7,055 square miles, is the largest of the new nations, which range down to tiny Nauru, with a population of 6,500 and area of eight square miles.

All are members of the Commonwealth, but only Fiji has so far faced the expense of United Nations membership.

NEW COUNCIL WANTED

The need now is being felt for some new organization in which matters of common concern can be discussed.

The South Pacific Commission, an organization with headquarters in New Caledonia, which carries out extensive welfare, technical, health, educational and similar work among the islands, is the most comprehensive existing organization in the area.

But it has proved difficult to discuss such topics as greater island autonomy in this body. Countries with colonies in the Pacific are members and French delegates walked out of a session last year when delegates raised the issue of French nuclear tests in the Pacific.

So island leaders want some arrangement by which they can get together and discuss political as well as economic and welfare matters.

They have invited New Zealand to act as host at a summit meeting of heads of government later this year. It will be attended by Fiji, Western Samoa, Tonga, Nauru, the Cook Islands, New Zealand and also Australia.

CHOICE SIGNIFICANT

It is significant that the invitation was extended to New Zealand to act as host rather than Australia. There are several reasons.

Islanders tend to feel more at home in New Zealand than Australia, the size of which overwhelms them.

New Zealand's native people, the Maoris, are closely related to the Polynesians who form the main racial element in the South Pacific islands. Many islanders come to New Zealand for education and the Tongan royal family even maintains a residence in Auckland.

For years there has been a substantial influx of islanders to New Zealand, which island people tend to think of as an El Dorado offering wider opportunities than at home.

In fact, Auckland is often called the largest city of Polynesia, since its 620,000 inhabitants include about 80,000 Maoris and islanders—more Polynesians than in any other city, including Honolulu.

. . . CHICKEN, EGG WAR

When the Manitoba court ruled the proposed legislation beyond Manitoba's powers to enact, the province appealed the ruling to the Supreme court.

LIMITS TRADE

Mr. Justice Roland Martland, writing the majority reasons, said the Manitoba plan in his opinion "not only affects interprovincial trade in eggs, but that it aims at the regulation of such trade."

"It is an essential part of this scheme, the purpose of which is to obtain for Manitoba producers the most advantageous marketing conditions for eggs, specifically to control and regulate the sale in Manitoba of imported eggs.

"It is designed to restrict or limit the free flow of trade between provinces as such.

"Because of that, it constitutes an invasion of the exclusive legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada over the matter of the regulation of trade and commerce."

A few minutes after the court's decision was announced, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield asked in the House whether the decision would change the government's approach to its legislation to establish a series of farm products marketing boards.

The bill to establish the boards, which ran into stiff opposition, will not come before the House again until fall.

Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson replied that he had just received the court's decision and had not had an opportunity to study it. But "I think there is some relation that ought to be looked at between this and the government's bill.

Mark Rose (NDP—Fraser Valley West) said there are obvious legislative impediments in the way of the federal bill to establish marketing boards. He asked whether the government would consider the establishment of boards only for eggs and poultry.

Mr. Olson said the main impediment was the opposition.

First Aid Team Wins Division

Team members are captain Kathy Mayzes, Christine Thomas, Leslie Preston, Sheila Wilson and Marian Paalvast.

The first-aid championships were held at Capilano Stadium under the joint sponsorship of the Workmen's Compensation Board and St. John Ambulance. Thirty-five teams from across Canada and western U.S. competed.

damages up to $5,000 plus damages caused by a federal government employee who breaks the bill's rules.

HOPE PROVINCES FOLLOW

The justice department says it hopes provincial legislatures will introduce similar provision for damages from illegal surveillance.

A provision in the bill would allow a special permit to intercept a conversation within 36 hours of an attorney-general or the federal solicitor-general, or an officer designated by them in writing, suspects that conspiratorial activities are being pursued by persons involved in organized crime.

The provision would be used when officials believe there is no time to apply to a judge for authorization.

They would have to apply for a judge's authorization as quickly as possible.

The bill bans disclosure by anyone of the existence of a private conversation or its contents except:

—When the disclosure is made in court under oath;

—In connection with duties related to a criminal investigation;

—In the course of the normal operation of a telecommunication system;

—Where the disclosure to a peace officer is intended to be in the interest of the administration of justice.

Pakistanis Attack Five Hindu Villages

DACCA (AP) — The Pakistani army has attacked at least five villages within 30 miles of this East Pakistan capital in the last four days, killing Hindu men and burning homes and markets in raids before dawn, reliable sources said today.

Arriving at one village, Boliadi, this correspondent passsed an army column leaving the place and saw dead Hindu men and the bazaar and houses burning.

From nearby villages, rifle fire could be heard and columns of smoke were rising.

Residents of Boliadi said the raids started Friday, the day after the arrival in Dacca of four members of the British Parliament investigating conditions in East Pakistan and refugee camps in India.

The people of Boliadi said the soldiers attacked the Hindu section of their village at 4 p.m. Sunday.

A Hindu woman held her husband in her arms. He had been shot in the neck. Another woman moaned over the body of her husband.

Across a small creek in a tiny corrugated iron house lay the body of a white-haired man with a bullet wound in his back.

Residents said at least five or six other corpses were in the village.

One villager said the troops looted houses and market stalls before setting them ablaze.

As they spoke, flames shot up from tin shacks.

Ellsberg Admits Giving Secrets

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Daniel Ellsberg surrendered to federal authorities today and told about 150 persons that he provided the New York Times with secret Pentagon papers on the Vietnam war and said "I am prepared for all consequences."

Ellsberg is charged in federal warrants with unauthorized possession of top-secret United States government documents and failure to return them.

Ellsberg told a group of cheering well wishers outside federal court building here that in the fall of 1969 he presented the Senate foreign relations committee "information contained in the so-called Pentagon papers."

Arm-in-arm with his attractive wife and carrying a briefcase, Ellsberg said:

"After 9,000 more Americans had died, I could only regret that I had not at that same time released that information to the American public.

"I have done so now.

"I took the action on my own initiative. I felt as an American citizen—as a responsible citizen—I could no longer co-operate with concealing this information from the American people. I am prepared for all consequences."

Ellsberg, 40, a former Pentagon researcher and currently a reseach associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, had been sought unsuccessfully by the FBI during the weekend.

At an hour-long hearing before U.S. Magistrate Peter Princi, Ellsberg was ordered released on $50,000 non-surety bond.

Princi set July 15 for a probable cause hearing.

The government, represented by Assistant U.S. Attorney Lawrence P. Cohen, had asked that Ellsberg be held on $100,000 bond because of the "severity of the crime charged."

The warrant for Ellsberg was issued late Friday night in Los Angeles where a grand jury investigated the leak of the documents.

Ellsberg was not charged with giving the papers to The Times, and the newspaper has not disclosed the source.

The Times, the Washington Post, the Boston Globe and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch have been barred temporarily by the courts from publishing any further articles based on the Pentagon study.

Ellsberg's lawyers said Saturday they asked the FBI to "refrain from their efforts to apprehend him" in light of his decision to surrender today, but the FBI refused.

His lawyers offered to have Ellsberg surrender immediately if the government would release him on personal recognizance, but the government refused.

. . . MEANWHILE, COURT DELAYS PAPERS RULING

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court did not rule on the Pentagon Vietnam papers case today but extended its term in order to decide it.

The court was to have adjourned today until the fall term. But Chief Justice Warren Burger announced from the bench that it would continue sitting to hand down further orders.

In a highly-unusual Saturday session, the court heard arguments on U.S. government suits seeking to stop the New York Times and the Washington Post from publishing parts of the secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war.

The fact that the case was heard Saturday was seen as an indication that the court considers the case of urgent importance. However, Burger made no comment whatsoever about the case today.

Until the court reaches a decision the newspapers will continue to be banned from printing material in the history which the government says is too sensitive.

Chicken-Egg War 'Illegal'

OTTAWA (CP) — Manitoba cannot set up an egg-marketing board as it proposed to do because it would restrict or limit the free flow of trade between provinces, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled today.

The Manitoba plan was almost a carbon copy of an egg-marketing board already established in Quebec. The high court's ruling therefore casts doubt on the validity of the Quebec board.

All nine Supreme Court judges agree that proposed legislation drafted by Manitoba as a thinly-disguised test of the Quebec plan was beyond the powers of the province.

Justice Minister John Turner told the Commons shortly after the decision was announced that he will study the ruling and decide what action should be taken.

Manitoba brought its proposed legislation to the Supreme Court in hopes it would end the so-called chicken and egg war which has broken out among the provinces.

STARTED BY QUEBEC

The war started when Quebec set up its egg-marketing board to give more of the market to Quebec producers. The limit on the number of eggs entering the province from out-of-province was severely restricted and is said to have cost Manitoba producers millions of dollars.

Other provinces retaliated by closing their markets to other agricultural products, bringing a demand from Manitoba that the question be referred to the Supreme Court.

When the federal government refused to do so, Manitoba drafted its legislation for an egg board and asked its own court of appeal to say whether it was constitutional.

Bill Will Allow Courts To Approve Wire-Tapping

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill banning wiretapping and other electronic eavesdropping by all but the police was introduced in the Commons today by Justice Minister John Turner.

The bill—an amendment to the Criminal Code entitled Invasion of Privacy—would make illegal wiretapping or eavesdropping on any private conversation without the consent of at least one of the parties to the conversation.

The exceptions would be government investigations of espionage, sabotage or other subversive activity, or when a superior court judge grants authorization to police for a criminal investigation.

Before granting authorization, the judge would have to be satisfied that:

—Other investigation methods have been tried and failed;

—Other methods are unlikely to succeed, or;

—Urgency makes other methods impractical.

The bill received first reading in the Commons.

The judge's authorization could only be granted for indictable offences, and would only last for 30 days. It could be renewed.

BANS BUGGING DEVICES

The bill also outlaws the selling of devices used for eavesdropping or wiretapping, and the disclosure of information gained from illegal methods.

A conversation unlawfully intercepted by the police would be inadmissible as evidence in court, but information gained as a direct or indirect result of the interception could be used.

That means, for example, that an overheard admission of a crime could not be used. But if the suspect says where stolen goods are hidden, the police can make use of that information.

Before an intercepted conversation could be used in court, the accused person must be told of police plans to use the evidence, and get a police copy of the transcript.

The federal solicitor-general and provincial attorneys-general would be required to publish a report each year on authorizations for wiretapping and eavesdropping.

By an amendment to the Crown Liability Act, the bill would provide punitive

SPECK ESCAPES DEATH SENTENCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court reversed today the death sentences of 35 persons, including the electric-chair sentence of Richard F. Speck, who was convicted of murdering eight nurses in Chicago in 1966.

In the plea to save Speck, 27, from the electric chair, his lawyers raised several claims, among them that the exclusion of 50 prospective jurors because they opposed capital punishment denied Speck a fair trial.

The court said then that no death sentence could stand if it was handed down by a jury automatically cleared of persons expressing general conscientious scruples against the death penalty.

CIA 'Sending Spies Into China'

By The Canadian Press

Two newspapers report that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is sending Laotian hill tribesmen on spying missions from Laos into Communist China to obtain information on troop movements and political developments.

The Philadelphia Bulletin and the Seattle Times publish the report of the alleged CIA activities in a copyrighted story from Vientiane by Arnold Abrams.

The dispatch, as published in The Bulletin, says qualified sources reported that U.S. officials in Laos discounted any potential threat the operations pose to slowly-improving relations between Washington and Peking.

"They believe this threat is small, according to reliable sources, because the operations are not commando raids or sabotage efforts and Americans do not participate in them," The Bulletin says.

Native hill tribesmen are of the same ethnic stock found in southern China. "They have been recruited, equipped and trained by the CIA to infiltrate Chinese territory and obtain information on troop movements, political developments and other data," The Bulletin says.

The newspaper says its sources claim such intelligence missions have long been known to Chinese authorities and that several teams have been captured in recent years.

"Consequently," The Bulletin concludes, "American officials reason that Peking will continue to tolerate these territorial incursions as long as they are conducted solely to gather intelligence."

Power Blackouts Nearer—Union

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers warned today that the striking union cannot forever maintain electrical power.

Doug Cronk of Vancouver, business agent for the IBEW's Local 258, was commenting in an interview on the planned escalation of the strike which began on a full scale one week ago.

Only a handful of the 2,000 electrical workers at B.C. Hydro have remained at work, without pay, to man the generating stations.

Pickets were at B.C. Hydro construction sites throughout the province today, except Mica and Peace Dams, but not at regional offices or the Victoria and Vancouver transit systems.

Cronk said there is a policy of escalation, of adding new sites for picketing as each day passes, eventually leading to the entire utility being picketed.

In the meantime, there was a policy of de-escalation if B.C. Hydro agrees to submitting the contract dispute to a third party outside the B.C. Mediation Commission.

'NOT FAIR'

Asked if the escalation includes the generating stations, Cronk said: "Yes, everything. All of B.C. Hydro."

Asked if this means no more power, he said it means no more union men in the power stations.

"Our people are maintaining power for the public. We are not being paid. We are in a unique position — of striking and applying pressure and maintaining the employer's product. That's the responsible position but we can't do it forever nor will we do it forever.

"This gives time for people to see our request for a third party is reasonable. But we will not continue to man these places forever for nothing," he said.

Student Leader Shot in Saigon

SAIGON (Reuter) — The moderate student chairman of the Saigon University's law school was shot and killed at the crowded faculty building today in an apparent political assassination.

Eyewitnesses said a young man shot Dam Le Khac Sinh Nhut, and escaped on a waiting motorcycle amid a hail of fire from plainclothes policemen on duty outside.

Three other students, all apparently bystanders, were wounded by shots from the killer's pistol.

Muhammad Ali a Free Man

Times News Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Supreme Court reversed today the conviction of former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, who was sentenced to five years imprisonment for evading the United States military draft.

In an 8-to-1 decision, the court said the record shows that Ali's "beliefs are founded on tenets of the Muslim religion as he understands them."

The 29-year-old black boxer, also known as Cassius Clay, was reigning heavyweight champion when he refused to take the traditional step toward at draft induction ceremonies April 28, 1967, in Houston.

The following month he was convicted by an all-white jury of six men and six women.

Ali had contended throughout his long legal battle that he should be draft-exempt on grounds that he is a Black Muslim minister.

ALI

In Chicago, just after the decision, Ali told reporters: "I've done my celebrating already. I said a prayer to Allah."

The supreme court cited the government's own concession that "there is no dispute that petitioner's professed beliefs were founded on basic tenets of the Muslim religion, as he understood them, and derived in substantial part from his devotion to Allah as the supreme being."

"This concession is clearly correct," the supreme court said.

Ali said: "I thank the Supreme Court for recognizing the sincerity of my belief in myself and my convictions."

NIXON PLANS LONG VIET WAR—BAYH

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "real reason" President Nixon refuses to set a date for ending the Vietnam war is not to secure release of U.S. war prisoners but to keep the present Saigon regime in power, Sen. Birch Bayh (D—Ind.), charged today.

Furthermore, Nixon's "Vietnamization" approach to American disengagement from Indochina may have as its underlying intention "the indefinite continuation of the war," said Bayh, a potential presidential candidate.

Q. AND A.

What? No Laundry In a Wilderness?

Being another session of Questions and Answers:

Question: "On the weekend my family and I went to Sproat Lake to camp. As we were not familiar with the area we inquired at random about camping facilities. We were, to say the least, most surprised to find out that the private campsites offered so much more convenient facilities to families than the provincial ones.

"For instance, at the private ones there were proper bathroom facilities, hot and cold water, laundry facilities, electric outlets for those needing them, lake frontage with swimming and boat docking facilities. The provincial campsite offered cold-water taps, firewood, a privy in the bush and a possible attack from local vandals and troublemakers.

"The difference in rates was also a surprising discovery. The provincial government has upped the rate from three nights free of charge and after that a dollar a night to a flat two dollars a night per car or tent. The rate was the same at the privately-owned sites.

"As we cannot believe that the private owners are willing to work with a loss we have to believe that the provincial campsites are tourist traps where one really pays through the nose."

Answer: The parks people have very little sympathy for the likes of you, dear sir, and I can't say I blame them.

They're interested primarily in the camper who seeks natural, primitive, wilderness surroundings, a total change of environment far from the creature comforts of home. They've no plans and probably never will have for laundry facilities, electricity or the rest. The campsites, themselves, are seldom if ever placed directly on waterfrontage in order to keep the shore in its natural state.

Officials in the provincial department admit that they're concerned about the incidence of vandalism and rowdies, but that's a police problem and a difficult one. Unlike the privately-owned camp site, the public park is open to all and no one can be excluded merely on suspicion of being a troublemaker.

Ideally, there should be no charge for camping and certainly the two-dollars-per night fee is too high, considering the comparative charge of private campgrounds, but the government can argue that the user should be contributing to the maintenance of the parks. Last year, for example, the camping fees amounted to $210,000, but the tab for upkeep was nearly a million-and-a-quarter.

Question: "Why should we in this city have to put up with our neighbors' cackling hens and bantams? We live in Fairfield where there are lots of lovely singing birds around, but sitting out in our garden every sound is drowned by this incessant cackling. I telephoned City Hall and was told by a man that he loved the sound of hens so he was no help. Surely we should have a bylaw controlling this nuisance."

Answer: There is a bylaw, unchanged since 1939, that allows a Victoria citizen to keep chickens, pigeons, hares and rabbits on his premises as long as space requirements are met. If your neighbor is failing in that your complaint will be acted upon. The bylaw specifies that fowl must be penned or housed and may not run at large.

Out Metchosin way almost everybody keeps chickens and we awake each dawn to the sound of cocks crowing. You'd swear you were in Mexico. I've enjoyed it so much, in fact, that I've invested in a half dozen layers myself. That probably is the best form of self-defence for someone like yourself. Chickens make beautiful music when you know that every cackle is bringing you closer to the magic egg.

Question: "Some weeks ago you wrote about filing a complaint with the Canadian Radio-Television Commission concerning a half-hour commercial on a Vancouver television station and said that you would report on what action was taken. There has been nothing from you since. Since then I have complained on a related matter to the CRTC without any response from them. Are we to assume that the commission just doesn't give a damn about public opinion?"

Answer: I'm beginning to think so. The last I heard from the CRTC was in March when they wrote to say that they had a videotape of the program to which I objected and that the matter had been referred for an opinion to the Department of National Health and Welfare under the Food and Drugs Act. "Our concern upon receiving a complaint is to move as quickly as possible to investigate it," the letter noted. Since then: total silence. Which hardly fortifies my faith in the CRTC as the watchdog of the airwaves.

Question: "As one who came to make his home in this blessed town at about the same time as your own arrival I have been interested in your continuing impressions on the way of life here. It surprises me, however, that you've had no comment on the hazards of driving hereabouts due, I expect, to the large numbers of elderly motorists. Would you agree that no other Canadian city demands such dedication to the technique of defensive driving?"

Answer: The point was made here some months ago in interviews with several drivers who race at the Western Speedway. To a man, they agreed that they'd rather risk their necks on that dirt track than on any Victoria street.

My first reaction to the elderly drivers was irritation and an alert wariness at the sight of any flowered bonnet peeping over the steering wheel of an Austin Cambridge.

There are no specific statistics, but traffic police tell me that the Ancient Mariners of the roads undoubtedly account for the fact that we've a higher-than-average number of minor accidents of the crunched fender category, caused by excessively slow or vague driving. But there's no evidence whatever that they contribute significantly to more serious accidents involving injury or death.

I've come to look at it, in fact, as yet another of the enduring charms of the city and its unique breed to retired people who refuse to fade into the woodwork. In no other city in which I've lived have I seen so many blithe spirits of advanced years who fearlessly venture forth in their horseless carriages. They deserve every courtesy, if only in the interests of self-preservation.

Question: "Like most Victorians, I suppose, I have never visited a single one of our tourist attractions. This summer we're expecting no less than three visiting families from the prairies and the east. What would be your own choice of sights for them to see?"

Answer: It would make a pleasant, crowded day to visit Chimo, the white killer whale at Sealand which continues to fascinate me after many, many visits; the Butchart Gardens, always a delight the cruise of the harbor and the Gorge that leaves from the Inner Harbor in front of the Empress; and just for tradition's sake, tea and crumpets in the Empress Lounge to look at the comical visiting Americans.

FEATHERS AND FIFES are blended by Mark Edwards, 10, and Ruby Charles, 13, of Kuper Island Fife Band, one of nine Indian groups taking part in the Native Children's Centennial '71 Tattoo touring B.C. The 322 youngsters who drew large crowd at Legislative Buildings Sunday night, will perform at 8 tonight in Memorial Arena with program including marches, musical drills and ancient tribal dances. The provincial tour is financed by the First Citizens Fund and locally is co-sponsored by the British Columbia and Greater Victoria Centennial '71 Committees. Some tattoo members were scheduled to perform on steps of the legislature this afternoon while others entertained elderly in a rest home.

'UPPER TROUGH' STAYED PUT

About That Sunshine . . .

The weatherman predicted sunny skies for Greater Victoria over the weekend — and for a few moments Sunday evening he was right.

How come such a goof-up?

Very simple, said senior weather technician Mike Dolan with a chuckle this morning.

"We were expecting the upper trough to move out but it stayed stationary."

How can you argue with that?

And if you found the weekend weather hard to believe, would you believe rainfall this month has been below average?

So far there has been .80 inches of what the weather office primly calls precipitation this month. In Junes past the average at this point is 1.01 inches.

And if that doesn't seem real, this won't help. There have been 11 days of measurable precipitation this month in contrast to the average of seven.

With the month almost gone, Greater Victoria has gleaned only 158.8 hours of sunshine when the average of Junes past is 246.2.

Dolan's explanation of why the month has been so miserable is somewhat less technical.

He suspects "it's just the law of averages catching up with us." No one remembers all those glorious Junes of yesteryear which have to be paid for.

Meanwhile, the forecast for Tuesday — cloudy in the morning, some sunny periods in the afternoon.

City Loses Out In Uvic Tax Bid

Victoria City Hall officials had mixed reaction today after learning the Supreme Court of Canada has turned down an attempt by the city to include a downtown university-owned building on its tax rolls.

The $21,849 in tax "arrears" on the Central Building on View Street, owned by the University of Victoria, will be written off. The money was owing in part since 1958 when the building was willed to Uvic in the T. S. McPherson estate.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady had taken the case through B.C. courts all the way to the Supreme Court, basing his case partly on decisions in favor of other municipalities in other provinces which had won decisions.

CLEAR IN INTENT

On the principle that a university-owned building must be used for educational purposes to avoid taxes, other court decisions have gone as far as to rule that even a university president's house and land, though owned by the university corporation, should be taxable like any other building.

Current taxes on the Central Building are $5,547 for 1971.

City manager Bill Hooson said the decision shows that the wording of the B.C. law is clear in its intent, but he questioned whether the intent was a conscious act by the B.C. government.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND

"It doesn't come as any great surprise — although from the city's point of view it certainly seems to be inequitable," Hooson said.

He pointed out that any change to the law in future would indicate how the provincial government views the matter.

Told of the decision today, land commissioner Alf Joyce said glumly: "We'll just have to write it off." He said he could not understand how the building could go tax free when it is "rented out in competition with other buildings."

Another official pointed out that the decision could mean any private citizen or corporation can now avoid paying real property taxes by turning over ownership of land by special arrangement to a B.C. university.

DISTINCTION LACKING

The B.C. law in question does not make the distinction enforced in other provinces between a university-owned building used as part of the learning institution and one serving an exclusive purpose. The law merely states that a property vested in the university shall not be taxed as real property.

The unanimous five-judge decision upheld similar judgments in the B.C. courts.

The downtown land is under lease to commercial tenants and is not used for university purposes.

Both a trial court and the British Columbia Court of Appeal agreed that the provincial Universities Act allowed the university exemption from city taxes.

NO PROVISION

Mr. Justice Bora Laskin, writing the unanimous judgment of the Supreme Court, said "it may be anomalous to permit a university to reap revenue from commercial leases of land . . . without being obliged to pay taxes, especially when, as was indicated to us, there also appears to be no provision for taxing the commercial tenants."

He noted that legislation in other provinces provided tax exemption to universities only when the land in question was actually used and occupied for university purposes.

If a remedy was believed required to bring B.C. universities into line with those of other provinces, it must come from the B.C. legislature, said Mr. Justice Laskin.

Strike Queries Dodged By Hospital Operator

The president of National Nursing Homes Ltd., Neil Cook of Vancouver, said today he has no comment on mass picketing of Sandringham Private Hospital Saturday.

He also declined to answer almost every question asked of him this morning about the 24-week strike of 28 employees at Sandringham, which is owned by two Vancouver businessmen and managed by Cook's company.

Asked if National Nursing Homes is prepared to resume negotiations with the striking Local 1311 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, Cook said "we've already done the negotiating."

Asked if he thought there would be any new negotiations, he said "no I don't."

When pressed further on this point, and to comment on union actions, he said: "I am not going to debate this in the press."

He said he has no comment on last week's brief picketing of National Nursing Home's retirement centre, under construction at Cadboro Bay Road and Bowker Avenue in Oak Bay.

Asked if an injunction might be sought to prevent picketing, he said "I don't know."

Asked if he thought there would be any conclusion to the Sandringham strike, he said he doesn't know.

Finally, he said he didn't know why a reporter was asking him questions, after the reporter had told him he was trying to get management's side of the dispute.

"We have stated our position to the union," he said, but would not say what that position is.

CLAIMED LOSSES

Earlier this year, National Nursing Homes, in newspaper advertisements, said Sandringham's revenues have never covered its cost of operation. The company said Sandringham is "an uneconomic operation . . . heavily indebted and its owners have never received any return on their investment."

As a result of the financial situation at Sandringham, it was said, it is impossible to pay some employees more than the provincial minimum wage.

The union went on strike Sept. 30 seeking a first contract with wages between the minimum of $1.50 an hour and $2 an hour plus job security, similar to contracts in effect at Glenwarren, Glengarry and Richmond Heights private hospitals in Victoria.

No Trouble in Sight This Summer—RCMP

RCMP said today they are not anticipating serious civil disturbances involving youth and police during the summer despite a letter from the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association offering help in such cases.

Superintendent James Nelson of the Vancouver Island detachment was commenting on a letter from the association offering "impartial observers or mediators to attend the scene of any threatened or actual civil disturbance."

Nelson said the RCMP has been assisting travelling youth for years adequately and added that he could see no reason for special arrangements this year.

He said if such a disturbance occurs the bystander testifying before the court helps make the final analysis.

"We're playing it by ear day by day," he said of the expected influx of travelling youth this summer.

"It is hoped that such a procedure would serve to cool tempers and prevent escalation of confrontations," said the association's letter. It also asks police officials if there are any other ways in which the association can help preserve the peace during the anticipated influx of travelling youth to metropolitan areas of B.C.

It said that its concern is that inflammatory words or actions on the part either of authorities or of young people may result in serious civil disturbances, "which in turn, might imperil the liberty and safety of citizens generally as well as those directly involved in any confrontation."

CAUT Says Two Panelists Not Qualified to Judge

Because two of the three men investigating the University of Victoria tenure dispute "lack academic experience" they aren't qualified to pass judgment on the affair, the Canadian Association of University Teachers said today.

The CAUT statement was presented as the second day of hearings opened after a two-week delay.

The statement gave the CAUT's reasons for not participating at the hearings. It said it is doubtful whether the inquiry would result in settlement of the cases of Drs. William Goede and Tikam Jain and lecturer J. P. Graff.

'NATURAL JUSTICE'

"Although the panel has indicated that it gives a wide meaning to the words 'natural justice' in its terms of reference," the statement said, "it is doubtful whether those terms, even when this widely interpreted, will permit settlement of what we regard as the substantial issues in the three cases, namely whether or not professors Goede and Jain should be granted tenure and whether or not Mr. Graff should be promoted and hence retained as a member of faculty."

"If the inquiry is inconclusive it can only further delay settlement of these cases which have been in dispute for nearly a year.

"Moreover, we do not think that the advisory panel is properly constituted. It was established unilaterally by the University of Victoria and it is so composed that a majority of its members lack academic experience. We believe that issue of promotion and tenure, involving judgments about the quality of scholarship and teaching, should be decided primarily by academics."

CHEMISTRY CONTROVERSY

During the morning session of the hearing assistant dean of arts and science Dr. William Gordon answered questions from board solicitor David Williams about his knowledge of the Jain case.

He told how a controversy had developed in the chemistry department in 1970 over a claim by Jain that he had discovered a new compound in his area, natural products chemistry.

Gordon took documentation of the work to a "distinguished chemist" at another university, and that scientist's evaluation was that Jain had not isolated a new compound.

The outside opinion, as reported in a memorandum by Gordon, played a part in the decision not to recommend Jain for tenure.

Canoeist Presumed Drowned

A 31-year-old North Saanich man is missing and presumed drowned by Tofino RCMP after a canoeing mishap Thursday night on the Kennedy River, RCMP said today.

The RCMP said they have called off the search for Frederick Angus Gunn, 271 Coal Point Lane, after failing to find him or the canoe.

Two other men, Tom Johnstone, 4870 Spring, and Peter Rassenti, Prospect Lake Road, were shaken up but otherwise unhurt, RCMP said.

Police said the three men were canoeing down Kennedy River which flows from Kennedy Lake to Tofino Inlet. About two miles before the river's mouth are rapids.

"They tried going through the rough water and the canoe overturned. I don't know why they were trying it but they did anyway. The canoe just tipped over," RCMP said.

He has been employed with the centre for about three years. Sevenoaks is part of the Family and Children's Service.

Gunn is married with one child.

Smell Will 'Add to Interest'

A smouldering cigarette is believed to have started a fire in the B.C. Maritime Museum early Sunday morning that triggered the fire alarm system at 11:45 p.m. and caused $1,500 damage.

The fire started in the lecture room, behind the judge's dais in the old Law Chambers, used by members of the Bastion Theatre Sunday afternoon.

Deputy fire chief Carl Coates said the heat built up in the room, triggering the direct line to the fire hall. Firemen fought the fire for three hours.

The fire burned through the floor of the third-storey room and crept up the wall to the ceiling.

None of the exhibits in the Royal Canadian Navy room below was damaged.

Curator Bill Symons praised the Victoria firemen, "Thank heaven we have a fire alarm system that works and a highly skilled fire department.

"By the time we arrived the firemen had covered all the exhibits with tarpaulins."

Symons said the fire would not force closure of the museum. "We're not out of business. There will be a slight smell of smoke and burned wood—but that will only add to the interest."

He added that if the alarm had not acted when it did the fire would have reached the roof and the damage would have been extensive.

Symons estimated the damage to be "between $2,000 and $3,000" but Coates felt that $1,500 was a more realistic figure.

Coates said the last person is believed to have left the museum at 4 p.m. after the meeting.

COQUITLAM — Club captain Bill Bradley pressed the power button Saturday night and Coquitlam Adanacs snapped a second-place deadlock with Victoria Shamrocks in the Western Lacrosse Association by defeating the Irish 20-14 before 1,050 fans.

Bradley, who had scored only eight goals in the past 15 games for Coquitlam, finally got untracked and led the Adanac attack with four goals and two assists.

Adanacs took a 4-3 lead in the first period and then jumped away to a 12-7 advantage by the end of the second frame.

Any chance for a third-period rally went up in smoke when Victoria goalkeeper Doug Thompson, who made 37 stops overall to 34 for counterpart Merv Schweitzer, was beaten three times within 21 seconds.

Ed Kowalyk had his finest night since rejoining the Irish with a squad leading total of three goals and two assists as well as a strong defensive game.

Ken Alexander and Dennis Sommer each scored twice for Shamrocks, who were without the sevices of Muzz Bryant, Tom Somner and Frank Alexander because of injuries. Juniors replacements Mike Walsh and Norm Baker Jr. each scored a goal.

Mike Beaulac, who also scored, ran into another injury problem. Playing with a face mask to protect a broken nose, Beaulac had to leave the game in the second period because of a sore leg.

Shamrock co-coach Bert Bertoia summed up the loss later as 'Mental, mental, mental! We've tried to get them to hustle back down floor, but they don't turn around fast enough to pick up their checks—and it's in again.'

Favorites Advance In Junior Tourney

Play went largely according to form Sunday in opening matches of the Pacific Regional junior tennis championships on courts throughout the Greater Victoria area.

Blake Dunlop of Vancouver, first seed in the tourney and seventh-ranked in Canada, disposed of Craig Thomas, 8-0. In other boys' under-18 struggled, second-seeded Peter Vick downed Gerry Macken 8-2, third-ranked Frank Scott defeated Chris Ferrie 8-3 and Victoria's Ted Davies, the forth-seed, ousted Mark Ralston, 8-1.

BRENDA WINS, LOSES

Taffy Savard, who was invited to the junior Wimbledon meet last year and is seeded first for this tourney, downed Barb Smith 8-0 in the girls' under-18 competition.

In other matches, second-seed Janet Hall defeated Carla Rawlston 8-0, third-ranked Pat Gildersleeve eliminated Pat Thain 8-2 and fourth-seeded Kim Tindle downed Agnes Szilos, 8-2.

Brenda Cameron of Victoria defeated Nicki Jaffary 8-1 in the under-14 girls' singles but lost out to Pat Moran in the under-16 bracket.

Bates One Up On Ball Rivals

The relationship between Campbell River Tyees and Bate's Construction of Victoria at senior men's softball tournaments parallels that of the Hatfields and the McCoys.

Their feud has spiced three tournaments this season. Nothing was settled in the first at Campbell River when rain prevented a decision. Upstarts got in the way to stop them short of the final at Central Park two weeks ago.

But round No. 3 went to Bates when the Victoria team shaded the Tyees 2-0 Sunday in the sudden-death playoff for Strathcona Invitational tournament honors.

Campbell River forced the playoff earlier Sunday by defeating Bates 8-4. The Victoria team had dropped Tyees into the losers' section of the double-knockout tournament Satuday, 7-0, behind the shutout pitching of Barry Jackson.

LARSON STRONG

While Bates claimed the championship trophy, Campbell River also got into the silver-ware-collecting act by taking a pair of individual honors. Tyee shortstop Wayne Kennedy, who batted .471 and sparkled afield, was selected the most valuable performer and Dave Ruthowski, winner of three decisions which included a five-inning no-hitter, was named the top pitcher.

Outfielder Gary McGinnis of Seaboards was voted the most gentlemanly player and Strathcona's Vern Benn won the batting trophy with a .500 average.

Islanders Third In Hockey Meet

Goaltender Tom McEvay was the outstanding performer for the Vancouver Island Selects at Vancouver Sunday as the Islanders finished third in the six-team Delta junior (under-16) field hockey tournament.

Langford Power Topples Gilmour

Power at the plate proved the difference Sunday as Langford Drywall vaulted into a four-point lead in the Stuffy McGinnis Major Men's Softball League.

Langford swept a double-header against cellar-dwelling Gilmour Construction 10-8 and 3-2 at Heywood Avenue Park.

Ken Hardy and Barry Moen supplied much of the impetus for the first victory. Hardy had three hits on four trips to the plate, batted in two runs and scored twice as Langford began to erase a 6-0 deficit at the top of the fourth inning.

Gilmour batters also had some fun in the first game, producing a three-run homer by Bob Walton and a solo homer by John Hughes in the first inning.

In the second contest, Wade Burns led the Drywall assault with a three-for-three performance, including a solo homer in the fourth inning. Burns scored Langford's second run in the sixth inning on a single by Rocky Tylor. Ken Hardy, who reached base on a walk, scored the winning run on a single by Terry Hamilton.

Thousands of Jobs Vanishing As U.S. Goes Global

In an endless struggle to compete on equal terms with cheaper goods, United States business is setting up shop abroad in steadily growing numbers. This article examines the trend and the monumental problems it poses.

By STERLING GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States business is going multinational with a rush.

As the corporations go global, they carry U.S. capital, technology and managerial skill to the earth's four corners and leave alarm bells ringing back home.

Complaints are piling up that U.S. jobs and possibly some vital portions of the U.S. industrial base for defence and economic stability are going overseas.

Organized labor, which formerly carried the banner of free trade, has taken alarm at vanishing jobs and shrinking memberships and has joined some major industries in the drive on Congress for import quotas.

The unions, led by the AFL-CIO, also are criticizing the multinationals as "runaway employers" who move plants to Europe, the Orient, or the Caribbean where labor is cheaper.

Ironically, competition from imported goods is the main reason many corporations have gone global. They are trying to stay competitive with foreign products by becoming importers of components, semi-finished goods, or entire products which come back to the customer with only one U.S. part, the brand name.

SEEK NEW CUSTOMERS

There are, however, may other reasons why U.S. industry is deploying subsidiaries overseas — to gain growth by reaching new customers, to get behind trade barriers that U.S. exports cannot pierce, to cut costs and improve profits, to compete on even terms with foreign firms in world markets.

For the U.S. consumer these are among the signs of the changing times:

● The Dodge Colt, one of the new U.S. "answers" to the small-car imports, is 100-per-cent made in Japan by Mitsubishi.

● If you buy Ford's Pinto, another of the U.S. industry's answers, you may get a car with an English-made engine and German-made tranamission, assembled either in Canada or the United States.

● Ninety per cent of all radio sets, tape recorders and cassettes sold in the U.S. are made elsewhere. So are more than half the black-and-white television sets, nearly one-fourth of all color TV sets, two-thirds of the sewing machines and most of the typewriters.

A major industrialist, board chairman Fred Borch of General Electric, told The Associated Press:

"I don't know any American manufacturer who would not prefer to make his product in this country for this market."

SAVES PRODUCT LINE

But in cases where the choice became either abaning a product line or "moving offshore," GE and others have gone offshore. That way, Borch estimates, at least half the U.S. employees are kept on the job — designers, engineers, sales force, research and development people and others.

The AFL-CIO industrial unions which once took pride in their liberal free-trade stance — along with the U.S. steel industry, now being jostled for world leadership by Japan — have almost apologetically lined up with such long-time protectionists as the textile and shoe industries.

LOWER LABOR COSTS are attracting U.S. businessmen to Formosa, among other places around the world, where American firms are setting up shop to compete on equal terms with cheaper foreign goods. (AP Wirephoto)

Their combined push for import quotas in the 91st Congress blocked President Nixon's trade-expansion bill by plastering it with import-quota amendments and came within inches of reversing a 35-year policy of liberalizing U.S. tariff and trade. Only a major defensive stand organized by the foreign trade community, including the heads of many multinational corporations, stopped them.

There will be no trade legislation at all this year. Nixon's supporters dare not push his bill to a vote, they now admit privately, because Congress would turn it into a restrictionist bill curbing imports.

MUST FACE ISSUE

Some day the issue must be faced. In the meantime, the Nixon administration is moving in three areas to blunt the quota drive:

● It is pressing for negotiated restrictions by Japan and other countries — voluntary quotas which doctrinaire free trades abhor just as much as they deplore quotas imposed by law.

● It has launched a verbal offensive calling on Europe and Japan to drop their protectionist laws and pick up a fair share of defence costs. As U.S. Treasury Secretary John Connally told the International Banking Conference last month, Europe's easy assumption that the U.S. will be willing indefinitely "to bear disproportionate economic costs does not fit the facts of today."

● It is enforcing, promptly and vigorously, for the first time ever as a deliberate policy, long-standing curbs on unfair trade. Such crackdowns as a March 10 ruling against Japanese TV sets, sold in the U.S. at far less than the Japanese home price, are considered certain to discourage cut-rate foreign competition at relatively small risk of retaliatory action against U.S. products.

There will be less head for quotas next year if, as the administration confidently predicts, the economy has picked up steam and unemployment has declined below six per cent.

JOBS ARE LOST

But labor is impatient. The three major unions in the consumer electronic and electical goods industries have told Congress that more than 50,000 of their members' jobs have disappeared in three years.

"The types of jobs exported are precisely the unskilled an semi-skilled jobs needed here if we are to win the war against poverty and provide dignified and gainful employment for our disadvantaged poor," said the unions' joint statement.

To deal with this and other problems, Nixon in January created a cabinet-level Council on International Economic Policy. A year ago he named a 27-member presidential commission on international trade and investment policy.

At least seven in-depth studies also have been started by various government groups.

No Special Meeting To Discuss Malta

BRUSSELS (Reuter) — NATO representatives are unlikely to meet to discuss the alliance's strained relations with Malta before the regular NATO council session Wednesday, a NATO spokesman said here today.

A spokesman said no meeting was taking place today at the alliance headquarters here and so far none has been scheduled for Tuesday.

NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio called in the representatives last week for talks on relations with Malta following the reported expulsion from the island of the alliance's naval commander in the Mediterranean, Italian Admiral Gino Birindelli, 61.

Asked about Malta's request to the United States to cancel for the time being visits to the island by U.S. naval vessels, the spokesman said this was a bilateral question at the moment between the U.S. and the new Maltese government of Prime Minister Dom Mintoff.

NATO sources here said there is still considerable uncertainty as to Mintoff's intentions. It is not clear whether his reported expulsion of Birindelli is aimed at the admiral personally or at NATO as a whole.

In the same way, it was too early to gauge Mintoff's intentions in seeking to renegotiate Malta's defence accords with Britain, they said.

These could be aimed at obtaining better terms for Malta under a new agreement with Britain, or he could be using the renegotiation call to get at the NATO presence on the island, the sources said.

Reputed Underworld Boss Shot at Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Reputed underworld boss Joseph Colombo Sr. was shot in the head and critically wounded today before a crowd of thousands at an outdoor Italian-American Unity Day rally. Another man near Colombo was killed.

The shots rang out as thousands of persons were converging into Columbus Circle, an open area at the southwest corner of Central Park in busy mid-Manhattan.

A police official said he struggled with a gunman as the shots were fired. The assailant escaped.

"They got Joe, they got Joe," people in the crowd shouted as Colombo went down.

An hour later, The Associated Press received a telephone call from a man who claimed the "Black Revolutionary Attack Team" had shot Colombo.

"We just assassinated Joe Colombo," the caller said. "This is only the beginning. One of our brothers was killed today. The racist society will pay for what they are doing to our black brothers."

Then the man hung up without further explanation.

The man who was killed was believed to have been black, but polise did not immediately identify him.

A spokesman at Roosevelt Hospital said Colombo, 48, was in critical condition.

A doctor at the hospital said Colombo had one wound in the brain and two other superficial head wounds.

The gunfire erupted after about 8,000 people had assembled in Columbus Circle for the rally, which Colombo had helped organize as a leader of the Italian-American Civil Rights League.

A police official told reporters he saw a hand holding a gun sticking up in the crowd near the speaker's stand.

"I tried to grab the wrist," he said. "Then a shot went off while I was holding onto the hand."

The police official was one of more than 1,000 policemen on hand for the rally, which organizers said had been expected to draw a crowd of 500,000. He said he did not see Colombo and was not sure how the other man was shot.

Colombo's family was standing near the speaker's stand and broke into tears when he was shot.

The demonstration continued after the shooting, with pleas for unity and shouts of "One! One!"—for unity—from the crowd, singing of the United States National Anthem and the Italian national anthem followed.

Appeal Allowed

OTTAWA (CP) — Ronald Emkeit of Calgary will be allowed to appeal his conviction of non-capital murder to the Supreme Court of Canada.

In a 2-to-1 decision, the Supreme Court granted Emkeit's motion to appeal his conviction arising from the death of Ronald George Hartley during a fracas between two motorcycle gangs.

At the same time the high court rejected a Crown motion to appeal lower court decisions granting new trials for 11 other members of Emkeit's group.

They also had been found guilty in Hartley's death of non-capital murder but the Alberta Court of Appeal ordered a new trial for them on grounds that the trial judge failed to instruct the jury properly.

'I Prefer to Die'

LONDON (UPI) — Deputy coroner John Motton told an inquest that after Robert Murton, 33, leaped 300 feet to his death from a building in downtown London, a suicide note was found in his pocket. It said: "I perfer to die, rather than work for a wage which the government takes more than half of in taxes, welfare rates and inflation."

'Jobless Stay Away' —Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia warned young people Sunday not to come to the west coast this summer unless they have jobs or money in their pockets.

"I believe in free movement of Canadians," Mr. Bennett told a caller on the CBC open-line program Cross-Canada Checkup, but he said B.C.'s first obligation is to provide jobs for its own students and unemployed.

"Everybody is welcome, but don't come at this time unless you have a job or have some money in your pocket," he said.

The premier said unemployment is high in B.C. because people are "flocking in" from other provinces. He said B.C.'s population rose 3.5 per cent last year, "double the national average," and said Quebec's population increase in 1970 was only .3 per cent.

ELLSBERG SURRENDERS

'I Revealed Secrets'

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Daniel Ellsberg surrendered to federal authorities today and told about 150 persons that he provided the New York Times with secret Pentagon papers on the Vietnam war and said "I am prepared for all consequences."

Ellsberg is charged in federal warrants with unauthorized possession of top-secret United States government documents and failure to return them.

Ellsberg told a group of cheering well wishers outside federal court building here that in the fall of 1969 he presented the Senate foreign relations committee "information contained in the so-called Pentagon papers."

Arm-in-arm with his attractive wife and carrying a briefcase, Ellsberg said:

"After 9,000 more Americans had died, I could only regret that I had not at that same time released that information to the American public.

"I have done so now.

"I took the action on my own initiative. I felt as an American citizen—as a responsible citizen—I could no longer co-operate with concealing this information from the American people. I am prepared for all consequences."

Ellsberg, 40, a former Pentagon researcher and currently a research associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, had been sought unsuccessfully by the FBI during the weekend.

At an hour-long hearing before U.S. Magistrate Peter Princi, Ellsberg was ordered released on $50,000 non-surety bond.

Princi set July 15 for a probable cause hearing.

The government, represented by Assistant U.S. Attorney Lawrence P. Cohen, had asked that Ellsberg be held on $100,000 bond because of the "severity of the crime charged."

The warrant for Ellsberg was issued late Friday night in Los Angeles where a grand jury investigated the leak of the documents.

Ellsberg was not charged with giving the papers to The Times, and the newspaper has not disclosed the source.

The Times, the Washington Post, the Boston Globe and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch have been barred temporarily by the courts from publishing any further articles based on the Pentagon study.

Ellsberg's lawyers said Saturday they asked the FBI to "refrain from their efforts to apprehend him" in light of his decision to surrender today, but the FBI refused.

His lawyers offered to have Ellsberg surrender immediately if the government would release him on personal recognizance, but the government refused.

. . . MEANWHILE, COURT DELAYS PAPERS RULING

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court did not rule on the Pentagon Vietnam papers case today but extended its term in order to decide it.

The court was to have adjourned today until the fall term. But Chief Justice Warren Burger announced from the bench that it would continue sitting to hand down further orders.

In a highly-unusual Saturday session, the court heard arguments on U.S. government suits seeking to stop the New York Times and the Washington Post from publishing parts of the secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war.

The fact that the case was heard Saturday was seen as an indication that the court considers the case of urgent importance. However, Burger made no comment whatsoever about the case today.

Until the court reaches a decision the newspapers will continue to be banned from printing material in the history which the government says is too sensitive.

PUMPING POLLUTION from a creek, workmen at Windsor, Ont., prevent most of a 25,000-gallon oil spill from a Gulf Oil (Canada) Ltd. pipeline from flowing into the Detroit River. Quick action by city officials at the weekend was credited in preventing the spill from causing greater damage by spreading farther downstream. (CP Wirephoto)

Egg War Illegal Declares Court

OTTAWA (CP) — Manitoba cannot set up an egg-marketing board as it proposed to do because it would restrict or limit the free flow of trade between provinces, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled today.

The Manitoba plan was almost a carbon copy of an egg-marketing board already established in Quebec. The high court's ruling therefore casts doubt on the validity of the Quebec board.

All nine Supreme Court judges agree that proposed legislation drafted by Manitoba as a thinly-disguised test of the Quebec plan—was beyond the powers of the province.

Justice Minister John Turner told the Commons shortly after the decision was announced that he will study the ruling and decide what action should be taken.

Manitoba brought its proposed legislation to the Supreme Court in hopes it would end the so-called chicken and egg war which has broken out among the provinces.

STARTED BY QUEBEC

The war started when Quebec set up its egg-marketing board to give more of the market to Quebec producers. The limit on the number of eggs entering the province from out-of-province was severely restricted and is said to have cost Manitoba producers millions of dollars.

Other provinces retaliated by closing their markets to other agricultural products, bringing a demand from Manitoba that the question be referred to the Supreme Court.

When the federal government refused to do so, Manitoba drafted its legislation for an egg board and asked its own court of appeal to say whether it was constitutional.

Power Blackouts Nearer—Union

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers warned today that the striking union cannot forever maintain electrical power.

Doug Cronk of Vancouver, business agent for the IBEW's Local 258, was commenting in an interview on the planned escalation of the strike which began on a full scale one week ago.

Only a handful of the 2,000 electrical workers at B.C. Hydro have remained at work, without pay, to man the generating stations.

Pickets were at B.C. Hydro construction sites throughout the province today, except Mica and Peace Dams, but not at regional offices or the Victoria and Vancouver transit systems.

Cronk said there is a policy of escalation, of adding new sites for picketing as each day passes, eventually leading to the entire utility being picketed.

In the meantime, there was a policy of de-escalation if B.C. Hydro agrees to submitting the contract dispute to a third party outside the B.C. Mediation Commission.

'NOT PAID'

Asked if the escalation includes the generating stations, Cronk said: "Yes, everything. All of B.C. Hydro."

Asked if this means no more power, he said it means no more union men in the power stations.

"Our people are maintaining power for the public. We are not being paid. We are in a unique position — of striking and applying pressure and maintaining the employer's product. That's the responsible position but we can't do it forever nor will we do it forever.

"This gives time for people to see our request for a third party is reasonable. But we will not continue to man these places forever for nothing," he said.

Bill Will Allow Courts To Approve Wire-Tapping

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill banning wiretapping and other electronic eavesdropping by all but the police was introduced in the Commons today by Justice Minister John Turner.

The bill—an amendment to the Criminal Code entitled Invasion of Privacy—would make illegal wiretapping or eavesdropping on any private conversation without the consent of at least one of the parties to the conversation.

The exceptions would be government investigations of espionage, sabotage or other subversive activity, or when a superior court judge grants authorization to police for a criminal investigation.

Before granting authorization, the judge would have to be satisfied that:

—Other investigation methods have been tried and failed;

—Other methods are unlikely to succeed, or;

—Urgency makes other methods impractical.

The bill received first reading in the Commons.

The judge's authorization could only be granted for indictable offences, and would only last for 30 days. It could be renewed.

BANS BUGGING DEVICES

The bill also outlaws the selling of devices used for eavesdropping or wiretapping, and the disclosure of information gained from illegal methods.

A conversation unlawfully intercepted by the police would be inadmissible as evidence in court, but information gained as a direct or indirect result of the interception could be used.

That means, for example, that an overheard admission of a crime could not be used. But if the suspect says where stolen goods are hidden, the police can make use of that information.

Before an intercepted conversation could be used in court, the accused person must be told of police plans to use the evidence, and get a police copy of the transcript.

The federal solicitor-general and provincial attorneys-general would be required to publish a report each year on authorizations for wiretapping and eavesdropping.

By an amendment to the Crown Liability Act, the bill would provide punitive

SPECK ESCAPES DEATH SENTENCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court reversed today the death sentences of 35 persons, including the electric-chair sentence of Richard F. Speck, who was convicted of murdering eight nurses in Chicago in 1966.

Speck was sentenced to death after a jury in Peoria, Ill., convicted him of killing the nurses, one by one, in their Chicago apartment.

In the plea to save Speck, 27, from the electric chair, his lawyers raised several claims, among them that the exclusion of 50 prospective jurors because they opposed capital punishment denied Speck a fair trial.

The court said then that no death sentence could stand if it was handed down by a jury automatically cleared of persons expressing general conscientious scruples against the death penalty.

CIA 'Sending' Spies Into China'

By The Canadian Press

Two newspapers report that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is sending Laotian hill tribesmen on spying missions from Laos into Communist China to obtain information on troop movements and political developments.

The Philadelphia Bulletin and the Seattle Times publish the report of the alleged CIA activities in a copyrighted story from Vientiane by Arnold Abrams.

The dispatch, as published in The Bulletin, says qualified sources reported that U.S. officials in Laos discounted any potential threat the operations pose to slowly-improving relations between Washington and Peking.

"They believe this threat is small, according to reliable sources, because the operations are not commando raids or sabotage efforts and Americans do not participate in them," The Bulletin says.

Native hill tribesmen are of the same ethnic stock found in southern China. "They have been recruited, equipped and trained by the CIA to infiltrate Chinese territory and obtain information on troop movements, political developments and other data," The Bulletin says.

The newspaper says its sources claim such intelligence missions have long been known to Chinese authorities and that several teams have been captured in recent years.

"Consequently," The Bulletin concludes, "American officials reason that Peking will continue to tolerate these territorial incursions as long as they are conducted solely to gather intelligence."

SUPREME COURT BACKS BOXER

Muhammad Ali a Free Man

Times News Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Supreme Court reversed today the conviction of former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, who was sentenced to five years imprisonment for evading the United States military draft.

In an 8-to-1 decision, the court said the record shows that Ali's "beliefs are founded on tenets of the Muslim religion as he understands them."

The 29-year-old black boxer, also known as Cassius Clay, was reigning heavyweight champion when he refused to take the traditional step toward at draft induction ceremonies April 28, 1967, in Houston.

The following month he was convicted by an all-white jury of six men and six women.

Ali had contended throughout his long legal battle that he should be draft-exempt on grounds that he is a Black Muslim minister.

In Chicago, just after the decision, Ali told reporters: "I've done my celebrating already. I said a prayer to Allah."

The supreme court cited the government's own concession that "there is no dispute that petitioner's professed beliefs were founded on basic tenets of the Muslim religion, as he understood them, and derived in substantial part from his devotion to Allah as the supreme being."

"This concession is clearly correct," the supreme court said.

Ali said: "I thank the Supreme Court for recognizing the sincerity of my belief in myself and my convictions."

NIXON PLANS LONG VIET WAR—BAYH

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "real reason" President Nixon refuses to set a date for ending the Vietnam war is not to secure release of U.S. war prisoners but to keep the present Saigon regime in power, Sen. Birch Bayh (D—Ind.), charged today.

Furthermore, Nixon's "Vietnamization" approach to American disengagement from Indochina may have as its underlying intention "the indefinite continuation of the war," said Bayh, a potential presidential candidate.
